LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

From Yesterday's Evening Gazette.

The Obey Homicide.

THE Trial of Henry Hoerr, David H. Baily, Jacob and Edward Kienharts, charged with aiding and abetting the murder of John A. Obey, was resumed at nine o'clock Tuesday morning.

John Rickenbaugh was subjected to a very lengthy, cross-examination, but he strictly adhered to his testimony in chief. By way of explaining why he followed the party, he stated that at the Broadway Saloon, where he met Keenan, and his party, Neuenthaler had taken his hat (a new one) and gave him his own in exchange. In order to get his hat, Rickenbaugh followed the crowd, and while in a tavern in the Diamond he snatched his hat from Neuenthaler's head and ran out, Kienharts accompanying him to the passenger car station.

Jacob G. Diehm, of Sharpsburg, was the next witness. He identified the three defendants on trial, as having been in the car. Hoerr said to Keenan, before the stabbing: "Kinley, if you don't keep quiet I'll take you out and whip you myself." At the time Keenan stabbed Obey in the back, no one else was near Obey—the others having fled out of the car on learning that a knife was being used.

Theodore Fowers, who took charge of Car No. 9, after Obey's death, testified to finding the dagger under the cushion of the car seat.

James Littell, late City Gauger, reached the car in time to hear some one say that a knife was being used, and saw the man rushing out of the car. He thought Hoerr was the most officious one in informing him (the witness) that Keenan, the murderer of Obey, had run up Liberty street, while he (Keenan) was then standing in the crowd. Mr. Littell, however, was not positive as to the faces, but his impression was that Hoerr seemed anxious to get Keenan off, and was pleading the innocence of the crowd.

Wm. Teaf was next examined, and testified that he saw two men holding the deceased—one by the shoulders, and the other crouched on the seat, holding him by the haunches, while the third inflicted the stabs. He did not believe any of the defendants were of those whom he saw.

The Commonwealth here closed their case. Mr. Jones opened the case briefly on behalf of the defense, stating that at the counsel, as well as the defendants, had been greatly surprised at the testimony of Rickenbaugh, whom he denounced as a perjured villain, endeavoring to cover up his own crime. They would offer such testimony as would satisfy the jury that the defendants had not been guilty of any crime whatever, and that they were in no way responsible for the stabbing, for which Keenan has already been convicted.

Louis Dubbenmeyer, of Lawrenceville, testified that he was a passenger in the car, when the fighting commenced in one end of the car. Kienharts got out at the other end. Witness also got out before the cutting, and saw Kienharts on the sidewalk. He saw Hoerr in the car, sitting near Kienharts, but did not see him do anything.

Court adjourned until two o'clock.

A Freak of Fortune—Salt vs. Oil.

During the great oil excitement which existed here previous to the breaking out of the war, numerous oil wells were commenced here and hereabouts, and prosecuted to various depths, in proportion to the length of the purse and the strength of the faith of those who sought the greasy fluid in the dark recesses of earth. All those who bored in this vicinity, bored in vain, as no oil was found, notwithstanding a great depth had been reached, and the experiment was very considered tested. Among those who sunk wells, was Wm. B. Ross, Esq., a well known citizen of Manchester, who, being a blacksmith, had cheaper facilities than some others, and he "started his hole" on his ground, right on the premises occupied by the shop. Several others joined him in the enterprise, bearing a proportion of the expense. The well was sunk to a very great depth, but no oil—not even a "smell" could be obtained; the project was finally abandoned, and for a couple of years the capital invested has lain idle in the ground.

In sinking the well, Mr. Ross struck a very strong vein of salt water—a very common thing for oil wells—but of the price at which salt was then selling, it would not pay to manufacture the article. Since the war, however, the price of salt has tripled, and Mr. Ross has transformed his oil well into a salt well. He is now manufacturing a good article of salt at the rate of about thirty barrels a day, or nearly two hundred barrels per week. The demand is so great that he keeps the works going day and night. The vein which he draws from would afford a much larger yield, if he had the requisite facilities for manufacturing. At $2,50 per barrel, the present rate, he cannot fail to make a handsome profit, and his "hole in the ground" will not turn out so bad a speculation as he himself and many others imagined. As he is now on the high way to fortune, the "salt excitement" is getting up in Manchester, and several gentlemen are projecting salt wells. The present price for this common necessary of life will stimulate its manufacture, and the supply will soon become adequate to the demand. The price is entirely too high to be long maintained.

A Loyal Tennesseean.

A loyal Tennessee father writes from Nashville to Gen. Negley as follows: My son, ——, will ask for a pass to go into Kentucky to visit his wounded brother, a member of the 1st Tennessee Infantry, U. S. A. Do not let him go, for he is an uncompromising Secessionist, and should feel that our Government has power to use the rod as well as to protect her loyal subjects. When my three boys joined this fearful and unnatural rebellion, I begged them as I begged tears to spare me such anguish, or expect God's ever-sure retribution. They heeded not my prayers or tears, and, with other members of my family, have almost covered every tie that makes life dear. God is just. My eldest son sleeps on the field of Antietam; another was severely wounded on Chapin Hills, and the one who will apply to you for a pass has not visited my house for nine months, because I dared stand firm when the mad torrent of Secession swept all before it, and severed the dearest ties that bind man to his fellow-man, writing "scalawag" on the fairest heritage of man, and spreading ruin broadcast everywhere. Let my boys feel and taste the worm-wood and gall which they have offered to others. It is your duty to God and your country, and the happiness of their father; not that he loves his sons less, but that he loves his country and her institutions more.

The Firemen and the Councils.

The report of the Special Committee of Councils, recommending a change in the location of some of the fire engines, and that the number of steam fire engines be limited to six, was made to the Councils last night, as expected. The action of the Firemen's Association, in anticipation of such a report being made, indicates clearly that the Special Committee and the Association are decidedly apart in their views. The object of the Committee is very commendable—to keep the annual appropriations as low as the necessities of the service will allow. Councils, as the representatives of the tax payers of the city, certainly are competent to pass upon this; as upon all other matters touching the city's interest, but in the consideration of a matter of so much importance, great care and prudence should be exercised. A good deal can be said on both sides of this question, and doubtless will be when the subject comes up for final action.

PROF. WILSON'S LECTURE.—Our readers should bear in mind that Rev. S. J. Wilson, D.D., of the Western Theological Seminary, will repeat his very able and patriotic lecture on "The Times," at Concert Hall, on Thursday (Thanksgiving) evening, for the benefit of the Pittsburgh Subsistence Committee. Gentlemen who wish to aid that very worthy and self-sacrificing Committee in their efforts to administer to the wants and necessities of our soldiers, should purchase tickets liberally, which can now be had at the principal book, music and drug stores. The ladies should take an active part in this matter, for the sake of their sisters who are so nobly serving in the ranks of the Committee; and if they take matters in hand we would be willing to guarantee a full house.

These are a portion of the troops paroled by the rebels at Harper's Ferry.

KIRCHARTZ SURRENDERED BY HIS BAIL.—During the trial of Hoerr, Baily and Kierkharts, this forenoon, the bail of the last named defendant withdrew his recognizance and surrendered him into the hands of the Sheriff. Baily was in jail at the commencement of the trial, and Hoerr was remanded in consequence of the testimony developed yesterday.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

[FROM OUR EVENING EDITION.]

Another Letter from Mr. Buchanan—Sensation Paragraphs in Reference to Jackson—The Northern Portion of Virginia Abandoned by the Rebels, etc.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Ex-President Buchanan, in this morning's Intelligencer, closes the controversy with Gen. Scott, and claims that he has already furnished clear and distinct responses to all the allegations of Gen. Scott. He says he should now have nothing more to add, had Gen. Scott, in his rejoinder, confined himself to the topics embraced in his original letter. He has extended them, and now for the first time, and in a sarcastic and no kindly spirit, refers to the alleged stealing of the public arms by Secretary Floyd, and their transportation to the South in anticipation of the rebellion. The most conclusive answer to this allegation is, Mr. Buchanan remarks, that, notwithstanding the hostility of Mr. Floyd at Richmond, evidently with the view of conciliating his new allies, cited by the General as his authority, no public arms were ever stolen. Had Gen. Scott reflected for a moment, he could not have fallen into this blunder.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—For several days past the Washington press has been striving to create an excitement by sensation paragraphs in reference to the proximity of Jackson's forces to the national capital. Yesterday it was reported that the advance of this army was at Drainesville, 16 miles from this city, preparing to attack some of the outer defences. Of course there is no reliable information that Jackson has moved in this direction. If he is not, as reported from Harper's Ferry, still in the valley, he is unquestionably hastening to the relief the main rebel army.

Advices from Harper's Ferry and along the line of the Potomac to Williamsport, represent that rebels pickets are stationed on the Virginia side of the river.

A gentleman who came under parole to this city, represents Jackson in the valley with a large force.

Our pickets stationed on the Maryland side are vigilantly watching the motions of the rebel pickets and their reserves.

The Potomac, in certain places between Harper's Ferry and Williamsport, is still fordable.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The Times' correspondence, dated Sigel's headquarters, Nov. 24th, says:

Such information has been received at these headquarters, this afternoon, as leaves no further room to doubt that the entire northeastern portion of Virginia has been abandoned by the rebel troops. There are a few of White's guerrillas roaming about Leesburg, Mount Gilead, Martinsburg and vicinity.

Jackson has gone towards Richmond.

From the Army of the Potomac—Fredericksburg not yet Shelled—Preparations for Crossing—A Vigorous Resistance Expected, etc.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The N. Y. Herald contains the following dispatches:

AQUIA CREEK, Nov. 24.—The reports from Burnside's army to-day represent everything as quiet and without material change. The City of Fredericksburg has not yet been shelled, for satisfactory reasons of the Commanding General.

Preparations for a further advance are steadily progressing, and present a state of expectancy soon to be relieved by prompt action.

The army is in good condition and ready and anxious to move forward.

The enemy is still in force on the opposite side of the river, and improving the time to prepare for a vigorous resistance to our crossing.

A locomotive and cars were placed upon the track here to-day, and the road will be opened to the Potomac to-morrow.

The rebel sympathizers still continue to cut the military telegraph wires between the Headquarters and Washington.

Important Rebel News—Jackson, with 30,000 Men and 60 Guns, at Berryville—Dispatch from Jeff. Davis.

HARPER'S FERRY, Va., Nov. 24.—News of interest has reached me from the headquarters of Stonewall Jackson as late as Saturday last. Jackson then had his headquarters at Berryville, and was there in person. His force was 30,000, and the number of his guns sixty.

Gen. Echols' division was with Jackson.

On Friday evening Jackson received the following telegram from Jeff. Davis: "If you do not leave the valley at once, and come to help us to defend Richmond, it will not be worth your while to come to its defence at all."

Jackson's reply is not known, but his forces were not in motion on Saturday morning. The inference is that he replied in the negative. This was the fourth dispatch Jackson received from Davis calling on him to come to the defence of Richmond.

Boston Cotton Goods Market.

November 22.—The movements in Cotton goods the past week have been of no importance. The firmness of the market, previously noticed, continues to be maintained, and a further advance of @3c per lb in cotton makes business more indifferent about selling. FOR SALE.

VALUABLE STEAM FLOURING MILL FOR SALE.—Situated in the town of Hanover, Columbiana county, Ohio, on the line of the Pittsburgh & Cleveland Railroad, in the centre of a rich grain growing country. The mill is erected on several lots of ground, is five stories high, and fully supplied with all the late improvements of machinery, &c. The mill is new, in full tide of operation, doing a large and profitable business, and the only reason for the owner selling out is on account of ill health. We are authorized to offer the above property at a great sacrifice. For full particulars call at the office of no20 B. McLAIN & CO., 102 Fourth street.

VALUABLE COAL PROPERTY FOR SALE.—150 ACRES OF COAL PRIVILEGE, adjoining the town of Steubenville, Jefferson county, Ohio. The Steubenville Coal and Coke has been fairly tested at the Belmont Furnace, at Martinsville, Ohio, nearly opposite Wheeling, where full information may be had of its qualities for smelting iron ore. This Coal and Coke proves to be the best for smelting purposes of any west of the mountains. It can be made for less money at Steubenville than at any point west of the mountains. The important fact is, the receiving and shipping of all materials without hauling. This property is finely located, lying one-third of a mile upon the Ohio river, and the Wheeling extension of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad running the whole length of said coal field. Also, the Pan-Handle (so called) Railroad crosses the other railroad upon this property. Coal can be dropped from the pit cars upon the railroad, or upon boats in the Ohio river, or into the top of a furnace, without second handling. There is a large body of coal, adjoining the above tract that can be secured if required. The following are prices that iron ore has been offered and sold for, furnished by persons conversant with the business, and may be relied upon: 10,000 tons of native ore could have been contracted for, delivered at the furnace, burned ready for use, 50 per cent. ore, at $5 per ton; Lake Superior iron ore has been bought at Cleveland for $5 per ton, freight from that point to Steubenville $1,67½—coal, dropped at the furnace, $5 57; Lake Champlain and Missouri Iron Mountain ore about the same. There is an abundance of fire clay, limestone and sandstone upon it, and in the vicinity. The present rates for all materials cost more now: also the metal. Any person wishing to make an investment will please call upon WM. O. ABRAHAM, at Steubenville, who will be ready to show the premises and explain its advantages; or upon the undersigned, at No. 112 Fourth street, Pittsburgh.

SUPERIOR BUILDING LOTS FOR SALE.—The undersigned offers for sale, on reasonable terms, some of the choicest spots for building purposes that are to be found around Pittsburgh. They are situated within one hundred yards of the terminus of the Centre Avenue Horse Railway, and are beautiful locations for private dwellings. The scenery and everything renders them extremely desirable for any one wanting to locate outside of the city limits, and at the same time so near are they that communication can be had with the city at all hours. Lots from one-fourth of an acre upwards.

Also, some Western Lands, situated in Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Also, several small lots in Minersville, 50x250 feet. The above property will be sold on accommodating terms. Inquire of JOHN HERRON,
