

Pittsburgh Gazette.

THURSDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 30.

The Danger from Abroad. It would be rather wise not to say that there is no danger of a recognition of the Southern Confederacy by the leading powers of Europe.

Our country is pretty well exhausted now, and there is a limit to its power, great as that may be. We cannot contend at once with the South, and with France and England, and be what Napoleon was trying to make of Mexico.

Nashville Safe. A gentleman who has arrived in Cleveland, Ohio, says that there are several United States troops in that city, under command of Gen. Hays.

As a member of the Legislature, we learn from the New York papers that a steamboat, called the "Cherokee," is now being constructed at the foot of Tenth Street, East River.

There is but one ground of doubt—that he has not heard of Bull's removal, and may have undertaken an expedition to Nashville under the feeling of indignation arising from the belief that he had only Bull's behind him.

A correspondent of the New York Tribune, writing from Newbern, strongly urges the establishment of a military camp at or near that place.

Such a camp would be a nucleus around which northern energy and enterprise, agricultural, commercial, mechanical and literary, would soon cluster.

Our Washington dispatches say that it is thought that Gen. Canby will be induced to reconsider his refusal to allow himself to be nominated for Congress in the fall.

COMPLAINTS are made, and with good reason, of the gross carelessness of army postmasters in the West.

A Merited Compliment. It affords us great pleasure to bear testimony to the merits of a public officer of the Government.

We were assured by a gentleman occupying a high official position in the Department of the Interior, that in the opinion of the Department the administration of the Pittsburgh Post Office was a model, worthy of imitation by any other office of the country.

A Patriotic Sentiment. The following is the closing resolution of the series adopted at the late meeting of loyal Southern citizens at the Cooper Institute, New York.

"In time of war." Not one of these men voted for Mr. Lincoln, and probably not one of them would now be a supporter of his administration in a party sense.

Civil War Threatened in Illinois. The Knights of the Golden Circle are at work in several parts of Illinois, circulating documents of an incendiary character.

As a last resort we will raise the flag of our fathers, and call all congenial spirits in the United States, and elsewhere upon the earth to come to the Cumberland River bridge and plant them upon their basis designed by the Father of our Country.

There are those at present in the rebel army guilty of a very grave crime, it must be admitted, against their country, but yet possessing ability equally great to serve the cause of freedom, if they will repent and come back to duty.

Stonewall Jackson Administers the Sacrament. On the morning of a recent battle near Harper's Ferry, after a sermon by one of his chaplains, Stonewall Jackson, who, by the way, is an elder in the Presbyterian church, administered the sacrament to all Christians in his army.

A Timely Protest. The New York Chamber of Commerce has uttered an eloquent protest against the fitting out of British privateers.

Resolved, That this Chamber has not failed to notice a rapid change in British sentiment in favor of a friendly neutrality.

Resolved, That the outrage of consigning to destruction by fire, without adjudication, British and American property together, is an aggravation of the offense against the rights of neutrals, and ought to be denounced as a crime by the civilized nations of the earth.
