METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS for the week, by G. S. Shaw, Optician, No. 55 Fifth street—corrected daily.

Atlantic and Great Western Railroad Operations have been resumed, and are progressing rapidly on this road, the capital furnished by the foreign bondholders of the New York and Erie road, which the Atlantic and Great Western is a continuation of.

From General Milroy's Command—Large Hunt of Rabbits and Gophers. We learn from the Wheeling Intelligencer that on Tuesday last, General Milroy and Col. Latham, having started with a considerable force from Beverly, a few days previous, attacked and surprised a camp of robbers on Monterey, capturing about three hundred fine cattle, about one hundred horses, and about a hundred prisoners. The rebels had been in the bottom and were completely surrounded before they were aware of it. The expedition returned to Beverly on Saturday last. It was thought to have been Milroy's design to move on to Washington, for some reason he concluded to return. The prisoners report that the small-pox is raging at Stanton, and that the inhabitants are fleeing at the rate of fifty per day. Among the prisoners captured by General Milroy, was the somewhat famous Colonel Harrison, who had been in the hands of the rebels, and had been in prison at Washington.

A Bogus Captain in Trouble. A man who calls himself "Captain C. L. Johnson," and who claims to belong to the 1st Ohio Cavalry, was arrested in Mount Vernon last week, on the information of John Singer and Wm. B. White, who charged "Captain Johnson" with attempting to rob them. It appears that he entered the room where Singer and White were sleeping, taking a pocket book belonging to the former, containing $100, and attempting to turn Philip over as a witness. The man was arrested, and taken to the hands of the law. It is believed that he was never in the army, and his "regiment" was a mere ruse to enable him to travel in the hands of the law. He is believed to have been in the hands of the law.

Officer Shot by a Deserter—8500 Reward. First Sergeant Joseph Hagan, of Company D, 125th Regiment, U. S. Infantry, Volunteers, in the service of the United States, whilst endeavoring to arrest a deserter from his company named Harry Rowland, near Chesapeake, was shot by the latter, and died of his wounds. The deserter was captured, and a reward of $500 for the apprehension of the murderer.

Professor Wilson on "The Times." It is in the hands of the law. It is believed that he was never in the army, and his "regiment" was a mere ruse to enable him to travel in the hands of the law. He is believed to have been in the hands of the law.

The whole party were thrown, and the buggy with great violence, fracturing Mrs. Hartman's arm, and killing the child as above stated.

The store was insured for $50,000, and the loss is estimated at $7,000, and falls heavily upon him.

A Nice Point under the Draft.

Walking the other day on a bench, Judge Grier, of the United States Circuit Court, yesterday decided a nice point arising under the draft. James Anderson, a citizen of Westmoreland county, who had been drafted, was taken from Camp Howe, on a writ of Habeas Corpus, and his discharge asked for upon the ground that he was exempt from service, in consequence of his being over fifty-five years of age. When the draft was made, he was a proper subject for military duty, but on the 15th inst. he obtained the age of forty-five years. It was contended that he had not been drafted, but not having yet been drafted, he could not be held to service, and ordered that he be discharged. The court decided in favor of the man in service at the age of a single day before the draft holds good for the full term.

Conviction of Ridgely Well. At the opening of court, on Wednesday afternoon, Judge Street delivered the charge to the jury in the case of Ridgely Well, indicted for the murder of Charles Mayo. The charge was able and comprehensive, embracing all the points arising under the case, and occupied nearly an hour in its delivery. The jury retired about three o'clock, and after an absence of about two hours, they came in with a verdict of guilty of manslaughter. English, had the verdict announced to understand through an interpreter, and received the result without apparent emotion, although he had previously expressed emotion, with the belief that he would be acquitted.

THE LATEST NEWS BY TELEGRAPH. [Owing to the lines being out of last night, we are without our usual variety of telegraphic news this morning.] FROM PHILADELPHIA. [Special Dispatch to the Pittsburgh Gazette.] Philadelphia, Nov. 19, 1862. A correspondent of the Inquirer says the sudden movements of the army to a new section of country has created much joy throughout the army, and the cry of "Go to Richmond" has again become popular. A number of officers and privates are bolstered up by a bet, that we would be in Richmond in about two weeks. This remark goes to show how great is the soldiers' confidence in the new commander. It is known that between the south bank of the Rappahannock, and the north bank of the James, the Richmond and Potomac Railroad on the east, and the Alexandria Railroad on the west, there are not a force of more than five thousand. The majority of their troops are west of Calverley. Jackson may make a feat of attacking Washington via Leesburg, but our forces will be ready to meet him.

THE PRESIDENT AND GEN. McCLELLAN. We take the following extract from the leader in the Boston Transcript upon the President and Gen. McClellan. In showing the relations of responsibility between the President and Gen. McClellan, we shall rightly keep in mind the line of the facts, because, while we think but little which is not currently known, we think it is our duty to show which we have only the right to indicate. In other cases we state what we know.

TURNING BACK FROM THE FORTIFICATIONS OF MANASSAS, on none of which was a carriage of modern war, and which were in the face of advice and opposition, Gen. McClellan determined to divide the grand army into two columns, and to transport the larger portion to the front by way of Gordonsville, and to cover the force for which he was retained. Neither he nor the Government had the right to provide for the reserves, and just before starting he proposed to divide 16,000 men from what has shown to be a good and well-made reserve, and to send them to the front by way of Gordonsville, and to cover the force for which he was retained.
