SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 12.

☞ MUCH interesting matter will be found on our first and fourth pages this morning.

Who are the True Friends of Liberty?

On Wednesday, on motion of Mr. VALLANDIGHAM, a question was taken in the House on the bill abolishing slavery in the District of Columbia. The question was, "shall the bill be rejected?" The yeas were 45; nays, 93.

Now, of all the votes in favor of rejecting the bill, there was only one Republican, SHIEL, who, we think, has lately been admitted from some of the border States. All the rest were Democrats, or border State Unionists.

Of all who voted against rejecting, or in favor of the bill, all were Republicans but seven!

Or in other words, 86 Republicans, 4 Democrats, and 3 Union men voted for the bill; and 44 Democrats and Unionists, and 1 Republican voted against it.

Who are the friends of freedom? who are the lovers of slavery? Who would still disgrace our National Capitol by the curse of slavery? and who would free it from that curse, and make it the asylum of freedom?

This decisive vote, and the action in the House on Thursday, laying aside all other bills to take the bill up, shows that it will soon pass by a large majority. Beyond all doubt the President will sign it, and then let us rejoice.

THE New York World is very severe on Generals GRANT and BUELL for permitting the almost disaster at Pittsburgh Landing. It is very evident that we were near having another Ball's Bluff calamity, and were only saved by the heroic bravery and dogged obstinacy of our men. For a while on Sunday, all appeared to be lost, and our troops, driven out of their camp, out-numbered, worn-out, and in almost despair, were in a terribly critical condition. The World says that Gen. GRANT should never have gone on the West side of the river at all, in face of the formidable army of Beauregard, without being sure of the support of BUELL in case of attack. As between the two, the World thinks that BUELL is most to blame. It says:

General Buell just concentrated his forces one day too late. Can he, or any friend of his, remembering the capacities of the Cumberland and Tennessee rivers, pretend that this was not sooner practicable? General Buell is certainly slow. It may be from physical inertness; it may be from lack of moral earnestness. His extraordinary speech to his soldiers when he first took charge of his department, that he "did not know what the war was for," and his continued friendly intercourse with rebel sympathizers, to the minds of some, would indicate the latter, and put him in the same category with Gen. Stone, the supposed author of Ball's Bluff. But we have no desire to canvass the personal bearings of the matter. It is enough for us to know that there has been grevious mismanagement somewhere, which has cost many precious lives, and which came very near bringing upon the good cause a fearful calamity. God be thanked that, in spite of all, the old flag still waves triumphant.

National Thanksgiving.

In accordance with the Proclamation of the President of the United States, to-morrow, Sunday, a special Thanksgiving is to be made for the signal victories which have, of late, attended our land and naval forces. That all officiating clergymen may have a copy of the Proclamation to read on the occasion, we reproduce it, as follows:

A PROCLAMATION

By the President of the United States of America:

It has so pleased the Almighty God to vouchsafe signal victories to the land and naval forces engaged in suppressing an internal rebellion; and, at the same time, to avert from our country the dangers of foreign intervention and invasion. It is therefore recommended to the people of the United States, at their next weekly assemblages in their accustomed places of public worship, which shall occur after notice of this proclamation shall have been read, they especially acknowledge and render thanks to our Heavenly Father for these inestimable blessings; that they then and there implore spiritual consolations in behalf of all who have been brought into affliction by the casualties and calamities of sedition and civil war, and that they reverently invoke the Divine Guidance for spiritual councils to the end that they may speedily result in the restoration of peace, harmony and unity throughout our borders, and hasten the establishment of fraternal relations among all the countries of the earth. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the city of Washington this 10th day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, and of the Independence of the United States the eighty-sixth.

By order of the President,
ABRAHAM LINCOLN.
WM. H. SEWARD, Sec'y of State.

Relief for the Wounded.

From every city of the West the telegraph brings us tidings of the most prompt and energetic movements being made to forward the needed supplies for the wounded. Cincinnati, St. Louis, Louisville, Indianapolis, Springfield, Chicago, Milwaukee, and doubtless many other cities, have already contributed surgeons, nurses, hospital requisites and supplies, and those of them readily accessible by river from the battle-field at Pittsburgh, have sent steamboats to convey as many of the wounded as can be removed, to receive the help and care they require in the hospitals of the cities northward. After all are thus removed that can be, doubtless the number remaining to be cared for on the spot will tax all the resources of the medical department of the army to provide for them,—and hence the importance of forwarding hospital requisites and supplies, at the earliest moment, to the scene of suffering, together with as many surgeons and nurses as can at once respond to the call.

While we read with gratification of the stirrings of the common impulse in men's hearts everywhere, to hasten to the relief of our suffering wounded; when we read of the prompt action of Gov. Morton, of Indiana, and of Gov. Tod and the Legislature of Ohio, of the people of the cities we have named above, and of such men as Colonel Hammond, of Chicago, Superintendent of the C. B. & Q. R. R., who dispatched a steamboat to Pittsburgh immediately on receipt of the intelligence of the battle; when we read of these with gratification, surely that feeling is heightened to know that we have like noble and generous men among ourselves, who are making the most liberal and beneficent appropriations of their money and their time, to carry relief to the wounded sufferers on the banks of the Tennessee.

MAYOR HATCH, of Cincinnati, has instituted "a suit for the recovery of $30,000," against the proprietors of the Cincinnati Commercial, —being the estimated amount of damages sustained by him in consequence of the truly damaging facts and comments published by that journal, regarding the riot at WENDELL PHILLIPS' lecture at the Opera House in that city. It remains to be seen whether a jury will agree with the Mayor, and deal with this as a case of injured innocence.

FROM NEWBERN.

THE CONTRABANDS—INCIDENTS OF CAMP LIFE.

The following letter from Newbern is from Mr. Vincent Colyer, of New York, whose name says the Evening Post, is familiar to many of our readers in connection with the army work of the Young Men's Christian Association of New York. It gives a most interesting picture of affairs in that region:

NEWBERN, N. C., April 2, 1862.

Dear B——: I have now upon my hands, to feed, find shelter and occupation for, full one thousand colored people—men, women and children. I had two hundred and thirty able-bodied men to breakfast at my house this morning. Each of these men is to receive eight dollars a month, board and clothes. The general sent an order for me to employ as many as I could find, up to the number of five thousand, at the above wages.

I have been appointed "Superintendent of the Poor," as a Newbern paper, which I send you, will show; and under this heading I am doing the work. The men are mostly employed in the trenches—building a line of earthworks to protect the town on the west or land side, in the direction of Goldsborough. In the duties of my new office I have to see to and supply the wants of the suffering population—the townspeople—whites as well as blacks. I have some sixty families of the whites; and these are not all there are, as some go to the "commissary's depot" for provisions.

Among the applicants for aid I have some five or six wives of soldiers in the Manassas (now Richmond) rebel army. What do you think of that? They were starving, and we had either to feed them or act worse than heathens. Is not that getting in the rear of the "enemy," when we are in his home supporting his wives and children?

Yesterday I had an application for support from the widow of a late United States Major General, the wife of an officer who had served in the Mexican war, and she was a daughter of a Colonel in the war of 1812. At the very same time there was a poor escaped slave knocking at the door for the very same assistance.

Many of the white people are very poor and ignorant, and I think, the most pitiable objects of charity I have ever seen. As a white man, I am ashamed to say they are really more abject and degraded than the blacks. I never realized so much before, the dignity that the mere ability and willingness to labor gives a man. The blacks having always been forced to work, although lazy, generally ask and find work; while too often, the white, having been taught to regard work as degrading, allows himself to sit in laziness and sink down into utter helplessness.

The consequence can easily be imagined; in a time like the present, he who can and will work is getting it to do, and with it its reward, prosperity and plenty; and they who will not (or "cannot") become dependent. Most of the negro women get work at the hospitals, washing and the peddling of cakes, and earn a support in this way. We gave them a lift at first with a few pounds of flour, and in a few immediately on their arrival, they have been able to find a house to live in. When they arrive it is usually in groups of ten or twenty, often all from one plantation.

They had travelled, in some cases, long distances. I had one poor negro of about twenty-five who had come over sixty miles. His feet were all bloody, and the first thing he could do after he had reported his name for work and had a breakfast, was to lie down and sleep; for two or three days he was quite sick. At the end of that time he went to work, and is now doing his best to support the United States government with "de shobel and de hoe." He gave valuable information to the government.

I get no pay, and the only money I have for expenses is the money collected from the artist fund and the Church of St. George, with some from Brooklyn.

Two o'clock saw me up this morning, and I write this letter as the morning star is beginning to shine. I have a house surrounded with trees and roses, though I am not to sleep on a bed of the latter, as the fact that a "Newberner" threatens to blow up my d——d house, because I was drilling the niggers, proves. God bless you.

Important from Washington.

The following are from the special dispatches from Washington to the New York Evening Post:

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The Finance Committee of the Senate will recommend several important changes in the Tax bill.

Fifty fifteen-inch Dahlgren guns are to be immediately cast at Pittsburgh for the armament of the new batteries of the Monitor pattern. Hitherto but very few of these heavy pieces have been made.

Secretary Welles has instructed the flag-officer of the naval force at Fortress Monroe to notify the Postmaster at that point whenever any vessel leaves for the Burnside expedition, so that the mails can be sent regularly.

The Senate Finance Committee will report the Tax bill in ten days.

There is considerable opposition in the Senate Military Committee to the confirmation of Governor Morgan, of New York, as a Major-General.

Senator Wilson, of Massachusetts, has introduced in the Senate a number of important amendments to the Fugitive Slave Law, establishing trial by jury for the runaways, abolishing the cruel features of the present law, and debarring rebels from recovering slaves under any circumstances.

Secretary Chase, Captain Dahgren and others returned to Washington to-day from a trip to Indian Head. They did not go to Fortress Monroe.

Secretary Seward will probably leave for Corinth, Mississippi, to-night.

Gen. Sherman, who is now in this city, will soon leave for the West.

The New York Seventh Volunteer Cavalry has been paid off and discharged, and is on its way home. The government has more regiments of cavalry than it needs.

No official dispatch has been sent to the battle at Pittsburgh Landing have yet been received at the War Department. It is not doubted, however, that our troops have won a great victory, and that Grant is in occupation of Corinth.

Senator Lane has received several dispatches from the West, and is not satisfied that Major General Wallace, his brother-in-law, was killed at the battle in Tennessee. It is supposed that the General Wallace who is reported among the dead is the Brigadier General of that name from Illinois.

General Grant, the Victor of Pittsburgh Landing.

Major General Grant, who enjoys the classical prenomen of Ulysses, was born at Point Pleasant, in Clairmont county, Ohio, April 27, 1822. He entered the West Point Academy in his 17th year, and graduated with honors in 1843. He served in the Mexican war, under General Taylor, at Palo Alto, Resaca de la Palma and Monterey, and was with General Scott at the capture of Mexico. His bravery had in the meantime raised him from the position of second lieutenant to that of captain in the Fourth Infantry of the regular army. Leaving the army in 1854, he settled in Missouri, but in 1860 moved to Galena, Illinois. At the beginning of the present war he was appointed Colonel of the Twenty-first Illinois volunteers, and on the 17th of last May he was promoted to a Brigadier-Generalship. He has seen active service since then in Missouri, and did some service to the State by occupying Paducah, and by stopping communications and supplies to the rebels by the way of the Tennessee river. When Foote reduced Fort Henry, General Grant's division, which had accompanied the flotilla, marched over to invest Fort Donelson; and Grant was the commanding General by whom the victory of Donelson was gained. He was made Major General for this. There were afterwards some rumors against his character, but he has gallantly set these at rest by the determined and able conduct of the battle near Savannah, where we had great interests at stake, and, as it proved, in worthy hands. Honor to General Grant.

Hymn of Victory.

"Glory to Thee, in Thine omnipotence,
O Lord, who art our shield and our defence,
And dost dispense,
As seemeth best to Thine unerring will,
(Which passeth mortal sense,)
The lot of victory still.
Edging sometimes with blight the sword unjust,
And bowing to the dust
The rightful cause, that so much seeming ill
May thine appointed purposes fulfill;
Sometimes, as in this late auspicious hour,
For which our hymns we raise,
Making the wicked feel Thy present power,
Glory to Thee, and praise,
Almighty God, by whom our strength was given!
Glory to Thee, O Lord of Earth and Heaven!"

SOUTHEY.

The Union Triumph in Connecticut.

If anything were needed to encourage Mr. Lincoln in pursuing the policy laid down in his emancipation message, the result of Monday's election in the State of Connecticut, which is a greater triumph for the friends of the Union than we yesterday supposed, should supply that need. His message is heartily approved by the great mass of the people of Connecticut, or the candidates of the party by which the government is supported could not have received such large majorities. Gov Buckingham, it now appears, is re-elected by a majority between seven and ten thousand; not a single candidate of the party which seeks to make concessions to the South is elected to the Senate, and the friends of the Union in the House of Representatives are to the peace party as nearly four to one.

The men who have made the opposition stand in Connecticut and have sustained so utter a defeat, belong to the same class with Mr. Vallandigham and that little knot of members of Congress who vote with him against all members which give vigor to the war—against necessary appropriations, against taxes, against every thing, in short, which the government needs to strengthen its hands, and for every thing which they imagine may involve it in embarrassment, and all this by way of keeping together the democratic party. The experience of the present week has shown them that they are pursuing a course which is likely to make their party so small that there will be very little trouble in keeping it together. —N. Y. Eve. Post.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE WAR.—The country will never cease thanking President Lincoln for assuming the active command-in-chief of our armies, when it shall come to know, as it will in due time, the dangers which he has rescued it from. If it were proper, I could tell you and your readers how, even in the past ten days, the President's watchful eye has warded off instant dangers of the most threatening kind. But let us wait till after the rebellion is crushed, and then we may talk over the past without fear of the future. Meantime, let us rejoice that the President stands upon the walls, assisted by the War Committee, and that he has an eye to the within as well as the without.—Cor of N. Y. Evening Post.

GEN. POPE.—This energetic and victorious general is a native of Illinois, and a son of Judge Pope. He is the son-in-law of Hon. Valentine B. Horton, the distinguished member of the U. S. House of Representatives from Ohio. It has been reported that Gen. Pope is a nephew of Hon. John Bell, of Tennessee, but that is a mistake. Two of Mrs. John Bell's sons, by her first marriage, married two of Gen. Pope's sisters. That is the precise family connection between the Popes and the Bells.—Nat. Republican.

SUNDAY BATTLES.—The battle of Pittsburgh Landing was brought on on Sunday morning by the rebels, and they, the attacking party, were beaten. It is said that every battle fought on Sunday in this war has been lost by that side whose attack brought on the engagement on that day.

THE SCHOOL HARMONIUM.

POWERFUL AND CHEAP—LOUD VOICED AND LOW PRICED. PRICE $80.

Having been repeatedly urged to devise an instrument capable of greater power of tone than the Melodeon, which could be afforded at a similar cost, the undersigned are happy to say that they have succeeded in the manufacture of a new style Harmonium, which can hardly fail to meet a very general demand.

The School Harmonium possesses full volume as well as a good quality of tone; is small in size, very compact, easily moved about, and of an exceedingly durable construction. It contains two sets of reeds, and an effective swell, and is much louder than the most powerful "Double Reed" Melodeon. The case is strongly built of oak or black walnut, oil-finished. Great attention has been made at ornament in its external finish, a chief aim in its manufacture being to furnish an instrument possessing much power and good quality of tone, for a small sum of money.

Although most especially designed for school use, the new instrument is equally well adapted to the musical requirements of vestries, chapels, lecture rooms, village churches and public halls.

On examination of the SCHOOL-HARMONIUM is respectfully invited from Committees and Teachers of Public and Private Schools, Academies and Seminaries, Superintendents of Sabbath Schools, Teachers of Singing Schools, Pastors, Organists, Choristers and all others interested in the development and improvement of musical taste amongst the people. It will, if permitted, prove a powerful auxiliary of the advancement of musical culture, especially among children. MASON & HAMLIN, Manufacturers,

ISAAC TAYLOR,

Of the late firms of D. GREGG & CO., and GREGG & TAYLOR, both of which have been dissolved, begs leave to inform city and country merchants that he has opened an entirely NEW STOCK OF DRY GOODS AND VARIETIES, at his warehouse, No. 129 WOOD STREET, four doors above Fifth, where he will be much pleased to see his friends and customers of the old houses, and continue his business relations with them, pledging himself by the favorable prices of his goods, and eleven years active experience in the trade, together with strict attention to the wants of customers, to merit their patronage. The stock is entirely new, consisting of almost every article in the Dry Goods and Variety line, and has been purchased since the reduction in prices, and on the most favorable terms, for cash. City and Country Merchants will find it to their interest to examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere. Merchant Tailors are particularly invited to call.
