The Government, at the commencement of the present year, began a very wholesome course of treatment with those who, outline of two remarkable articles from the in the loyal States, sympathized with trea- pen of Hon. R. J. Walker, written for the son; but of late it has slackened its hand and the result is seen in the boldness of of the editors: and the result is seen in the botaness of such men as the above, who, well knowing that they deserve to be in Fort Lafayette yet feel a conviction that they will not be papers from Hon. It is not weakness which dictates this policy : it is rather a reliance on the innate patriotism is rather a reliance on the innate patriotism of the masses, and a trust that they cannot be seduced from their loyalty by such traitors as Bright Vallaudigham, Oox, Hughes, Ingersoll, Wan Buren, and the Woods. The government is no more afraid of these Northern rebels than a lion might be supposed to be of a dog; but, thinking them
