CLIMATE INFLUENCES. Too loth of May is the extreme date when it is safe for whites to be exposed in certain localities, and even on Hilton Head the ordinary duties (lessened as they have been by General Hanter's ramitary prenautions,) have caused a great deal of sickness. It is clear that, if the war lasts, we must profit by the example of 'Englabd in the East and West Indies, and in bot reason keep our white troops only for an emergency, and put as much of the needful work and exposure as possible upon our black fellow-critices, now made free as a military necessity. REW FROM CRAILISTON!* Returning with lighter hearts from our visit to the Zouaves d'Afrique we were met on the wharf with the good news of the evacuation of Norfo. Indicating as it does the despair of the rebels as the holding Virginia. This was brought by Robert Small, the pilot of the little steamer Plajhers, which has been employed in transferring siege guns from one point to another around Charleston. He has long been planning this movement, but delayed it a little to brish game authentic good news with him; this had in the columns of the Charleston Courier of Monday, 12th. He brought with him his family and those of his crew, and several valuable siege guns, including a fine eight-linch rifle.
