first place, and still more, when it was re-

matter? is there something wrong with Generals in the field, or with Ministers in the Cabinet? "Oh, dear!"-we seem to hear the bewildered wight not singing-'Oh, dear! what can the matter be?'

But at least one fact has been misstated that Gen. Pope accompanied the President on his visit to Gen. Scorr. He did no such thing. Hence all speculations which gave significance to that supposed joint visit dissolve themselves in thin air. As to the wild guesses which have been put forth-sometimes with such a tone and manner as to imply at least semi-official authority—we believe that every one of them which has received enough attention to be remembered, will only live to be laughed at, for a few days longer.

Instead of deposing some member of the Cabinet-instead of deposing some General-instead of the half-dozen foolish and unlikely things which have been supposednight not some more reasonable and proba ble interpretation of the call for Gen. Pore to Washington, and the visit of the President to Gen. Scorr, have been found? Is it unlikely that Gen. Pope may have made some suggestions touching the conduct of the campaign in the West, or, possibly, even in the East itself, directly or indirectly to the Government—and that his presence at Washington would be desired, in order that to Gen. Scott, have been found? Is it unhis views might be more conveniently communicated. It has been understood for some time past, that important measures were being discussed, in Washington, regarding some much-needed reforms both in the Army and Navy; and that the War Department should require the advice of one of its ablest and most successful Gen- worst of erals, is surely not a matter of wondernor should an order requiring his presence at Washington, when his services in the West are no longer of pressing importance, excite so disproportionate a degree of comment and speculation But hatred is sanguine in its hopes, and the enemies of Mr. STANTON and General FREMONT appear to be such persistent haters that they catch hopefully at even a straw-which will neither save drowning men, nor show blind men which way the wind is blowing. According to these infatuated mortals, General Pope was to take the place of Gen. Banks, who was to take the place of Mr. STANTON-and the new commander was to direct the campaign in the valley of Virginia, which would reduce Gen. FREMONT to the subordinate place of a mere General of Division. -It is now unnecessary to say more in reference to all these matters, so full of aspects, than merely to refer to the brief remarks of the President, as reported elsewhere, that his visit to West Point "was not to make or unmake any generals."

The Shifts of the Demagogue. The Pittsburgh Post, in its extremity for a cause of attack upon Republican members, and the Republican majority in Congress, has several times indirectly manifested its opposition to the Tax Bill just adopted. It dare not, in this patriotic community, come out openly against the bill, but it strives by innuendo, to create opposition to a measure absolutely necessary to the safety and salvation of the country.

beer are outrageously absurd; and our Representatives, Moorhead and McKnight, had better snatch a little time from the con-sideration of the abolition question, and en-deavor to have these proposed burdens re-duced. They know all about the article and its great popularity among all classes of their constituents. It has actually become an article of necessity; we therefore expect our Representatives to labor as industrifrom the War Department.

It is the rule among all good governments to tax luxuries, and spare the necessaries of life. Tobacco, spiritous and matt liquors have always been placed among the luxuries, and taxed as such. The tax laid by the new law upon ale and lager beer is but a fraction over three cents per gallon, a sum too small for any one to complain of, unless he would oppose any tax whatever.

absurd" it is exceedingly light-muc lighter than it would have been no doubt, but out of tenderness to our lager-loving by the war. It is a commercial city with German fellow-citizens, who we feel sure out commerce, and the means to carry it on, when restored, will have to come from shore of the burdens of Government in-this abroad, for the banks are utterly ruined and can never be resuscitated, owing to the out out of tenderness to our lager-loving way, although it is evident that the object immense amount of Confederate notes they of the Post is to raise a prejudice among hold, and which they can never make avail-them towards our representatives, for voting able to any considerable extent after the exthem towards our representatives, for voting able to any considerable entire to the rebellion.

for the Tax bill with this clause in. Malt and spirituous liquors, tobacco and all other luxuries, are taxed much higher in Europe than they will be by this law in this country. We cannot imagine what Congress could tax, if ale, lager, whisky and tobacco are to escape. Nothing can bear a fax were easily, and none will fall more lightly on the consumer.

This had a good effect. Already the gold and silver, so long hoarded, are making their appearance. In France, after an era of paper money, in which all the bullion was supposed to have left the country, it was found that the forced and sudden dis-

FROM NEW ORLEANS The Good Results of Butler's Sum

The special correspondence of the Philadelphia Press from New Orleans throws light upon the propriety and wisdom of Gen Butler's summary proceedings: THE CAPTURE OF NEW ORLEANS. The capture and occupation of this city was, undoubtedly, the greatest blow yet inwas, undoubtedly, the greatest blow yet in flicted, so far as we are advised here, upo

Washington would be desired, in order that the forts, destroyed the fire rafts, rams, gunboats, &c., and were almost in sight from the city itself. HORRORS ATTENDING THE CAPTURE. Then commenced a scene of flight, terror it say is indescribable. Amidst the ligh of the burning ships and other property, all the orgies and excesses of a mob of the worst of miscreants, and of the most unworst of miscreants, and of the most un-bridled of soldiery, were perjetrated in the most open and shameless manner. "Hell broke loose" could scarcely 'have turned' out a greater lot of fends than those refer-red to, even if half that is related of their doings be true.

AN ORGANIZED BAND OF MISCHEANTS. It seems that under the misrule which existed here so long there was a sort of organized band of Thugs, with whom assassination, and even open murder in daylight, was a regular business. They had "the freedom of the city" in its largest and most comprehensive sense, as—being useful instruments of the secret vigilance committee, and other such delectable organizaions—their victims were usually men suspected of Union proclivities, or quiet citizens, who refrained from openly aiding the cause of the rebellion.

GEN. BUTLER'S PROMPT REMEDY. Gen. Butler has had some of the leader rested and sent to Fort Jackson, which has given great satisfaction to all the citizens who value their lives and property. DISLOYAL CONDUCT OF BANK OFFICERS.

The banks, with strange fatuity, or the insanity which appears to have controlled everybody and everything in the consternation caused by the approach of our fleet, sent all their specie, amounting to several millions, out of the city, to secure it, as is alleged, from being plundered by the mob. Be that as it may, it is now said that it was sent to such a very safe place for keeping that it is utterly out of their rowers to set that it is utterly out of their power to ge it back again. It is also somewhat singt lar that all the bank presidents who ac companied their specie have not found onvenient to return to the city. THE CRESCENT CITY REGIMENT.

The minister of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, whom I have reason to think, from his character and conversation, to be a couposition to a measure absolutely necessary to the safety and salvation of the country. Mankind do not like to be taxed, and opposition to taxation is one of the chief means used by Demagogues to stir up opposition to Government.

A few days ago the Post assailed Mr. Sumner for voting for the tax bill, although the editor knew that yot a patriot in Congress had voted against it, and could not without being recreant to his highest duties.

Yesterday the Post assailed the tax-bill more openly, and in a point, too, where it is least liable to exception. It says:

The proposed taxes upon ale and lager beer age outrageously absurd; and our Representatives, Moorhead and McKnight, in the control of the country and promising young men, leaders in the Bible class in the Bi ientious Christian clergyman, informed little over a year ago, upon entering which to break the sad tiding of the father's death he was met by the young wife, with her smiling baby in her arms.

CAUSE OF THE AVERSION OF THE PEOPLE TO NORTHERN MEN. The real cause of the unmistakable aversion of the people here to our soldiers, and their evident determination to have as little intercourse as possible with the ougly for a light tax upon it as they would officers and men of our forces, arises maintreaction the War Department.

It would be very pleasant not be taxed at all, but as the slaveholders' rebellion has rendered this unavoidable, the burden which, as a quantity of fresh beef and ice, which, as a matter of relief he will sell to should be laid where it will fall the lightest. It is a high privilege, and we doubt not that it will be considered as such. To stand once more right upon the record must be a source of gratification to all. We are glad to be informed that rich and poor justle each other at the place prescribed for taking the oath. This is as it should be: or it proves that wealth knows and feel that under the just rule of the Commanding General it will be allowed no special privilege, but must stand on the same equality of allegiance with poverty. f the country. HAVTI AND LIBERIA.—We publish to-day a portion of the speech made in the House by Hon. Robt. McKnight, of Pennsylvania, n favor of the recognition of the inde-condence of Hayti and Liberia and only regret our limited space does not permit us to publish the whole of it. The review which it presents of the early history of the effort to colonize Africa, makes a sad commentary upon the present degeneracy of the South in respect to that question, and indeed in respect to all questions connected with the subject of slavery. Mr. Clay, whose anxiety, till the close of his Liny, whose anxiety, till the close of ms life, to effect the recognition of Hayti and Liberia is noticed by Mr. McKnight, was the last of the old stock of public men in the slave States, who adhered at all to the lister of Machington and Library and
