Pittsburgh Gazette.

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 14.

THE UNION STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE of loyal citizens of Pennsylvania, will meet in Harrisburg, on Wednesday, the 18th instant.

The Venom of Copperheads.

The New York Evening Post relates the following incident:

In a street car on a railroad which runs into New York, a few mornings ago, a scene occurred which will not soon be forgotten by the witnesses of it. A person dressed as a gentleman, speaking to a friend across the car, said: "Well, I hope the war may last six months longer. If it does I shall have made enough to retire from business. In the last six months I've made a hundred thousand dollars—six months more and I shall have enough."

A lady sat beside the speaker, and necessarily heard his remark; but when he was done she tapped him on the shoulder, and said to him: "Sir, I had two sons—one of them was killed at the battle of Fredericksburg; the other was killed at the battle of Murfreesboro."

She was silent a moment, and so were all who heard her. Then overcome by her indignation, she suddenly slapped the speculator in the face, and before the fellow could say a word the passengers sitting near, who had witnessed the whole affair, seized him and pushed him hurriedly out of the car, as one not fit to ride with decent people.

The heartless wretch richly merited the treatment he received at the hands of the lady and the other passengers; and in saying this we claim nothing but what is common to every man possessing the ordinary instincts of manhood and patriotism. The incident is told, and well told, by a paper which is perhaps in more entire agreement with the GAZETTE than any other with which we exchange, and is calculated to warm the heart and awaken generous emotions in every manly bosom; but that which calls up such emotions in some natures, excites in others no other feelings than those of malignity and spite. In the Pittsburgh Post, of yesterday, the incident is published, with the following commentary appended:

We find this in the New York Evening Post, and wonder that the lady was not immediately arrested, on the charge of disloyalty to the government. Here was a contractor, who had begged the sum of a hundred thousand dollars, wishing for six months more of carnage, in order that he might double his profits in contracts, and a lady who hadn't made quite so much, but had lost two sons, showed her evident opposition to the war by slapping his face. If this wasn't giving aid and comfort to Jeff. Davis there is no logic in abolition teachings. Were that lady in this city to exhibit her opposition to the war, in the manner mentioned, the half-dozen pensioners about the Gazette office would not rest until she was properly punished for her treason. We have fallen upon evil times indeed, when a patriot, panting for the honor of his country, is thus rudely assaulted by an opponent of six months more of war. Will the patriots of the Gazette intimate the quality and quantity of punishment to which this traitoress should be subjected? The injured man being an officer of the government, that government is necessarily insulted through him, and hence the enormity of the offense. We cannot estimate the exact penalty for such an outrage against the government, but we think it ought to be transportation, at least. Down with the traitors who will dare insult a tender and patriotic government contractor.

Our principal object in copying this wretched paragraph is to exhibit the spirit of Copperhead Democracy. It requires no comment, for no language that we can use can deepen or intensify the disgust that all decent people must feel at such an exhibition of venom, such a far-fetched and malignant attack. But while we are at it (lest some reader might suppose that there is even a semblance of truth underlying it,) we shall state, once for all, that no one connected with this paper has any connection, directly or indirectly with any government contract—that but one holds any appointment connected with the war, and he is a faithful and efficient officer, rendering a full equivalent for his salary. The talk, therefore, about "the half dozen pensioners about the GAZETTE office" is false and slanderous. But can any man about the Post adopt, as the writer of this article can, almost the identical language of the lady spoken of above? or have they any sons still enduring the toils and exposed to the perils of war? Have they as much reason to long and pray for peace as we have?

But we can offer an apology for our venomous assailants: their poison was so stirred up when Mr. MCTIGHE broke up that conclave of traitors, that they had to spit it out on somebody or die; so they struck at us. They couldn't help it. They have, however, made good their title to the term by which their faction is designated—Copperheads.

NEW JERSEY COPPERHEADS REBUKED.—The people of New Jersey do not relish the proceedings of their copperhead legislature. Thus, at a meeting in Atlantic county, a day or two since, the following resolution was adopted:

We most emphatically reject both the men and the peace resolutions of the so-called copperheads of the New Jersey Legislature, who are seeking to drag our State into that whirlpool of rebellion which threatens the destruction of the best Government the world ever saw. May their names be inscribed upon the "scroll of infamy, and be handed down to posterity side by side with those of Arnold and Burr.

THE communication signed "Union" is not accompanied with the name of the writer, which is, as a general thing, required. He may rest assured that the matter about which he is solicitous will not be neglected. Everything in its proper time.

A COLORED MAN ELECTED TRUSTEE.—G. B. Swan, colored, was elected Trustee of the town of Potsdam, St. Lawrence county, New York, at the recent election.

SENATOR FOOT, of Vermont, refused to take his share of the mileage voted to itself by Congress.

On our first page will be found several deferred articles of interest.

WOOD VS. DOUGLAS.—In the Chicago Court of Chancery last week, a bill for foreclosure was issued in a cause of Fernando Wood against the heirs, widow and creditors of the late Stephen A. Douglas. The amount claimed is over eighty thousand dollars, on property near the Illinois Central Railroad works.

THE Union citizens of Fayette county, Kentucky, held a meeting at Lexington on Tuesday, to appoint delegates to the Louisville Convention. The unconditional Union men were largely in the majority, and voted down several foolscap pages of conditional Union literature.

Immense Union Meeting in Philadelphia.

The National Union Club of Philadelphia had a great and enthusiastic meeting in Philadelphia on Wednesday evening. Speeches were made by Governor ANDY JOHNSON, of Tennessee, Ex-Governor WRIGHT, of Indiana, Senator DOOLITTLE, Hon. HENDRICK B. WRIGHT, of Pennsylvania, and others. The speeches were admirable, but none of them have a truer ring than that of the sterling old Democrat Mr. WRIGHT, of the Luserne district. We love such Democrats. Hear him:

I am an unflinching, unyielding, and unconditional Union man. [Cheers.] There are no buts or ifs standing in my way. I am not in favor of sustaining my government and my country with a proviso. [Applause—cries of "good—of course you are."] I love loyal men, and I hate traitors. I am not one of those who apologize for treason, and sympathize with the men who are now in open rebellion against the Federal Union. They are the enemies of my country, and I am theirs. I have been an active Democrat now for a third of a century. I am a Democrat now, and will continue so during my life. One of its cherished principles, as I learned, was love of country, and obedience to the Constitution and laws—to maintain liberty, and if needs be, fight for it. [Long continued applause.] I am one of those, too, who believe that patriotism is above party, and that it is the duty of all loyal men now, irrespective of party names, to unite heart and hand, body and soul, and put down, at the point of the bayonet, the most foul, corrupt, and causeless rebellion that the world ever saw. The time has not yet come, Mr. President, when the loyal men of the North have made up their minds to sit down with folded arms and surrender their liberties. It may be the case with demagogues, but not with the masses—it may be so with sympathising Secession traitors, but not with patriots. Our liberties cost too much to be so easily surrendered. Our ancestors were seven long years in establishing the American Union, and degenerated indeed are we if we cannot devote twice that number of years in maintaining and perpetuating it. They sealed it in a covenant with their heart's blood—it is hardly yet cold; and yet do I hear men every where doubting if the Union can be saved. Is it because they would see it destroyed? Have they a relish for aggrarianism? Would they welcome the guillotine? [Laughter.] Under the pretext that this is "an Abolition war," they say "let Abolitionists fight it." They cry "peace," when there is no peace. Now, sir, I am no Abolitionist, and yet I am in favor of fighting this war to the bitter end—till rebellion is crushed out, and the bleeding Union restored. I am as anxious, too, for peace as any man living, but it must be a peace with one Union, one Constitution, and one flag. It must be a peace alike honorable to the courage of the North as well as the honor of the country. Not that kind of peace which Northern sympathisers with Southern treason would have—a peace which would destroy the last vestige and hope of human liberty. But, sir, how idle and delusive to talk of peace while armed rebellion is in the ascendant. The rebel press say that "if the whole Yankee nation will lay themselves at our feet, and become our slaves, we will spurn them from us. We will reunite upon no terms, upon no condition, with them." The great leader of this bogus, bastard confederacy, in a speech recently delivered by him to the Mississippi Legislature, wondered, in utter amazement, "how they could have any love or regard for the old Union, composed of the descendants of men from the bogs and fens of Ireland and Scotland, of low and vulgar origin. With such vulgar creatures he would never again unite." [Laughter.] With such sentiments from the rebel press and the great unchained leader of rebel hordes, who in his senses at the North can talk of peace? The evidences to my mind are that the man who does so is a traitor himself, and so I must regard him, despite his declarations to the contrary. Self-pride would at least make me resent that cool and defiant insolence uttered by Jeff. Davis and his abject and wicked coadjutors.

What keen sarcasm is in the following vigorous passage where he speaks of the copperheads:

One would think that the deep cut gashes of our soldiers, sending forth their hearts' blood, would blanch the hardened cheek of treason! It does not. Their dear brethren who make those gashes "are a chivalrous people. They have sustained great wrongs, and they are the very salt of the earth. It is an abolition war—let abolitionists fight it out!"

Important Railroad Movement in New Jersey.

The railroad monopoly which has so long controlled the legislature of New Jersey, is about to apply to the legislature of that State for the extension of its special privileges. These privileges are of the most valuable character, constituting an effectual bar to the construction of any competing roads across the State from the Hudson to the Delaware, and thus compelling every traveler to pay tribute to the coffers of this single corporation, which is under no obligations at all to furnish accommodations adequate to the demands of travel, but can serve just as indifferently as it pleases the millions of people who, in passing South and West, necessarily travel over its lines. The present application has been withheld until the adjournment of Congress and the removal of all danger of a government post road across New Jersey—which enterprise, it is thought, would have been stimulated by a disclosure at an earlier date of this monopoly scheme—but now, the legislature being largely democratic, and that party relying always upon the joint companies for its chief support, the extension asked for will no doubt be granted.

JAMES BUCHANAN is now buying land in Chester county, Pennsylvania, and, it is said, going extensively into the cultivation of flax, for what purpose is left open to public suspicion. It is a natural presumption that he means to make ropes to hang the rascals who nominated him for the Presidency, and whom he now regards as the authors of all his woes. But for them he might have died in peace, and been honored in memory after a fashion. Now he is likely to go down in sorrow, unless his rope business is really a penitential dodge, signifying his readiness to facilitate the hanging of his old friends.

NOT NEUTRAL.—A clergyman in these times who refuses to pray for the success of our arms, can offer no comfort to the sick and wounded soldier, from the justness of our cause. He cannot tell the burdened widow that her martyred son has died for a noble object—he cannot thank God for any victory. Knowing he will be forever despised if our cause triumphs, he has the most powerful temptation by intrigue, whispering and pretended lamentions over the horrors of the war, to compass, if possible, the "defeat of our arms." Such a man is dangerous in any community.—American Presbyterian.

NEVER SATISFIED.—One of our corporations recently paid a dividend of fifty per cent. An elderly gentleman as he took his check for a thousand, did not appear over satisfied, and the clerk ventured to remark that the dividend was rather a large one. The veteran looked at the young man over his spectacles, and said, with a grunt: "I will do, if they only keep it up."—Boston Gazette.

IT is stated that between £500,000 and £600,000 of a contemplated advance of £3,000,000 to the Confederate government has been negotiated at Paris and Frankfort. The amount is to be secured by cotton at 5d. per pound, which is to be delivered on the cessation of the blockade.

RAILWAY TIMEKEEPERS, especially adapted for Army Sales. We are obliged to pay gold for these Watches in Geneva, and owing to the premium on specie, our price is now $45 per one of 18; not sold in less quantities. These are our lowest rates—as gold advances or declines so the price will fluctuate accordingly. The New York Illustrated News, of Feb. 7th, 1863, says:—"To Hubbard Bros., of this city, are importing a most appropriate and serviceable Watch for Army duties in the field, to be used and taking the cheap and tawdry look of Watches of that class being wholly avoided. This novelty should meet the quiet and heavy sale it merits, and we bespeak for this enterprising firm an extensive patronage." Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, of Feb. 21, 1863, says:—"Hubbard's Timekeepers are becoming proverbial for their accuracy and reliability. They are particularly valuable for officers in the Army, and travelers." Retail at from $20 to $40 each. Readily. Price—Heavy silver-plated or heavy gold-plated, per case of six, $45. We have no agents or travelers, and never deal with or do any ordering from the interior. TERMS CASH. If by mail, send treasury notes, or draft on New York, payable to our order. Money may be sent by the Express Company; prepaid there to make the purchase from us. Orders and others to disappointment and cost to ourselves.
