GOODMAN Y. COULTRE, South Fayatte Tp. Mass Meeting in Allegheny. A large and respectable meeting of the citi-zens of Allogheny was held last evening, in the Diamond square. An excellent brass band was in attendance, which served to enliven the proceedings.

On motion of Hoh. A. C. Alexander, Mayor, Hon. Thomas M. Howe was called to pro-side over the meeting, and took the Chair. The following Vice Presidents were then nominated and elected; Hon. A. C. Alexander, Geo. Gerst, Wm. Bagaley, John Mo-Donald, and John Blair.

Becretaries—Alexander Watson, Esq., J. G.
Gofin and Wm. Anderson.

The organization being—completed, the Chairman introduced to the meeting the Hon.
S. A. Purviance, of Butler. This gontleman delivered a very able and effective spaced, showing, in a succinct and connected manner, the encreachments of the slave of the encrosomments of the slare power, and the causes which have led to the present wicker robellion. When the oligarchs of the South could no longer rule, they determined to disampt the Union—and the factions created by the Charleston and Baltimore Convention the Charleston and Baltimore Conventions were but a part of a plan long previously matered. The leaders of the Democratio party had not the manliness to tell the truth to their deluced followers in the North, after their return from these Conventions; and the loyal Democrats knew comparatively nothing of the treason until our flag was fired upon at Fort Sumpter, and the whole country was aroused. Now these very same leaders were trying to deceive the people, by blaming the war upon the Abolitionists, and were endeavoring to revive the party for the very purpose of tying the hands of the Administration, and crippling its measures for the prosecution of the war. He warned the people against the teachings of such men as Hughes and Witte, who held the secession hereay of State sovereignty, and if it had been in their power would have switched Pennsylvania cut of the Union into the Southern Confederacy.

Mr. Purviance held his hearers firmly for about three quarters of an bour, at the close of which the band played the "Star Spangled The Chairman then introduced Hon. Thos.

Williams, candidate for Congress, remarking that he (Mr. Williams) needed no enlogy from him. He was well known to nearly modest to advocate his own claims for their suffrages, he would at least present some facts and arguments tending to show why, they should notwoke for his opponent—a very good man, doubtless, in his way, but in com-parison with whom Mr. Williams was like Saul among the prophets, head and shoulder above him. This remark was warmly ap plauded, and as Mr. Williams advanced the front of the platform he front of the platform, he was greeted with a old-fashioned round of applause—not to be mistaken by any one.

We will not attempt to give even a synopsis of Mr. Williams' address, which, as Gen We will not attempt to give even a synopsis of Mr. Williams' address, which, as Genhow predicted, contained many cogent reasons why the loyal Demorats should take no part not lot in the effort to put into power men who are not only hostile to the administration, but who, if elected, would use all the means in their power to prolong the way, and, by wasting our energies; force upon us a dishonorable compromise or a humilisting defeat. He argued that there were but two parties at the present time—the loyal and the disloyal; and, disguise it as we night, there was more to be dreaded from enemies within than foes without. The administration went into power at a time when treason was every where rampant, and the government almost a wreck, in consequence of Democratic misrule, and now a effort was being made to revive this same party fen purposes not to be mistaken. Buddinan and his party had well nigh destroyed the very existence of the government, and traced it over to Mr. Lincoln who it was in a life and death struggle; and yet, before his administration is half over, and while he is engaged in repairing the damage entailed by his predecessor, an effort is being made to tie his hands and embarrass him in the work of restoring the government.

Mr. Williams. dealt some talling blows egains the "Butternut" gentry, and was still speaking when we left the meeting.

Advance in the Price of Larger.

In Philadelphis the retailers of lager beer are put up the price one cont per glass—demanding five instead of four cents, as formerly.

In this city the price varies from three to five cents per glass, and we hear nothing said about an advance. The usual price, however, is five cents, and that is high enough in all sonscience, every thing considered. The law fixes—tax of one dollar upon a bassel of fixes—tax of the bassel of tax of tax of tax of tax of tax thirty-one gallons, and fractional sums upon less quantier. It does not require a very profound knowledge of arithmetic to assertate that a barrel of thirty-one gallons contains two hundred and forty-eight pluts; while it is pretty well known that the glasses sold do not usually contain more than two-thirds of a plut, and they are often not more than three-fourths filled. The arithmetician of limited capacity will readily deduce from these facts and figures that the impolition of an additional cent per mug would be in fact an imposition. Consumers are impressed with the idea that the profits of both brewers and retailiges are very large, and that they can readily afford to pay the tax between them without putting it apon the final consumers.

George P. Hamilton and Matt Har-
