THE BATTLE OF PITTSBURGH LANDING.

OFFICIAL REPORTS.

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF WEST TENN.,
Pittsburgh, April 9, 1862.

To Capt. N. H. McLean, Assistant Adjutant General Department of Mississippi, St. Louis:

CAPTAIN—It becomes my duty again to report another battle, fought between two great armies, one contending for the maintenance of the best government ever devised, and the other for its destruction. It is pleasant to record the success of the army contending for the former principle.

On Sunday morning our pickets were attacked and driven in by the enemy. Immediately the five divisions stationed at this place were drawn up in line of battle to meet them. The battle soon waxed warm on the left and centre, ranging at times to all parts of the line. The most continuous firing of musketry and artillery ever heard on this continent was kept up until nightfall, the enemy having forced our entire line to fall back nearly half way from their camps to the Landing.

At a late hour in the afternoon a desperate effort was made by the enemy to turn our left, and get possession of the Landing, transports, &c. This point was guarded by the gunboats Tyler, and Lexington, Captains Gwynn and Shirkurson; commanding four twenty pound parrott guns, and a battery of rifled guns. As there is a deep and impassable ravine, for artillery or cavalry, and very difficult for infantry at this point, no troops were stationed here except the necessary artillerists and small infantry force for their support.

Just at this moment the advance of Major-General Beell's column, a part of the division of Gen. Nelson, arrived, and the two Generals both being present, an advance was immediately made upon the point of attack, and the enemy were soon driven back. In this repulse, much is due to the presence of the gunboats Tyler and Lexington, and their able commanders, Captains Gwinn and Shirkurson.

During the night the divisions under Gens. Crittenden and McCook arrived.

Gen. Lew. Wallace, at Cramp's Landing, six miles below, was ordered at an early hour in the morning to hold his division in readiness to be moved in any direction to which it might be ordered. At about 11 o'clock an order was delivered to move it up to Pittsburgh, but owing to its being led by a circuitous route, did not arrive in time to take part in Sunday's action.

During the night all was quiet, and feeling that great moral advantage would be gained by becoming the attacking party, an advance was ordered as soon as day dawned. The result was the gradual repulse of the enemy at all points of the line, from morning until probably 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when it became evident the enemy was retreating. Before the close of the action the advance of Gen. T. J. Woods' division arrived, in time to take part in the action. My force was too much fatigued from two hard days' fighting and exposure in the open air, and to a drenching rain during the intervening night, to pursue immediately. Night closed in cloudy and with a heavy rain, making the roads impracticable for artillery, by next morning. Gen. Sherman, however, followed the enemy, finding that the main part of their army had retreated in good order. Hospitals of the enemy's wounded were found all along the road, as far as the pursuit was made. Dead bodies of the enemy and many graves were also found.

I enclose herewith the report of Gen. Sherman, which will explain more fully the result of the pursuit. Of the part taken by each separate command, I cannot take special notice in this report, but will do so more fully when the reports of the division commanders are handed in. Gen. Beell, coming on the field with a distinct army long under his command, and which did such efficient service, commanded by himself in person on the field, will be much better able to notice those of his command who particularly distinguished themselves, than I possibly can. I feel it a duty, however, to a gallant and able officer, Brigadier General Sherman, to make special mention. He not only was with his command during the entire of the two days' action, but displayed great judgment and skill in the management of his men. Although severely wounded in the hand on the first day, his place was never vacant. He was again wounded, and had three horses killed under him. In making this mention of a gallant officer, no disparagement is intended to other division commanders. Major Gens. John A. McClernand and Wallace, and Brig. Gens. S. A. Hurlburt, B. M. Wallace, Prentiss and W. H. L. Wallace, all of whom maintained their places with credit to themselves and the cause.

Gen. Prentiss was taken prisoner in the first day's action; and Gen. W. H. L. Wallace severely, and, probably, mortally wounded. His Assistant Adjutant General, Capt. Wm. McMichael, is missing—probably taken prisoner. My personal staff are deserving of particular mention—they having been engaged during the entire two days in carrying orders to every part of the field. It consists of Col. J. D. Webster, Chief of Staff, Lieut. Col. J. B. McPherson, Chief of Engineers, assisted by Lieuts. W. L. B. Jenney and W. Kasse, Capt. J. A. Rawlings, Assistant Adjutant General W. S. Hillyer, W. R. Rawley and C. B. Lagow, Aids-de-Camp, Col. G. Pride, Volunteer Aid, and Capt. J. P. Hawkins, who accompanied me upon the field. The Medical Department, under the direction of Surgeon Hewitt, Medical Director, showed great energy in providing for the wounded, and in getting them from the field, regardless of danger. Col. Webster was placed in special charge of all the artillery, and was constantly upon the field. He displayed, as he has always done heretofore, both skill and bravery. At least in one instance he was the means of placing an entire regiment in a position of doing the most valuable service, and where it would not have been but for his exertions.

Lieut. Col. McPherson, attached to my staff as Chief of Engineers, deserves more than passing notice for his activity and courage. All the grounds beyond our camps for miles have been reconnoitered by him, and plans carefully prepared under his supervision, giving accurate information of the nature of approaches to our lines. During the two days' battle he was constantly in the saddle, leading troops wherever their services were required. During the engagement he had one horse shot under him.

The country will have to mourn the loss of many brave men who fell at the battle of Pittsburgh, or Shiloh, more properly. Each loss in killed and wounded will be known in a day or two. At present I can only give it approximately at 1,500 killed and 3,500 wounded. The loss of artillery was great, many pieces being disabled by the enemy's shots, and some losing all their horses and many men. There were probably not less than two hundred horses killed.

The loss of the enemy in killed and left upon the field was greater than ours. Of wounded an estimate cannot be made, as many of them must have been sent to Corinth and other points. The enemy suffered terribly from demoralization and desertion.

A flag of truce was sent in to-day from Beauregard. I enclose herewith a copy of the correspondence. I am, respectfully,

Your obedient servant,
U. S. GRANT,
Major General Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF MISS.,
Monday, April 6, 1862.

SIR: At the close of the conflict of yesterday my forces being exhausted by the extraordinary length of time during which they were engaged with your forces, on that and the preceding day, and it being apparent that you had received and were still receiving reinforcements, I felt it my duty to withdraw my troops from the immediate scene of conflict. Under these circumstances, in accordance with the usages of war, I shall transmit this, under a flag of truce, to ask permission to send a mounted party to the battle field of Shiloh for the purpose of giving decent interment to my dead. Certain gentlemen wishing to avail themselves of this opportunity to remove the remains of their sons and friends, I must request for them the privilege of accompanying the burial party, which in this connection I deem it proper to say I am asking only what I have extended to your own countrymen under similar circumstances. Respectfully, General,

Your obedient servant,
G. T. BEAUREGARD, General Comd'g.

To Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant, U. S. A., Commanding United States forces near Pittsburgh Landing.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY IN THE FIELD,
Pittsburgh, April 6th, 1862.

To Gen. G. T. Beauregard, Commanding the Army of the Mississippi, Mor.

Your [illegible] of to-day is just received. Owing to the [illegible] I deemed it advisable to have all the dead of both parties buried immediately. Heavy details were made for this purpose, and it is now accomplished. There cannot, therefore, be any necessity of admitting within our lines the parties you desired to send on the ground asked. I shall always be glad to extend any courtesy consistent with duty, and especially so when dictated by humanity.

I am, General, respectfully,
your obedient servant,
U. S. GRANT,
Major-General Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH DIVISION,
April 12, 1862.

To Major-General Grant, Commanding Army in Field:

SIR: With the cavalry placed at my command, and two brigades of my fatigued troops, I went this morning out on the Corinth road, to one of another of the abandoned camps of the enemy. The road was lined with hospital flags for their protection. At all we found more or less wounded and dead. At the forks of the road I found the head of General Wood's division at that point, and I ordered the cavalry to examine both roads, and found the enemy's cavalry. Col. Dickey, of the Illinois cavalry, asked for reinforcements. I ordered Gen. Wood to advance, at the head of his column, cautiously, on the left hand road, whilst I conducted the head of the 3d brigade of the 5th division up the right hand road. About half a mile from the forks was a clear field, through which I passed, and immediately beyond a space of two hundred yards of fallen timber, and beyond an extensive camp. The enemy's cavalry could be seen in this camp; and after a reconnoissance, I ordered the two advance companies of the Ohio 77th, Col. Hildebrand, to deploy as skirmishers, and the regiment itself forward into line, with an interval of one hundred yards. In this order I advanced cautiously until the skirmishers were engaged, taking it for granted that this disposition would clear the camp. I held Colonel Dickey's 4th Illinois cavalry ready to charge. The enemy's cavalry came down boldly to the charge, breaking through the line of skirmishers, when the regiment of infantry, without cause, broke, threw away their guns and fled. The ground was admirably adapted to a defense of infantry against cavalry, being miry and thickly covered with fallen timber. As the regiment of infantry broke, Dickey's cavalry began to charge their centre, and fell into disorder. I instantly sent orders to the rear for the brigade to form a line of battle, which was promptly executed. Broken infantry and cavalry rallied on this line, and as the enemy's cavalry came to it, our cavalry in turn charged and drove them from the field. I advanced the entire brigade upon the same ground, and sent Col. Dickey's cavalry a mile further on the road. On examining the ground which had been occupied by the 77th Ohio, we found fifteen dead and about twenty-five wounded. I sent for wagons, and had all the wounded carried back to camp, and the dead buried, and also the whole camp to be destroyed.

Here we found much ammunition for field pieces, which was destroyed; also two caissons and a general hospital with about 280 Confederates wounded and about 50 of our own. Not having the facilities of bringing them off, Col. Dickey, by my order, took a surrender signed by medical director Lyle and attending surgeons, and pledge to report themselves to you as prisoners of war; also a pledge that our wounded would be carefully attended and surrendered to us to-morrow as soon as ambulances could go out. I enclose the within document and request you to cause to be sent out wagons or ambulances for the wounded of ours to-morrow; also that wagons be ordered out to bring in the many tents belonging to us, which were pitched all along the road for miles. I did not destroy them as I knew the enemy could not move them. The roads are very bad and are strewn with abandoned wagons, ambulances and limber boxes.

The enemy has succeeded in carrying off the guns, but has crippled his batteries by abandoning the hind limber boxes of at least twenty guns.

I am satisfied that the enemy's infantry and cavalry passed Lick creek this morning, travelling all last night, and that he left behind all his cavalry, which has protected his retreat, but the signs of confusion and disorder mark the whole road. The check sustained by the fall of the fallen timbers delayed our advance, so that night came upon us before the wounded were provided for and the dead buried. Our troops being fagged out by three days hard fighting, exposure and privations, I ordered them back to camp, where all now are. I have the honor to be your obedient,

BRIGADIER GENERAL W. T. SHERMAN,
Commanding Division.

FROM NEW ORLEANS.—A gentleman long connected with railroads in the South, was in the city yesterday, having recently left New Orleans. He reports the condition of affairs there, as exceedingly discouraging to the rebel cause. The people are suffering for the necessaries of life. In business there was nothing doing worth naming. Citizens were distrustful of each other. Disloyalty to the Confederacy was increasing, and there was an unmistakable desire for the re-establishment of National authority in the Crescent City.—Cin. Gazette.

River News.

The river was about stationary last evening, with nearly seven feet by the marks. The weather during the day was clear and pleasant, and all that could possibly be desired for the transaction of out-door business.....The arrivals include the Science from Gallipolis, and Marmora, from Nashville. The latter boat had a full cargo, the bulk of which is destined for the East. The Ida May, from Cincinnati, and Adriatic and Westmoreland, from St. Louis, are due here this morning.....The Leonora left rather suddenly on Tuesday night, flying light. The Prima Donna, for St. Louis, with all the freight she could take, and crowded with passengers, cleared last evening.

The Louisville Journal, of Monday, says:

The river at this point is still rising but very slowly, so that no danger is anticipated to the property in the Evansville Journal, of Saturday, says the river is still coming up, but very slowly and it has been found necessary to move large quantities of freight which had been placed on the wharf for shipment. The accumulation of freight at that point has become very great, in consequence of the large number of boats that have been pressed in the Government service.

The J. H. Done came down from Louisville, and went around to New Harmony for a load of wheat for Pittsburgh. The Com. Perry arrived there on Friday, having on board some three hundred wounded soldiers, chiefly from Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky regiments.

The Nashville Banner, of Saturday, says:

The river is rising very rapidly, and bids fair to be again as high as it was six weeks ago. All the boats we named yesterday have left, with the exception of the Jacob Ewan, which is being laden with cotton, the Gen. Lovell, heavily laden with commissary stores, and the Hartford, a large flat is also filled with hay, probably for the Tennessee river.

FOR THE UPPER MISSISSIPPI RIVER—The Arago, Capt. Golding, and Fred. Lorenz, Capt. Mason, are announced to leave as above forthwith. The Arago will be ready to leave this evening or to-morrow.

FOR CINCINNATI AND LOUISVILLE—The Key West, Capt. Evans, will positively get off to-day. The Marmora, Capt. C. L. Brennan, is next on the list, and will leave on Saturday.

FOR WHEELING—The Minerva, Capt. Gordon, is the regular Wheeling packet for to-day, leaving at noon.
