writing from Hilton Head, says: writing from killon Head, says:

"Those cavillers against Gen. Hunter's order who take, issue against him on the ground that he had no power competent to its enforcement throughout the three States named, are not deserving any serious answer. His order was eminently one containing within itself the elements of its own mindication. Like a small patch of snow detached from the creat of the Appendince which becomes an avalanche or the same of the contraction. nines, which becomes an avalanche, gathering weight and momentum with every hundred yards of its descent into the valley which it finally overwheims, the effects of the smancipation orders, had they been allowed uninterrupted sway, would gradu-ally have drawn within our lines increas-ing bodies of a negro population; and with every male African thus added to the cause of the Union, increasing power to draw in more, and yet more, and still more of the same useful, laborious and acclimated ma-terial for soldiers would have been ac-quired—until, finally, around the mere nucleus of a white army of occupation, a vast black militia would have been accumulated, sufficient to overrun not only Georgia, South Carolina and Florida, but to have carried the banners of the National cause, the rebels, who now threaten Washington in the rear, and converting into weapons of destruction that very element which is now the source of their wealth, their inse true policy of crushing the rebellion. Time is precious. Historic events take place

Among the speakers at the Pennsylvania Democratic Convention on Saturday, was Mr. Charles J. Ingersoll, a noise politician, and noteless historian, who said, on that coccasion, sundry very foolish things. Among others, these: "The war is an abolition war; it its waged by the Administration with a view to emantipation, and not to a restoration of the Union and the preservation of the Constitution; that rast sums and vast armies have been relevant to the constitution was and vast armies have been relevant to the constitution was and vast armies have been relevant to the constitution of the Constitution; that rast sums and vast armies have been relevant to the constitution of the for that the Government is corrupt despotic, revolutionary, and should be displaced from power." Now, Mr. Ingersoll placed from power, that every word he uttered was just the word that Jeff. Davis, had he the wherewith to pay, would have paid him laviably to utter; that every period was a stab at the very heart of the nation; and that he was fairly exposing himself to just the punishment merited by the man who, whether rebel General in Chief, soldier, or hired emissary, most effectually promotes treason. He had obviously this fact before his eyes when he consoled himself with the dection;

"These arrests are not such terrible These strests are not such terrible things. If they strest you, they must feed and clothe you, and in these hard times there is something in that."

Whatever there is in that, he carainly deserves to feel, who boasted that "had be lived in the time of the Bavolution he would have been a tory;" and who, in this second great crisis of the country, is as much of a traitor and tory as he darms to be. Ingersoil has been attracted. Let him, by all manns, have the full benefit of the gratuitous board and lodgings provided by the War Secretary.—N. Y. Times.

What it is to Save the Union.

The President is entitled to the gratitude of the country for the directness and clearness with which, in his late letter, he keeps in view the supreme object of the war. In distinction from the small philanthropic class, on one side, who maintain that the removal of slavery should be made the chief end of it—and from a small class of discontented Democratic politicians on the older, who invest slavery with a kind of involable sacredness, he announces the industrial classes it England and Prance, so far as they are dependent upon a discontented Democratic politicians on the older, who invest slavery with a kind of involable sacredness, he announces the industrial classes it England and Prance, so far as they are dependent upon a supply of cotton, are very bad. The N. Y. Herstld never intermits its malignant work of covert treason. In its issue of Monday we find the following editorial paragraph:

"The BITTER FRUITS OF THE LEGISLATION OF CONGRESS.—Among the bilter fruits of the sittle (Sources) in the exasperation of the wall of the southern people, as evinced in the message of Jeff. constitutional and civic restraint; and it will never again submit to the authority it has been forced to do so by the strong hand, which implies perpetual war, or until the grounds and motives of its revolt have been extinguished. All the discerning and particults then of the nation, we are glad to know, are beginning more and more to discover this truth, which will soon be as universally received as are the most elementary principles of our political creeds.—

> White Slavery. A correspondent writing from Helens Arkansas, says:

Arkansas, says:

I was greatly surprised the other day by the declaration of a person with whom I had been conversing in the Postoffice of this place, when, in reply to a suggestion of mine about his loyalty, he answered, "Why, my dear Sir, I am a slave. I belong to Dr. "I looked in his face, unable to believe my own eyes. His complexion was whiter shan my own; his eyes a blue gray; his hair and features Caucasian; his language free from the negro dialect. I asked him again, "Is it possible that you are a slave? Why don't you go North and claim the privileges of a freeman?" He answered, "I have a wife and children, and I don't want to go till I can man "He answered, I have whe sub-children, and I don't want to go till I can take them with me. I have been allowed by my master to follow the business of a barber in this place, and, by giving him a stipulated sum; have been permitted to en-joy a measure of freedom, and to possess a little property of my own. As seen as I little property of my own. As soon as I can realize something of this property, I intend, while the opportunity exists, to secure the freedom of myself and family." intend, while the opportunity of the freedom of myself and family."

Our conversation had commenced upon a written document which he had been showing me, and which he could read as well as myself. When he left me I wondered greatly that such a man, at least 40 years of age, evidently a gentleman and a Christian, could be held a slave, and another which man he allowed to take his wages for naught in a Christian community. And then I remembered that the modern doctrine of the South, as taught by the Richmond Enquirer, and other expounders of the system, is that Slavery is not based upon complexion or race, but that capital should own labor, and the best condition of society is that in which the entire laboring population are slaves. This is the doctrine are slaves. The slaves are slaves. The slaves are slaves are slaves. The slaves are slaves are slaves. The slaves are slaves are Denith Struggles.

The second uprising of the nation, which pours constant streams of fresh troops through all our principal cities on the way to Washington, seems to have had as effect upon the rabel stympathiers similar to that of a red rag upon a finad bull. The arrest of Dr. Olds a few day's since, and the summary squalching of Charles Jired Ingersoill in Philadelphia yesterday, show that the secessionists are entaged and the government wide awaké. The bull may rage and lear, but the speer is sure to enter his side, and his last kick is at hand. The crisis of the nation is upon us, and now every man who talks or acts treason must be held to an instant and strict accountability. The arrest and imprisonment of blatant traitors like Olds and fogersoil will have a happenson and gavrulous old man who can do little harm. If for no other reason, it will show their humbler initiators how unsafe it is for them to express sympathy with the rebbes for they very moment when the fate of the whole North is on trial on the banks of the Rappahanneck.
