The Court intimated that Mr. Uree man not taken the proper course, in reporting himself to the deputy as a school director, when he could have laid his ease legally before the Commissioner. However, no decision was rendered, and the case was taken under advisement for the present. Wheeling: John Stillyan, while hauling wood from Burlington to Martinsville, drove his team across the track, and being intexticated did not see or did not heed the Express trait, fast approaching. There was a little boy named Oscar Petiti, seated in the wagon. The engine strock the team, grinding one of the horse into a shapeless mass and breaking the wagon idto kindling wood. The boy Petiti was taken out of the wreck and found to have been badly injured about the head. He was taken to the house of his mother, who is swidow lady, residing in Burlington, where he died on Sunday, Stillyan was found in the wrock with his legs lying across the boy's body, and entirely unbigured. There were two companies of soldiers upon the train, and among the number, a Surgeon, who dressed the boy's would. CITY AFFAIRS.

These volumes form the ninth issue of the household edition of Dickens' novels, published by the enterprising firm above named. This is the edition of Dickens appelled to every other we have seen, English or American. The paper, the typography, the binding, the convenient size of the volumes—overything interior and exterior, in a word—will be found worthy of the author, and worthy accessories of a story in which most of the characteristics of his genius are so happily illustrated. The price is only 75 cents per volume, for this exquisite edition of Charles Dickens' Works. The Homicide Case. At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon a jury was empannelled in the case of Wm. Coroner McClung testified to holding an inquest on the deceased, at his father's house, in Jefferson township, on the 16th of Septemin Jefferson township, on the 16th of September last. Saw three or four wounds on the body—one on the top of the head, one behind the car, and one-over the eye. It was the wound over the eye that was serious, the skull having been fractured.

W.J. Miller testified that he was called to wait on Chamberlain, and was with him when he died. He described the location and nature of the wound of the wound was also broken, and she was cut and bruised about the head and face. W.J. He also stated that he was of a healthy constitution previour to his fast tiliness.

Pritchard Parsons, who was employed in Lownic's distillery, iestified that he was at work in the 8th of September, the day when this difficulty was slieged to have happened; that he saw Chamberlain approaching to wards the distillery, as if intending to enter; that howies soon after came; that he then heard seuffling up stairs, but as the distillery was in operation he could not tell the cause of the disturbance. Looking out of a window afterwards, he saw Chamberlain going away from the distillery, and saw a son of Mr. Lownie handing him (Chamberlain) his hat. He also saw the wound over the eye of the deceased, but could not testly as to who struck the blow. The witness, from his position in the building, could not tell whether the deceased actually entered it or not, as he could not see the door, but his impression was that he had been in the distillery. On going up stairs afterwards, he saw the malt stick, which was about four feet long, with a spike driven through one end of it. He regarded this as ready weapon.

This witness was on the stand when the DIED: uond street, at 1 o'clock, pres SPECIAL NOTICES. The Army Vote in Butler County.

There has been a split among the return judges of Butler county, with regard to the disposition to be made of the army vote. At their meeting on Friday, after the election, a motion was made to adjourn until the second Tuesday in November, for the purpose of receiving and counting the army vote, which motion carried by a vote of twenty-three years to thirteen mays. The minority including the president, insisted that the business should be concluded, and that an adjournment sine dis should take place on Friday, alleging that the army vote had been pronounced unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. They accordingly proceeded to go through all the forms, appointed congressions and senatorial return judges, and gave certificates of election to the candidates having a majority of the votes cast in the county. These certificates were signed by sixtees of the judges, bring a minority of the whole number. The other twenty will probably reassemble at the time designated, and open the army returns and count the rotes, and issue depolicate certificates are combined in these to a degree The Army Vote in Butler County. to the candidates having a majority of the votes cast in the country. These certificates were signed by sincers of the judges, being a minority of the whole number. The other twenty will probably reassemble at the time designated, and open the army returns and count the votes, and issue duplicate certificates. The only office that is likely to be affected by the army vote is that of district attorney, and between the constitutional question of the one side, and the agreement of the candidates that the votes should be counted on the other, there is likely to be a trouble some time offit.

Samuel Graham, merchant tailor, would most respectfully inform his friends and the public generally inform his friends and the some time offit. and variety are combined in there to a degree we have never before witnessed; but be use affected by the army rote is that of distry. The composition of the one side, and the systematic of the constitutional quastion of the one side, and the systematic of the syst that he was a school director, and so reported himself to the enrolling officer—thinking that would secure his examption. It turned out, however, that the Commissioner did not strike e "lucky." District Attorney Carnahan took the ground District Attornsy Carnahan took the ground that the potitioner should have appeared before the Draft Commissioner, and claimed his exemption in person, and that by not doing so he lost his privilege through his own neglect.

Pennsylvanians nere who understand the political condition of their State, insist that, the defeat of Messrs. McPherson, Stewart, Campbell and Patterson, results from the fact that a very large proportion of the volunteers from their respective Districts volunteers from their respective Districts belong to the Republican party. The defeat of Stewart, in Covode's District, isalso explained by the fact that in the new apportionment law the Republican county of Armstrong was taken from the District, and the strong Democratic county of Fay-ette, where Dawson, Stewart's, successful competitor, resides, added to it. The same apportionment law struck out of Grow's District the strong Republican county of Brad-ford, and added to it the strong Democratic county of Luzerne. As for Campbell's District, it was always strongly Democratic.
