The Western Publishers' Convention
-- A Thief Among the Editors. The telegraph has already announced the result of the late Convention of Western Publishers, held at Indianapolis. The fact was announced that a Western Associated Press had been organised, but the names of the Directors were not given. They are as follows: J. Medill, of Chicago, R. Smith, of Cincinnett, George Knapp, of St. Louis, H. N. Walker, of Detroit, J. D. Caborne of Louisville, S. Riddle, of Pittsburgh, J. R. Elder, of Indianapolis, and C. Waggoner, of Tolledo.

presented are invited to become members. A convention will be held annually. The Convention adjourned this evening.

The editor of the Chicago Thomes, in attendance at the Convention, relates the following:

"Last night a thief enternd a room in the Bates House in which slept Smith, of the Cincinnati Gazette, Perter, of the Commercial, McLean, et the Engineer, and Oaborns, of the Louisville Journal, and robbed the first of a gold watch and pocketbook, and the second of a gold dollar and a quantity of shinplasters, postage stamps, railroad passes, etc., but missed his wallet, and robbed the third of a diamond pin, pocket knife and combr, and the last of everything portable, taking his gold watch worth $500, pocket book, coat, breeches, drawer, vest, hat, boots and sooks. Osborno detected the coamp just as he secaped from the room, and pursued him some distance down stairs, en disabelile, shouting "stop thief!" The police got on the scent of the racal, and traced him six miles out of town, and nabbed him just as he was stepping aboard the train. He is new in prison. The stolen property was all recovered. The editors pronounce him a horrid specimen of human deprayity. None of the Chicago editors were robbed, as they sat up and watched their pockets by turns.

Singular Case of Largeny.

Mayor Alexander, on Briday morning, and preferred a charge of larcony against William, or Vance, an immate of the house, alleging that he had stolen from her $450 in Pittsburgh notes. Vance and stated that he believed her husband had the money. In fact, he went even further, and alleged that Hassburger admitted to him, in the morning, after the money was missed; that "it was all right—that he had it himself." This aroused the suspicion of officer Bowden, who made the suspicion of officer Bowden, who made the arrest, and on inquiry he likarned that Fassbinder and his wife had been quarreling about their money—asch trying to grab from the other. Fassbinder, talked very flippantly about the matter, sileging that the money had "gone up a spout," and showing by his conduct that he was altogether unconcerned. The officer then, upon information received, made an information against Fassbinder, charging him with having taken the money.

owing to the immense accumulation of freight at that place. About daylight Friday morning, a colored man named lesse Manus, who drives an express wagon entered the yard, and was seen to life a sack of clover seed, lieged to remain at home and plok up inforand was seen to lift a sack of clover seed, valued at ten dollars, which he carried forward about forty feet, and placed upon the top of a barrel, near the side gate. He was accested by one of the hands, (Mr. Hopper,) saked why he removed the sack. At first he denied having touched it, but finally admitted that he had moved it because it was hanging parily off the platform, and likely to be damaged by the cars. He was then told to carry it back, and place it where he got it. He took it up, and carried it back about half way, when he said "that's where I fond it." An information was made against Manus, by Mr. J. W. Williams, the Freight Agent, and he was arrested and held for trial. He had no business' inside the yard, and the presumption is that he removed the sack up towards the gate that he might carry it off during the excitement caused by the arrival of the train, which would be due in a short time. He denied any guilty intention, and claimed to have lifted the sack to save it from destruction. He resides in the Second Ward, Allegheny.

There is some encouragement in the fact that no one here except those who ought to, does know whether it is or is not a feint: it is a yet greater cause for encouragement, that the secosh for once appear to be at a loss what to do—whether to concentrate on the Esppahannock near Falmouth, or at Gordonsville, or whether to make a clean track for Eichmond, and look Southward as well as Northward. The officer then, upon information received, made an information against Fasabinder, charging him with having taken the money. He was arrested, and in the evening gave ball in $1,000 to appear for a farther hearing this afternoon at two o'clock. The question arises here, can a man be indicted for the larceny of his wife's money? And can Vance, also a defendant, be used as a witness against Fass-binder?

Larceny of Railroad Freight.

A good deal of pilfering has been going on lately at the Federal street depot of the Pitts-bargh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway. men generally have taxen the coam or au-glauce two or three times, and are thus priv-ileged to remain at home and plok up infor-mation for the secsah army. It is hard to deal with men who have taught themselves mation for the second army. It is nard deal with men who have taught themselve that they are under no binding yow of allegiance to the flag of their country!

BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILWAY.

Public attention in Baltimore and here is again being turned to the question of repairing that road. Twenty-five miles of its track in Virginia are destroyed. Many weeks will be required, after it shall again become safe to proceed with the work on it, before travel can be resumed. The road seems not only to have been destroyed but the material, to a great extent, of which it was made. If a branch of the Baltimore and Ohio road were pushed off near Frederick City and thence via Hagerstown to Cumberland, in Maryland, thence through the Connellsville road to Pittalurgh, two new routes—the econd wie Chamberburg—would be opened up to Pennsylvania and the West; without once touching the hated soil of Virginia in this its slave-cursed portion.
