IMPORTANT TO OIL SHIPPERS AND REFINERS.

I have purchased five acres of desirable ground, situated on the Allegheny River and Allegheny Valley Railroad, above Lawrenceville, which I am fitting up as an Oil Yard, for the exclusive purpose of receiving, forwarding and storing Crude Oil. This property has unsurpassed advantages for the business, being located just outside the city limits, with no offensive buildings, with a fine landing for boats, and where the eastern and western cars can be loaded on the ground. I am now prepared to take care of Oil in Bulk, and, with a steam pump, to barrel, and with fire-proof tight tanks to store both oil any length of time. Or I will lease ground or parties wishing to have their own tanks, and will build tanks on contract or engage in the tank construction.

Office at the yard, on the Pittsburgh Passenger Railway. All communications addressed to DAVID KIRK, Box 908, Pittsburgh, Pa., will receive prompt attention. no25:dly

The Battle of Murfreesboro.

The news we have from Gen. Rosecrans' Army is somewhat confused, owing to its being made up of detached dispatches. It is sad and yet satisfactory. The progress of the battle was, as near as we can gather the facts, as follows:

Dec. 30.—Heavy skirmishing, with uniform success on the side of the National troops. The enemy driven to his entrenchments on Stone river (a small stream) at Murfreesboro.

Dec. 31.—At daybreak the general engagement commenced, and was maintained with great obstinacy on both sides until ten at night. McCook's division was obliged to fall back some four miles. Other divisions seem to have gained on the enemy, especially the centre. The loss on our side was very severe, that on the rebel side thought to be still more so.

Jan. 1.—The fight was renewed at 3 p. m., when the scale of victory, as we infer from the very meagre accounts that have reached us, turned decidedly in favor of the National army—they "driving the enemy, who were in full retreat." Five hundred rebel prisoners were captured, and it is stated in the last dispatch we received last night that Gen. Rosecrans occupied Murfreesboro on the first. The fact that many of the wounded were arriving at Nashville is evidence that our men are masters of the battle field. We hope for fuller details before we go to press.

If it be true that Rosecrans has gained a decided victory, it will be a stunning, perhaps finishing, blow to the rebellion in Tennessee; and while friends at home await in painful anxiety the fate of friends in the army, it is a great consolation to feel that, if they fell, they fell gloriously and not in vain. These cities were well represented there, as indeed they have been in nearly all our most sanguinary battles.

The affair with Morgan, which appears to have been a very gallant one, took place at Munfordsville, Ky., about midway between Louisville and Nashville, on the railroad, and had no connection whatever with the battle of Murfreesboro, which place is 30 miles south-east of Nashville, on the railroad leading to Chattanooga, Georgia.

The Expeditions to East Tennessee.

A letter from Danville, Ky., to the Cincinnati Gazette, written on Wednesday, gives the following account of work projected and undertaken in East Tennessee, of which the postmaster at Richmond, Ky., recently ventured to announce the results—probably before he could have ascertained them:

Two expeditions were sent, by order of Gen. Granger, last week, southward—one in command of General Carter, and one detached from Colonel Gilbert's brigade, at Richmond, in command of Lieut. Colonel Wilson, of the 44th Ohio. As their missions are no doubt accomplished ere this time, it is no longer improper to speak of them. Gen. Carter's command diverged toward Manchester; Col. Wilson's proceeded to London, and from it he dispatched two bodies of cavalry into Tennessee by different routes to surprise and break up the rebel camps, known to be about Big Creek Gap and in Scott and Campbell counties, Tennessee. They proceeded to Knoxville and Strawberry Plains, cut telegraphs, burn and destroy bridges, &c. In a word, the two last expeditions had instructions to play havoc generally.

Morgan as a Telegraphic Operator.

A Louisville dispatch tells us, that when Morgan reached a point on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, near Munfordsville, some days ago, he, with the aid of an assistant, attached an instrument and sent a dispatch to Gen. Boyle, as if from Gen. Granger. This stated that Morgan was in the vicinity of Bowling Green, intending making an attack and asking for aid.

Gen. Boyle made answer that he could not give him any.

Gen. Granger, (Morgan,) then asked if there were no troops in Mounsville which could be sent to his aid.

Gen. Boyle sent word that there were no troops in Louisville at all.

Gen. Granger asked Boyle what disposition had been made of the troops.

Gen. Boyle told him the force and position of his troops, spoke of their efficiency, &c., and gave all the information in regard to them that Morgan wanted.

Morgan then sent, in his own name, a polite message to Boyle, calling him "a bright youth and smart boy," adding with characteristic vulgarity,"

The Capture of Charleston.

It is understood that the troops for this project have been assigned, the transports for their conveyance selected, the supplies obtained, and all the arrangements so far as relates to the land force completed, and yet the expedition waits. The announcement that seven out of nine Monitors will be ready for action this week affords ground for believing that the popular impatience to possess Charleston will soon be satisfied by the reduction of that hot-bed of secession.

—The above appears in the Boston Transcript, and we copy it for the purpose of preparing our readers for an announcement that will soon be made—from which it will appear that the expedition now waiting will wait no longer, the commander designated for it having at length arrived at Washington to receive his instructions.

Gen. Jack Hamilton, at last dates from New Orleans, as already stated, was getting ready an expedition for Texas (to be composed of a portion of the troops under Gen. Banks). Its destination is probably Galveston, and its ultimate object the occupation of the Houston & Opelousas Road, the channel through which the Confederates east of the Mississippi have been in the habit of receiving large supplies of beef cattle.

The Chicago Times, a violently disloyal paper, has, by an almost unanimous vote, been excluded from the Chicago Board of Trade, and its commercial reporter denied the privilege of the room. The merchants also refuse to give the latter commercial information.

It is said that Mr. Nicolay, private Secretary to the President, contemplates an early resignation of his place on account of his health.
