Away with such a policy. Give us vigor. Make the rebels feel the war. Make it a curse, a desolation to them, and freedom to their slaves, and they will soon grow weary of so losing a game.

Hon. David Wilmot.

The resolutions adopted by the Republica State Convention are eminently patriotic and earnest; and it was very fitting to crown them with a complete endorsemen of that fearless and manly Pennsylvanian DAVID WILHOT. I repeat, gentlemen, that I have great confidence in Abraham Lincoln, and his chosen counsellors, and I must be permitted to say, that especially do I confide in the clear head, sound mind and honest heart of the Secretary of War, Edwin M. Stanton, our own immediate representative in the Cabinet.

I are representative in the Cabinet.

I say this with a full knowledge that of late a systematic attempt has been made to bring it this officer into disrepute, and to cause his removal from the high and responsible position which he now so ably fills.

Revery disappointed man, whether for the opportunity, of serving his country with a title prefixed to his name, or for furnishing the munitions of war, at large profits, visits his vengeance upon the head of Mr. Stanton. The friends of this officer, cannot, of course, complain of the most careful scrutiny into his official conduct, and do by no means deny that he may lik others, have committed mistakes; yet, when it is seen that the mest unmeasured abuse is continually lavished upon him and his acts; that he is held responsible for consequences, to prevent which has been entirely beyond his power, and charged with disasters arising from movements, which he neither counselled nor directed, it becomes necessary to look for the causes which have occessary to look for the causes which have aduced, and the motives which have prompted hose attacks. For myself, I believe he has thus been at-
