FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 25.

Much interesting matter will be found on our first and fourth pages this morning. Confiscation in the House.

On Tuesday, the House agreed to adopt Mr. BINGHAM's substitute for the pending bill for the confiscation of rebel property, by a vote of 62 to 48. Our members, Messrs. Moornsan and McKnight, voted iness to support some judicious measure of punishing rebellion by confiscation. The came up, it was tabled, by a vote of 54 to 48. A running debate followed, which special penalties against the leaders; and to authorize the military power, as soon it enters any district, to hold, as Halleck did in Missouri, the property of even the penceable secessionists responsible for the outrages committed on loyal persons. Nothing short of this—unless it be the armed extermination of the malignant the armed extermination of the malignants will restrain their atrocious practices and restore a tolerable tranquility. Make the infatuated zealots aware of the dread penalties they incur by their crimes, and they will begin to reflect on the conse-

Our Army in the South-West. A letter from General Curtis' headquarters at Forsyth, Missouri, dated April 14, published in the St. Louis Republican, gives It is heart-rending to hear the tales of this account of our forces in the south-west: "The first division of the army, under Acting Brigadier General Osterhaus, and the past year have been a protracted agony.

Every day exposed to insult, every night lying down under apprehensions that their remain at this place, and General Curtis roofs might be burned over their heads. All division, and Acting Brigadier General Laws and intercourse was suspended. The roofs might be burned over their heads. All trade and intercourse was suspended. The mills were burned; plantations rooted up; the barns and storehouses rifled. One year ago the commerce of the St. John's river was worth five millions of dollars annually; it is now worth nothing. The supplies of colothing were long since exhausted, and the supplies of food are drawing to a close. No man's life, unless he were a blatant revolutionist, was secure for a moment. The able-bodied were hurried into the ranks, the feeble and aged narrowly watched, and often without the slightest pretence despoiled or shot. In short, the stories would be incredible, told of any civilized community, if we did not receive them from the mouths of educated and respectable persons—lawyers and merchants, who have always borne the highest character.

Yet, in the face of—such facts, Congress lingers over hills designed and fitted to bring the miscreants who have perpetrated such ourages to condign punishment. It must be obvious to every one, that no scheme of conciliation will ever restore these misguided—fanatics to their duty. Nothing less than gunpowder and they not these of insguided—fanatics to their duty, a strange inconsistency induces us to withhold the second remedy. We do not scruple to shoot down two or three thousand men at a time, in order te teach them obediened to the laws and restore prosperity and means but wad he begint to shoot down two or three thousand men at a time, in order te teach them obediened to the laws and restore prosperity and means but wad he begint to shoot down two or three thousand men at a time, in order te teach them obediened to the laws and restore prosperity and means but wad he begint to the laws and restore prosperity and miles of the laws and restore the first the river.
