THE fact that Gen. LONGSTREET has taken some thirty thousand men from the army at Richmond and gone to Tennessee to strengthen the army of BRAGG, and take the command of it, must leave Gen. LEE greatly weaker than he was when Gen. BURNSIDE made the assault upon him. We know not whether it is practicable to move the army of the Potomac across the Rappahannock at this season; but the rumors we have to that effect, together with the order just issued that no more passes shall be granted for the present, are indications that something is going on. The removal of LONGSTREET to Shelbyville occasions considerable anxiety; but Gen. ROSECRANS, it is stated, is ready for him.

Expedition up the Arkansas River.

The St. Louis Republican expresses the opinion that Gen. McClernand will follow up his operations on the Arkansas river, (so well begun by the capture of Arkansas Post,) to Little Rock, the capital of the State. The capture of the latter place, which is said to have a rebel garrison of not more than 15,000 men, would put that important river into the possession of the National forces, cutting off the Northern portion of the State from the Confederacy. The Republican says that Gen. McClernand is improving his time in this way while waiting for Generals Banks and Grant to co-operate with him in another attack upon Vicksburg.

Negley and the Pennsylvanians.

A correspondent of the Philadelphia Press, writing from Murfreesboro, gives some interesting items touching the great struggle on Stone river. We subjoin a part of the letter:

Gen. Negley, probably, upon Wednesday saved the corps d'armee of Gen. McCook by his prompt assistance. His troops fought well, and were skillfully manœuvred. Gen. Negley distinguished himself for his coolness and valor during the fight, and reflected great credit upon the State which he represents. A spent piece of shell damaged the beauty of the General's eye, without marring the vision, thus giving fresh room to my dispatch that he is wounded. The staff officers of Gen. Negley also performed their duties well. Major Kennedy, of Pittsburgh, had one horse shot from under him, and Lieut. Barker, it is believed, will receive promotion for his capacity and intrepidity. Capt. Lowrie, chief of staff, was upon the field during the whole engagement, and has been highly complimented by Gen. Rosecrans for his courage and endurance.

The First brigade was temporarily placed in the Eighth division, but were held by Gen. Negley in reserve.

The First brigade, East Tennesseans, have been permanently attached to the Eighth division, making it the second largest in the Army of the Cumberland.

The command of General Johnson is so completely used up, that I am unable, at present, to arrive at anything definite regarding the 77th Pennsylvania. It is true, however, that the regiment is terribly cut up, besides a large number of prisoners. Colonel Housem is seriously wounded, and will furnish me, as soon as he is able, a list of killed, wounded and missing.

The 78th Pennsylvania acted splendidly throughout the battle, and wins the greatest distinction of any regiment upon the field; for, when the enemy attacked the centre so furiously Friday night, Colonel Sirwell charged the two rebel regiments across Stone river. Sergeant H. A. Miller, of Butler county, was the first man across, and planted the colors upon the coveted ground. Colonel Sirwell is acting Provost Marshal of Murfreesboro at present.

Colonel Hambright's regiment, the 79th Pennsylvania, was in the reserve, and suffered but little, losing but fourteen men in killed and wounded. The qualities of this fine body of men, however, were exhibited at Harrysville. Colonel Hambright lost all of his baggage and papers, which were burned by the guerrillas at Lavergne.

The Platform of Opposition.

The Philadelphia Press sums up the leading features of the policy of the opposition party now organized, under the names of "Conservatism" and "Democracy," to-wit: 1. Opposition to all attempts to punish treason, by arresting those who proclaim treasonable sentiments. 2. Opposition to the draft. 3. Attempts to demoralize the army by fomenting a spirit of dissatisfaction and mutiny. 4. Depreciation of the currency by weakening the public faith, and producing a distrust in the minds of those who buy and invest. 5. Opposition to the confiscation of rebel property, the emancipation of the slaves of rebels, and the employment of negroes in the army and navy. 6. Opposition to the revenue and tax laws. 7. Propositions for armistice and the suspension of the blockade. 8. Invitations to the European Powers to mediate in the affairs of the country. 9. Denunciation of the generals who make themselves conspicuous in the cause of liberty, like Banks, Butler and Hunter, and a disparagement of generals who achieve great military successes, like Rosecrans and Grant. 10. Constant and malignant assaults upon the Executive departments of the Government, the Treasury, the War and the Navy. 11. Attempts to create revolutions by endeavoring to array the State and local authorities against the Government. 12. A constant repetition of the idea that the destiny of the Middle and Western States is with the South, and that the true policy of the future will be to separate from New England and unite under the Southern Confederacy.

THE Cincinnati Gazette says:

The troops in the Mississippi department are being rapidly concentrated, and extensive preparations are being made for important operations. All the steamboats on the lower Mississippi are being taken up for Government use. An effort is to be made to open up or repair the Vicksburg disaster. The result, or the mode are, of course, not made public, but it will be satisfactory for the people to know that the forces in that Department are not to be taken off and sent to Murfreesboro.

The Rebel-Sympathizing "Democracy" of New York.

A New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Press, in a letter written the day after the Copperhead Confrere of VALLANDIGHAM, S. S. COX, of Ohio, made his recent speech at a meeting of the "Young Men's Democratic Association" in that city, speaks thus with just severity of remonstrance against such "liberty of prophesying" as the Government indulges these traitors with, whose highest oratorical flights are calculated to evoke cheers for JEFF. DAVIS and groans and hisses for the National Government and its loyal supporters:

This "Young Men's Democratic Association," as it calls itself, is nothing less than a malignant revolutionary committee, on the old French plan, organized by those who have sympathized from the first with the Southern rebels, to insidiously work upon the ignorance and evil passions of the mob, and form a party to make a formidable demonstration against the authority of the Government at the first fair opportunity. It was this association that serenaded Pierre Soule, Vallandigham, and other notorious traitors, at the notorious New York Hotel, and it will yet plunge this city into an armed revolution, and openly array the State against the National Government, if the latter does not take warning in time, and put down the unscrupulous scamps with a strong arm. The scenes witnessed in Harrisburg a day or two ago were but faint prophecies of the state of things sure to be attained in this city and State under Wood and Seymour's plotting, before the spring commences, if the National Government longer permits itself to wear the aspect of being overawed by the party now striving to force an armistice with the South. On other occasions than the one mentioned here, Jeff. Davis has been cheered in the streets of New York, and it is hard to mention any member of the Government, or any Union general in a Democratic meeting, without provoking a tempest of groans, and denunciation. My friend will tell his tale in time. No Government can afford to let its avowed enemies tamper with the rank as the enemies of the present Administration are now doing; it is worse than fool-hardiness to permit an artful rebel to stand up before a New York rabble, and more than insinuate that the West would sooner follow the South than remain in the same Union with New England—as Cox did last night; it is simple folly—it is to tolerate the existence of a metropolitan paper, which daily blazes with articles not a whit less infamous than the worst diatribes in the most venomous Richmond print. Who can wonder that the true friends of the Union, and the Union Government, are disheartened and divided, when treason, open-mouthed and boasting, is permitted, year in, year out, by its head, but its whole diseased body, in the chief city of that Union, without being so much as rebuked by the benignant power it insults and plots against?

THE PEOPLE OF ENGLAND ALL RIGHT.—The Boston Traveller says: A gentleman of this State, of high standing, just returned from England, states that in a conversation with a substantial man of business of that country, for the past twenty years a member of the British Parliament, the opinion was expressed that, notwithstanding the bitter hatred to the United States felt by the aristocracy and a portion of the mercantile classes, helped along by the outrageously false statements of the London press, the people of that country, by an immense majority, steadily sustained the position of the North, and would make themselves heard, should the Government, in any way, attempt to intervene in favor of the South.

Internal Revenue Operations.

Commissioner Boutwell has prepared an elaborate report of the operations of his Bureau. He still estimates the revenue under the Tax law at one hundred and fifty millions. The cost of collection, including the expenses of the Central Office here, is only 2 40-100 per cent. The Commissioner notes the difficulties attending the organization of the Bureau, the success of its operations, and the willingness of the people to pay the taxes imposed by the law. In regard to the compensation of Assessors as too small, and recommends a considerable increase.

THE SALE OF STAMPS.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue received from all sources, including sales of stamps, during the week ending the 15th inst., over a million and a quarter dollars—nearly a quarter of a million a day, on the average.

The Knights of the Golden Circle Again—Treason in Indianapolis.

An Indianapolis dispatch of Friday says: John O. Brown, a private in one of the cavalry regiments recently stationed here, has been found guilty before a court martial of introducing the secret organization known as the Knights of the Golden Circle into the camps near the city, thereby encouraging desertions, demoralization, &c. The verdict of the Court has not yet transpired, but the crime is punishable by military law with death. How much more guilty are the rascals who advocate such doctrines, and make a tool of this poor soldier for which his life will pay the penalty!

THE Boston Traveller expects to receive good news from North Carolina within a week. Reinforcements have been sent to Gen. Foster, and the probability is that the Eighteenth Army Corps must number between forty and fifty thousand men. Several true hints will act in conjunction with his army, for the capture of Wilmington, and ere long the capital (Raleigh) and two more important and wealthy sections of the "Old North State" will doubtless be in our possession. For a few days, probably, the friends of our soldiers must be content not to receive any letters, as the mails will probably be doubled, with certain important movements can be carried out.

THE track of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, between Elizabethtown and Nashville, is now in complete repair, and trains are running with perfect regularity between those points. The only break in the road at present is that taken up by the destruction of the trestle-work in the vicinity of Muldraw's Hill, and that will be reconstructed by the first of February. Trains from Louisville run to Colesburgh, eight miles north of Elizabethtown, and passengers are transported by stage, or otherwise, from Colesburgh to Elizabethtown, and at the latter point resume the cars for Nashville.

GEN. TOM THUMB and Miss Lavinia Warren were married at Trinity Church, N. Y., on Wednesday. The audience was very large and the scene very imposing.
