RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE. The Presbyterian calls attention to the importance of establishing missions in every large town and city, for the benefit of the neglected_classes of society. It cites the London City Mission as being one of the most useful and most prosperous of the benevolent institutions in that great city. It then gives in detail the operations of a mission in the city of Brunswick New Jersey, to show what may be accomplished in every town or city in our own country. It says this mission has been in churches, with 88,650 members. Of these, 2,015 were baptized in the last year. operation nearly one year, where there is population of 11,000-8,500 Protestants and 2,500 Roman Catholics.
