The Evacuation of Corinth. Although Beauregard got away from Corinth, with his forces, and the principal part of his munitions, his loss of men and material will be enormous, before he can get his army together and in fighting trim for some distance, and then strike off into the interior of Alabama, or he may go to Montgomery, or to some of the Georgia railroads, to be in the reach of supplies.

following Besuregard into the interior, at least during the sickly season. Boonville, where Col. Elliott destroyed portion of the Ohio and Mobile Railroad, is about thirty miles south of Corinth. Granada, where the Memphis publishers have moved their presses, is about one hundred miles from Memphis, on the Mississippi and Tennessee Railroad, at its junction with the Mississippi Central Railroad

The Dutch government will grant two millions of guilders per annum for emigration.

In another Corinth, as fast as steam could carry them! But the General did not know it. The only men in, near, or about the cell camp, who are friendly to our cause—the only men in all that Southern country who are willing to fight for us—the ouly men who are willing to give information of rebel doings—in a word, our only reliable friends—the slaves—have been fought ways from our lines with the boxposts!

A correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune, from Richmond, Sunday, May 25, says: Returned to camp, and passing from regiment, I hear a rumor that gradually covers me with a cold sweat. It is said that an order has come that all the provisions, baggage, tents, wagons, and property of every description, save arms, ammunition, the cooked rations, and the knapsacks on the soldier backs, and the medical stores and ambulances for the wounded, be sent back immediately to the cother side of the Chiokahominy, and there pasked under a strong guard. Officers and men were rained on with impartial equality all night. Colonels grawled under slabs of bark inclined against logs—shelters attempted of boughs and branches received alike captains, privates and licutenants, and treacherously betrayed them all to the water. The army is soaked and savage this morning; and, worse than all, the borrowing and beging of bread has begun. The condition of the single road in which supplies are, and only can be hauled up here from the T-mile distant railroad station, may be imagined by all so unfortunate as to know Virginia after a trailroad station, may be imagined by all so unfortunate as to know Virginia after a term than the size of the state of the size of t

The pilots of the late Confederate States steamer Virginia, request a suspension of public opinion as to the statements respecting themselves, which appeared on Monday morning in the published official report of Commodore Tatnall, detailing the loss of that invaluable steamer. The pilots state that the investigation, which will doubtless be had in a few days, will put the matter in its proper light. In this connection, says the Petessburg Express, we may add that evidences, which cannot be doubted, reach us daily of the terror which the Virginia created with the entire Yankee fleet. The enemy themselves being the witnesses, she PRIMARY MEETINGS will be held in the various Wards, Boroughs and Townships of the County, at the usual places of bolding elections in each Pre-cinct, on SATURDAY, JUNE 21sz, 1862, for the enemy themselves being the witnesses, she could have passed Old Point and captured every vessed in the Chesapeake bay or York river without resistence. What hope can a people have when such an engine of war-fare is wantonly destroyed.

the West, since the Fort Donelson victory, of that region will fall into our hands, as it is impossible for the enemy to make another stand within fifty or a hundred miles south, if even there. It is most probable that he will go down the Ohieand Mobile Railroad, for some distance, and then strike off into censorship, we shall have none until our letters arrive—touching the condition in betters arrive—touching the condition in which Gen. Pope found the ground lately occupied by the enemy; but we dare assert, even now, that the old farce of wooden in the interior of the enemy's country will beyond these, and a few well-gnawed beef cause our Government to hesitate about bones, half a cord of old boots, and about bones, nait a cord of old books, and about enough worn out duds to set up a second-hand-clothes store, or a rag-carpet manu-factory, we shall have no trophies. Mil-lions of money and more than twenty thousand lives! Are the spoils of the "bloodless victory" worth the outlay? It will be found, when the true history is written, that this evacuation has been go-ing on possibly for a fortnight—the Com-mander of the Federal army—the illustri-ous author of Order No. 3—meanwhile in blank ignorance of what his foo was doing.

The whistling of locometives, and the rumbling of trains, the hearing of which filled newspaper correspondents and general officers full of the idea that reinforcements colonies will be set free on the 1st day of for the enemy were pouring in by tens of July, 1863, under the following conditions:

Also, the rimor is that three or more additional bridges are being hurriedly constructed across the Chickahominy. And it was as easy to see the courage and spirit of the men fall under it as to see mercury fall in a thermometer. I saw it and felt it, as I rode through the regiments, and I prayed in my saddle for lightning to fire every, wagon in the army, and to burn every bridge of retreat across the Peninsula rivers. Bull Ran was a defeat, in part, because the Long Bridge and Washington were right behind it.

Here blows the wind, to, strongly in the East. It will rain to-morrow night. Unless sheltered beneath the roofs of Richmond, thousands and thsusand of the best men in the nation will lie down in the mat, and make their beds in the wet uniforms in which they marched. Whole regiments of the best blood in the North and West will go for 30 or 40 hours without food—for after a heavy storm, the-transportation of this great army cannot possibly be got. in great army cannot possibly be got in the sam of the fark over the Chickahominy, by the single bottomless Virginia road in time to feed these noble men.
