any interterence with slavery, there would be fifteen States in the rebel Confederacy. We extract a passage from Bingham:

Your Constitution is no respector of persons; it forges no fetters for the guittless; it sanctions no unjust tyranny over the mind or body of man. And yet, the stands near me, in the pride of his manhood, may be summoned to the battle field that his country, may not die, that its free Constitution may live; the child of his house, the hope-and pride of his menhood, may be summoned to the battle field that his tution may live; the child of his house, the hope-and pride of his father's martial tread to the same field of honorable death; the house and home-which he leave bening the summoned to be given up in the hour of the fistion's peril, and yet my friend is to be mocked with the ribald jest that the atrooious institution of slavery is more sacred than his life, and the life of his son and the home of his wife and children, may be required to be given up in the hour of the fistion's peril, and yet my friend is to be mocked with the ribald jest that the atrooious institution of slavery is more sacred than his life, and the life of his son and the home of his wife and children, may be required to be given up in the hour of the fistion's peril, and yet my friend is to be mocked with the ribald jest that the atrooious in a situation of slavery is more sacred than his life, and the life of his son and the home of his wife and children. Both are required to be given up in the hour of the fistion's peril, and the ribal peril with a standard the remaining the proposed of the free home and the hearthstone! Judge then, it, by their fruits. From the households of the free, from the hearthstone of the free home and the hearthstone of the free home
