Hindman's army is going west from Little Rock, and that the people along the road are going with the army, taking their negroes and other movable property. One man saw four plantations burning in his neighborhood. Slaves belonging to disloyalists in Kentucky are also being used for the same purpose.

EXCITING RUMORS!

In the absence of our usual telegraphic dispatches from Washington is calculated to excite suspicion that something important is taking place. 'Tis rumored, as we go to press, that dispatches have come over the Railroad telegraphic line, that there has been a fight in the region of the Rappahannock for the last two days, and that Col. Poniter, of Greensburg, is killed. As news from such source is only the transmission of rumor, more, much more dependence can be placed on any intelligence of battle, and victory, while he has a force of seventy thousand men at his disposal, surrenders his command to the enemy, will be tried for neglect of duty and treacherous, and will, if found guilty, be shot. The second battle of the Rappahannock is near, surprise is not unreasonable, that there are two armies ready for the fray is fully established, that the enemy is found on a rapid and desperate enterprise, has the Government will patiently await the battle. Doubtless information as to the result of a battle is given, but we are using roads, we consider, necessary, only will be considered reliable that comes from the Government. There is a tolerably go d consumptive demand for wheat, with scarcely any variation in the value of the best qualities, but the receipts are very light, the bulk of which the finest supply chiefly consists, cannot be placed without conceding in some degree from the rates of the week previous. Red Southern is 2@3c lower, as which reduction a moderate business is reported. Beans fully support late prices, but no material change, hands of 2@2½c for No. 1 and 95@$1 for No. 2.
