it, do not desire it. We have asked for them their actival rights—the right to their wown labor, and of the possession of their wives and children,—of political rights, never.

In the second place, read the following:

The amount of "money" and the number of their lives of the dealings on this question. It is not agree able to us to make any comparisons about the political opinions of those who enlist for the war. We hold every man who does for the war. We hold every man who does bos as a good patriot, and deserving of the gratitude of his country; but it is unendurable that Republicans should be elanded that Republicans should be elanded that Republicans should be elanded to should be the s ble that Republicans should be slandered and sneered at continually in this behalf, by a paper whose loyalty is, to say I don't believe it.

Stehmond nave occur insignment, would lead us to think, but I must again say simply that Agare. the least, very questionable.

A Notice and Contradiction.

Our attention has been called to a commu lication in the Pittsburgh Post, of Wedner day, in which some unknown quantity, represented by the letters "R. P. V." takes considthe Gazzarz, and has found allusions is vorable to Gan. McClellan and his movements vary frequently omitted from the dispatches of the Associated Press by us. This general charge, so far as evidence goes, is remarkably sustained. The writer adduces the fact that a sentence was left unfinished in a quotation from a Richmond paper, transmitted by the Associated Press in their dispatches, a few days ago. As this is the only specified case of an omission, we must presume that it appeared to the Poer's correspondent the strongest he could bring forward to prove his charge.

Now what kind of a gentleinan is R. P. V. whose stupidity is thus naively exhibited by himself?

How stands the case to-day? Are the bor-movements in the telegraphic dispatches of the Associate Press, published in every paper in the city but the Gasette," he assorts what he cannot prove. The editors of the Gasette do affects. How has this new and extraordinary esanot prove. The editors of the Gazette do not edit, and seldom or never even read, the dispatches of the Associated Press, when they of insult, perfectly consistent with the disparate received. We hold the agents of that Association responsible, and consign their dispatches at once to the foreman of our composition-room—whose instructions are to decypher them and give them in full. This is a hardly avoid.

But secondly, on this second head—and finally for the present writing—we say that fine statement of 'R. P. V.' as follows:

"We know, to our own certain knowledge, that if they (the editors of the GIZETES) had the matter (that is, the publishing of Viator's littless), to do over again, the latters would be furnit; for Viator's statements about Modulation of the war and the firm security of ohr national unity—N. Y. Eccang Post. CLELLAN have since been proven false, and tae writer knew it when he wrote them, -15 as unqualified and unmitigated a falsehood as are those who clock their disloyalty by the week have mat with even in the correspondents belown of a loco-foco paper, within the past peace and talk of their entire devotion to sa-

The President and the Border States. We have sought and desired to find in the deference paid by the President to the Border States, a sufficient element of broad national policy to compensate the lack of energy in prosecuting the war, of which we have heard sented by the letters "R. P. V." takes considerable pains, in the first place, to write himself down a delt, and in the second place, to subject himself to be hereafter written down, by honest, truth-speaking men, as something worse.

He pretends that he has been a reader of the Gazerre, and has found allusions tworable to Gen. McClellan and his movements.

Richmond have been insignificant, would lead

Because a contemptuous allusion to General Mocketham as "the Young Napoleon," by a Richmond paper, chanced to be omitted by the Gartie, therefore the state of the Administration? Do those States, in the Gartie, therefore MCCLELLAR as "the Young Napoleon," by a Richmond paper, chanced to be omitted by the Gazette, therefore, according to this luminous gentleman, though it "is a very small matter," it "shows how low the editors of the Gazette will stoop to ignore McClellar," it is avery small matter," it "shows how low the editors of the Gazette will stoop to ignore McClellar, and the Gazette will stoop to ignore McClellar, and such an epithet of irony and satire, too—as a grave and seriously intended compliment! And yet this is necessary before any oril-surmising can have a specious pretext to get about its conganial tark.

This much on the first head, and now we come to the second, which has respect exclusively to matter of fact.

When the writer of the bommunication in the Postsays: "We have early frequently found allusions favorable to McClellar and his movements in the telegraphic dispatches of

It is well to be magnanimous in policy ave matter of fact, and leaves no room whatever to a fault, rather than to er reso little or for doubtful interpretations, whatever an evilsurmising person may be able to make out of an accidental over-sight—the cocurrence of which, occasionally, even the most careful can hardly avoid.

But according on this record head—and the second to be allowed to the second to sertion. We have never favored raising the blacks to political equality, never asked for it, do not desire it. We have asked for them their astural rights—the right to their own labor, and of the possession of their wives and children,—of political rights, never.

In the second place, read the following:
The amount of "money" and the number of "prayers" given by the Gazette and the Abolitionists generally to suppress the respectable programs of the program of the please of the possession of their with impunity, unless he has enjoyed the opportunity for an inside view at the operations of the liars in Washington.
