LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

From Saturday's Evening Edition.

Interesting Decision by Judge Stowe.

Our readers will remember the trial of the case of Woodward vs. Root and wife, in the Common Pleas, before Judge Stowe. The jury found for the plaintiff in the sum of $400, whereupon J. T. Cochran, Esq., counsel for the suit of Mr. Root, moved for an arrest of judgment. The motion was argued some days since, and decided this morning, to an opinion by Judge Stowe, which we publish at interesting to the profession:

Woodward vs. Root and wife: Motion in arrest of judgment.

Opinion, per Stowe, Associate Law Judge:

This action was brought by Louis B. Woodward, the plaintiff, to recover damages for malicious prosecution. Upon trial, the plaintiff having obtained a verdict, a motion is made to arrest judgment thereon, on the ground that the declaration does not set forth such facts as (admitting them to be true) will authorize an action in the present form. The very singular and anomalous declaration [it indeed it deserves such a name] after stating that plaintiff complains of the defendants for maliciously contriving to injure plaintiff, goes on to give, first a narrative of the transaction connected with the institution of the prosecution for larceny against plaintiff, stating the information to have been made by Root, the issue of the search warrant, the journey to Sharpsburg by the officers and both defendants, and the search of plaintiff's house, in which both participated, and then the arrest of plaintiff, holding to bail for appearance at Court, and the ignoramus of the bill by the grand jury, &c., and then concludes with a count, all the material averments of which are against Root alone.

If the declaration is to be construed as setting forth the acts done (so far as they were material allegations) to be those of the husband, as seems to be the general intention of the pleader, of course this action cannot be sustained. But if it is to be treated as a declaration setting forth substantially that a conspiracy or combination was instituted and carried original prosecution was instituted and carried on by the joint act of husband and wife, then on the question arises, can such an action as this be sustained under that state of facts?

The general rule of law is that a crime be committed by the wife in company with or in the presence of her husband, the latter is liable for the immediate coercion and will be excused from punishment; but if she commit a crime of her own voluntary act, or by the express command of her husband in his absence, or be guilty of treason, murder, or robbery, or any other crime mala in se and prohibited by the law of nature, or which is heinous in its character or dangerous in its consequences, even in company with or by coercion of her husband, she is punishable as much as if she were a feme sole.—Whatton's Crim. Law, 20.

Applying this principle to the case in hand, it is not necessary to go so far as Chancellor Kent in his 2d vol. 4th page 134, where he states that for the torts and frauds of the wife committed during coverture in the company of the husband, he also is liable; but simply to say that the presumption of coercion which the law raises when the acts complained of are done by the wife in the presence of the husband, is prima facie, and that therefore the averment in the declaration, giving the averment in the declaration, giving the intendment, would be a liability on the part in law only, false in fact. Even assuming that such an action as this could be maintained under certain circumstances against husband and wife for their joint act, it is apparent that the declaration should itself set forth facts, or contain allegations negativing the presumption of law that the act of the wife done in the presence of her husband was done under his coercion. There is no pretence that such is the case here, and as I deem the declaration entirely insufficient to support the action against the wife, the judgment must be arrested.

Judgment arrested.

Proceedings against an Executor.

In the Orphans' Court, this morning, before Judges Mallon and Stowe, E. Snowden, Esq., filed an application on behalf of the heirs of Catharine Rudolph, late of the First Ward, Allegheny, for a citation to compel Henry Knox, Esq., Executor of said estate, to appear and show cause why he should not enter security, or be discharged from his trust, and, in the meantime, to be restrained from acting further under the powers conferred in the will.

Mr. Snowden, after making his application, asked the privilege to read from the will of Catharine Rudolph, so show the Court the necessity of restraining the Executor from acting.

The Court replied that Mr. Knox was an honorable gentleman, and that unless there was some allegation of fraud or mismanagement, requiring a speedy remedy, an injunction could not be granted.

Mr. Snowden then remarked that, painful though it was, his duty compelled him to state that there were allegations of mismanagement against Mr. Knox, some of which were not included in the application, but the witnesses were present in Court to substantiate them. He then read from the will, by which it appeared that Mr. Knox, as Executor, had almost absolute control of the entire estate, and could make a deed for the whole in ten minutes time, to any party.

The Court suggested to Mr. Snowden that the proper remedy would be by an application for a special injunction on the Equity side of the Common Pleas, with notice to the Executor, in case any immediate injury was likely to be done.

The Court granted a citation under the application made, directed to the Executor, returnable on Friday next, at ten o'clock, to show cause why the prayer of the petitioners should not be granted.

Railroad Accident—Narrow Escape.

This morning, about five o'clock, Mr. Geo. Evans, the well known butcher, met with an unfortunate accident while on his way to market, and narrowly escaped with his life. He had driven down Anderson street, to the railroad track, and was just in the act of crossing, when a locomotive, which was hidden from view by the Catholic church, suddenly came up, at a pretty rapid rate of speed, and before Mr. Evans could get out of the way, struck the wagon, forced it, together with the horse and driver, a short distance along the track, and finally deposited all in Little's coal yard. The wagon was broken into fragments, and strange to say the horse escaped uninjured. Mr. Evans fell under the wagon, was stunned, and being unable to extricate himself, was compelled to remain in this painful condition until some men came to his assistance. He was not injured externally, but it is feared that he has been hurt internally. He was removed to a house near by, where he received every attention, and after daylight he was conveyed to his home in a carriage.

It is said that there was no signal light on the locomotive, and that its approach was not announced by the ringing of the bell. This, however, we cannot vouch for. The railroad company keeps a watchman at this crossing in daylight, but none at night, the very time when there is the greatest necessity for one. Had there been a watchman there, this morning, the accident we have just narrated might have been avoided.

The Death of Wm. Moist.

The Coroner has been engaged, for two days past, in investigating the circumstances attending the death of Wm. Moist, who was fatally injured at the outer depot, on Tuesday last, while repairing cars on the siding. It was alleged that the engineer, Mr. A. S. Wench, was in fault in driving his train against the cars on the siding, as the blue flag was displayed, according to the rules of the company, which signified that the cars were being repaired and must not be put in motion. It was further alleged that the engineer had been told that there were men at work under the cars, and that he replied "that he didn't care a d—n." To ascertain the truth of the allegation, the jury adjourned over until this morning. No testimony, however, could be adduced to substantiate the report, and the jury, having been satisfied from the positive testimony that the engineer was not to blame, inasmuch as it was impossible for him to have seen the signal flag, owing to the peculiar position of his train—found a verdict of accidental death.

Busy to Death.—Last week an interesting child of Mrs. Jessie Christy, widow of the late Josiah Christy, of West Greenville, Mercer county, aged about one year, was so severely scalded that death ensued in a few hours.

THIRD WARD DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.—The following ticket was nominated by the Democrats of the Third ward on Friday evening: Select Council—James Herdman; Common Council—E. P. Kearns, Wm. J. Montgomery, Anthony McTighe, Hugh Duffy, Martin W. Kealey, and Wm. Sullivan; School Directors—John McKeown, Dr. L. Oldshue. First Precinct—Judge—John Rattigan; Inspector—John Coyle. CALL AND SEE THEM.—Our enterprising friend PITCOCK, who at all times may be found at his post, on Fifth street, opposite the Post-office, has a fine assortment of beautiful albums, currency-holders, portmonies, diaries, and numerous other articles suitable for sales, and numerous other articles suitable for holiday presents. Mr. P. furnishes all the Eastern dailies and weeklies at the earliest possible moment after publication to all those who favor him with their patronage.

SIXTH WARD DEMOCRATIC TICKET.—The Democrats of the Sixth Ward have nominated the following ticket: Aldermen, James C. Cummins; Select Council, Wm. C. Hall; Common Council, Wm. Linn, Thomas Rourke, James Blackmore, F. Frauenheim; Judge of Elections, Joseph Riter; Inspector, Stephen McIlwaine; Assessor, Henry Rea, Jr.; School Directors, Alex. McIlwain, John Fullwood; Constable, Florence Sullivan.

AN ODD CHRISTMAS GIFT.—On Thursday evening, after dark, a male infant was left at the door of the residence of a Mr. Campbell, on Franklin street, in the Sixth Ward. It was wrapped in a shawl, which was identified, and the impression was that the mother would either come and claim her child, or be made to do so. Mr. Campbell refused the "gift," and it was taken charge of by a lady in the neighborhood.

BRUTAL.—A man named Scott was recently killed on the railroad near Mansfield, Ohio. Without any preparation, his body was put into a rough box by some inhuman scoundrel, and in this condition sent home, directed "Horse-Buyer Jim Weldon."

DEATH IN JAIL.—Charles Dougherty, committed fall for drunkenness, on Thursday, by the Mayor, died on Friday, after suffering several hours from spasms. His death was caused by intemperance.

NEW TRIAL REFUSED.—Judge Mellon today rendered a decision upon the motion for a new trial in the case of Mrs. Schaters and Steiner, of Allegheny, convicted of malicious mischief. The motion was refused.

HARPER FOR JANUARY.—The January number of Harper is out. It will be found at Hunt's, Masonic Hall, Fifth street.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

[FROM OUR EVENING EDITION.]

Retaliatory Proclamation of Jeff. Davis.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 27.—The Press publishes the proclamation of Jeff. Davis, in which he announces it as the intention of the rebellion to retaliate on Gen. Butler, and all the commissioned officers in his command, for the death of Mumford. Butler is ordered to be immediately executed when he is caught, and the officers in his command are proclaimed to be felons. All negroes taken in arms are to be hung, as well as all Federal officers found with them. The following are the concluding paragraphs:

First. That all commissioned officers in command of said Benjamin F. Butler be considered not entitled to be considered as soldiers engaged in honorable warfare, but as robbers and criminals, deserving death, and that they and each of them be, whensoever captured, reserved for execution.

Second. That private soldiers and non-commissioned officers in the army of said Butler, be considered as only the instruments used for the commission of crimes perpetrated by his orders, and not as free agents; that they, therefore, be treated, when captured, as criminals of the most degraded character, and be sent home on the usual parole, that they be dealt with in no manner aid or serve the United States in any capacity during the continuance of the war, unless duly exchanged.

Third, That all negro slaves captured in arms, are at once delivered over to the executive authorities of the States to which they belong, to be dealt with according to the laws of said States.

Fourth, That the like orders be executed in all cases with respect to all commissioned officers of the United States when found serving incompany with said slaves in insurrection against the authorities of the different States of this Confederacy.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH DAILY GAZETTE,
SATURDAY, Dec. 27, 1862.

We have no change whatever to notice in Gold. Our bankers are paying 29 per cent premium for Gold; and selling at 32c; and 33 per cent prem. for Silver, and selling at 35. Demand Notes are firm at 24 per cent prem. buying, and 25c selling. There is no change in Eastern Exchange and we continue to quote at ¼ per cent prem., selling.

GRAIN—Wheat is steady with small sales from wagon at $1,15 for Red, and $1,20@1,25 for fair to prime White. Barley is dull and lower. Rye is firm at 75c per bushel from first hands. Oats range from 45 to 50c for new and old from wagon. Sale from wharf of 625 bushel prime Ear Corn at 75c, and 300 bush Shelled from store at the same figure.

FLOUR—is a little more active, and the market is steady but unchanged. Sale of 150 bbls from store at $5,80 for Extra, and $6,50 for Extra Family, and a sale of 200 bbls Family $6,40, $6,50 and $6,62. We also note a sale of 1300 bbls of "Falls of Ohio" from first hands, to arrive, at $6,50. Rye Flour is nominal at $5,00. Buckwheat is dull with small sales of prime from store at $3,50 per cwt.

GROCERIES—There is but a limited demand for groceries, and the market is quiet but unchanged. We continue to quote Sugar at 10¾@11¾c; Coffee 22@33c and Molasses 55@58c.

OILS—With a very limited demand and heavy receipts, the market for Crude Oil is very dull and prices have again declined; a sale of 1500 bbls in bulk was reported at 16c per gallon. It is but proper to state that most of the largest holders are holding at from 20 to 25c. It is impossible to give correct quotations of Refined Oil.

BUTTER & EGGS—Butter is dull and a shade lower; we quote Packed at 12½@14c; Common Roll 15@16c; prime 18c, and choice 20c. Eggs are selling at from 18 to 20c per dozen.

CHEESE—There is a regular demand for prime selected W. R. at 12c per pound.

Weekly Review of the Oil Trade.

The following is the weekly review of the Crude Oil Trade for the week ending Thursday last, which we take from the Oil City Register:

The oil market has been dull for the past week the transactions confined to a few small lots. There has been a persistent effort on part of buyers both in Pittsburgh and the Eastern cities, to break down the prices that have ruled for the past weeks. In a measure this has proved partially successful, and prices have declined. But the receipts for the week have been fairly liberal, the market is getting tight and stiffer. A considerable amount of oil has been shipped to Pittsburgh in the last few days. The regular buyers are nearly empty, and the stock on hand is lighter than at any time during the present season. From the creek we learn that parties have oil which they have no storage and have to sell or see their oil waste. The range of the week is from $3,50 to $5,00, with but small sales. The latter figure is for strictly choice, and the readiare in too bad condition for hauling. The business here closes a little dull, but we expect to see better prices and a stiffer market by next week. Railroad stationary and the weather favorable. Freights to Pittsburgh $1,50@2,00.

The following is amounts of oil received and shipped at our principal warehouses for the week ending Saturday, Dec. 27:

Michigan Rock Oil Co;—Received 231 bbls oil. Shipped 6,658 bbls oil.

Empire Rock Oil Co.—Received 1,793 bbls oil: shipped 4,491 do. Received 1,598 empty bbls.

Hanna's Warehouse—Received 677 bbls oil; shipped 2,865. Rec'd 2,146 empty bbls.

MEETING OF OIL MEN.—An adjourned meeting of the holders of Crude Oil, convened at the Scott House, on Friday evening, for the purpose of devising some means for the better regulation of the Crude Oil market. The meeting, we learn, was largely attended, and some 50,000 barrels of oil now here, was represented. A resolution was passed, with but five or six dissenting voices, to the effect that from that time until Monday evening, no oil should be sold for less than twenty-five cents per gallon. In the meantime those who dissented from the resolution were requested to sell at such prices as they saw proper.

Whether the meeting will produce the result aimed at remains to be seen, but we think in this as in everything else, the proper way is to let the market regulate itself. This has been attempted repeatedly, under similar circumstances, and has almost invariably failed to accomplish the object aimed at.
