The Treatres.—Emms Waller appears this evening in her great part of Marina, Duches of Mali. Those who witnessed this liedy's impersonation of this truly wonderful play on Friday night last, will hardly fail to remember Mrs. Waller's great powers as an actress. As this is the last occasion of this thrilling tragedy during the lady's engagement it may be a long time before the public may again have another opportunity offered them. The evening's performance will conclude with the interesting farce of the Conjugal Lesson.

The state of Georgia, dragged under force and menace into the iniquity of revolt against the federal authority, is at last a wenging herself upon the conspirators who led her into crime. Her legislature is the series currency, and has also rejected the bill to compet the planting of provision crops alone. The former of these acts is a most significant contension of want of coinfidence in the stability of the Confederacy, and the latter is hardly less important, as indicating a determination on the part of the people no longer to submit to excited, and privation for the benefit exclusively of the slaveholding class, who precipitated upon them the horrors of revolution. Another evidence of the growing indisposition of that Empire State of the South to acquiesce in the arbitrary demands of the rebel leaders is furnished in the refusal of her legislature to pass a bill taxing those who refuse to take the Confederate oath fifty per cent of the amount required for white the confederate oath fifty per cent of the amount required for a lot take the Confederate oath fifty per cent of the amount required for a lot take the Confederate oath fifty per cent of the amount required for a lot take the Confederate oath fifty per cent of the amount required for a lot take the Confederate oath fifty per cent of the succession of the confederate oath fifty per cent of the succession of the confederate oath fifty per cent of the succession of the confederate oath fifty per cent of the succession of the confederate oath fifty per cent of the succession of the confederate oath fifty per cent of the succession of the confederate oath fifty per cent of the succession of the confederate oath fifty per cent of the succession of the confederate oath fifty per cent of the succession of the confederate oath fifty per cent of the confederate oath fif who refuse to take tiffs Confederate oath fifty per cent of the amount required for public purposes.
