The Convention will amemble on MONDAY JUNE 23, 1862, at the COURT HOUSE, at 11 e clock a. m., to nominate a PRESIDENT JUDGE OF last Friday, and when we got within two COMMON FLEAS, Ac., an ASSOCIATE LAW miles of our destination we heard cannon-judge of common pleas, Ac., and a COUNTY of the Major ordered the baggage to converte the common of the state of the common of the state of the common of the state of the common of time to lay a broad foundation for future ages of freedom and prosperity. This Congress may have a fame as immortal as the undying ages, if it goes on and finishes the great work it has begun. A revolution is going on unequalled in importance i the history of any nation. Let Congress remain to give force, power, permanence to these great events, and to shape them out, to become the precedent, the law, the Constitution of coming centuries. Let then lay their hands on this accursed fugitive slave law, and while complying with the n accordance with justice and humanity and not in obedience to the imperious mandates of brutal slave masters.

SIGRU'S RAPID MARCH.

The troops ordered forward yesterday consisted of two brigades. The first under Brigadier-General Cooper, and the second under General Slough—the man-who marched the celebrated Colorado Regiment eight hundred miles into New Mexico, and turned the tide of affairs in that territory of the District of Columbia, in punishment of crimes, the Secretary of the Interior has asked him to review his opinion. He is the more inclined to this, because he is constrained to believe that it never was the intention of Congress that the volunteer soldiers who have so generously stood forth in the defence of their country should, for any act made criminal by military law, be subject, ster Colonel Canby had lost a battle, and was shit up without resources in a fort.
To-day, at three P. M., Sigel was within five miles of Winchester. His troops were evidently pleased with their new commander, from the goaheadativeness shown by him, and into them he had, infused his own surface. He is to the limit in which the same against the late to the limit of the late of visions there is a wide, deep-seated spirit of vengeanea, which will, if let loose, to tally blot the town from existence. Shields men, it is said, are disposed in the same way, as many of their sick and wounded were brutally murdered. The only column, then, which has no revengeful feeling to indulge, is Fremont's.

Great confusion of ideas prevails at this point as to where Jackson is. Fremont's offering him battle and his declension of the challenge, the mere akirmish between Fremont's advance and his rear, seem to safford no clue to Jackson's line of retreat. It seems evident that he has escaped the concentration of forces brought to bear inpon him from almost every point of the

It seems evident that he has escaped the concentration of forces brought to bear upon him from almost every point of the compass. His movement towards Harper's Ferry was intended to prevent any further reinforcements being sent to McClellan at the Richmond. He has a predatory expedition corps which moves rapidly.

WILLIAMSPORT, Md., May 26, 1862.

Dear Father and Mother: You have probably heard by this time of the three days fighting from Strasburg and Front Royal to Martinsburg. Our company and com-pany B were ordered to Front Royal, in the mountains, twelve miles from Strasburg, ARE STRESTORMY JUGGE OF last Kriday, and when we got within two

The Fugitive Slave Law.

Senator Wilson has introduced an admirable bill into the Senate modifying the fugitive slave law. His bill permits only loyal masters to lay claim to a runaway slave under the law, and even then the fogilive slave law. His bill permits only loyal masters to lay, claim to a runaway in loyal masters to lay, claim to a runaway stare most the best horse that I ever rode, and I started back. I came out on the slave must have a jury trial, both slave and master being permitted to give evidence in the case. These are the most important points of the reforms he proposes, and such an amendment to the existing law would make it less harsh and unbearable, and would set many slaves free, in its practical operation, who are now caught by rebel and dishonest masters.

The country expects this Congress to modify the fugitive slave law. It was forced upon the country among the compromise measures of 1800, and was received with detestation and scorn by the people of the free States, and was submitted to with a very low of the free States, and was submitted to with a very low of the free States, and was submitted to with a very low of the free States, and was submitted to pollute the statute book an hour longer than can be avoided. We hope Congress will not adjourn the present agastion without wiping out this gross insult to the North, this stain upon the character of a free people.

Some of the members are in haste to adjourn. Let them recollect that such golden opportunities seldom occur, somptimes not in a centurry, when men have it in their power to do so much good. Now is the time to lay, a broad foundation for future lags of freedom and prosperity. This Contents of the propose and approach the propose and account of the enemity and the propose and account of the enemity of the propose of the propose of the existing law would ask to the work and the propose of th

Appleby, and nine or ten men of our com-pany are killed or taken: Wm. Marshall is all right, except a slight saber wound in the shoulder. We had a battle at Winchester, got licked, and retreated. Our com-pany and company E were ordered to cover a Parrott gun battery and bring up the rear. We rode all the way from Winchester to Martinsburg with camon shot and shell flying around us faster than it did at Bull Run. We crossed the Potomac last night. It was so dark that we couldn't find the ford, and had to swim our horses across.

We have got our batteries in position on this side, and the rear of the army is crossing. From your son, Charley H. Greenleap, Company D, 5th N. Y. Cavalry.

The Front Royal Prisoners.

The set to prevent and punish fraud on the part of officers entrused with making ontracts for the Government, which has just been approved by the President, establishes a "Return Office," in which all contracts are required to be filled for public inspection. Officers making contracts are required to swear that they concluded the same without any benefit or advantage to the manner in which they used their pleces in the sangularry engagement. He also says that but two of prisonment of not more than six months.

An official report from the Secretary of the Treasury states that the public debt on the 29th of May was $491,445,984, at an average interest of 4 35-100.

The sub-Committee of Ways and Means have had a draft of the new tariff bill printed for the private use of the members of that Committee.

Attorney General Bates, having given his opinion that courts martial, in cases within their lawful jurisdiction, may condemn persons to imprisonment at hard labor in the penitentiary of the District of Columbia, in punishment of crimes, the Secretary of the Interior has asked him to review his opinion. He is the more inclined to this, because he is constrained to believe that it never was the intention of fence of their country anount for any ac-made oriminal by military law, be subject, against their will, to the ignominious pun-ishment of confinement in the penitontiary, against which the feeling of every spirited

A citizen of Winchester, well known as a Union man, who had business at this point, came in this afternoon, and reports that before he had left Winchester Erement's and McDowell's troops were pouring into the place by thousands. He said they seemed to come from every point of the compass.

The secessionists, of whom there are so many there, and who were so elated at Jackson's reappearance in the Valley of Virginis, were terror-stricken. The wildest confusion prevailed. On all hands they attempted to fly, but upon every hand they were met by our advancing columns and driven back. The officers may be able to restrain the men, but it is useless to deny that among the men who compose General Rigel's and General Banks' Divisions there is a wide, deep-seated spirit of vengesines, which will, if let loose, to
