The Galway Steamship Line.

We direct the attention of our readers to the advertisement of the "Atlantic Royal Mail Steam Navigation Company," better known as the "Galway Line," which will be found on our second page. The advantages which the Galway route possesses over all others as affording the safest and shortest passage to Europe, have been so clearly demonstrated that we deem it unnecessary to dwell on the fact here. It is enough to know that being the most direct route to Europe, the Galway route is by far the shortest, and this, combined with the magnificent character of the company's steamers and the extreme moderation of their rates of passage, renders it certain that the line will do a tremendous business.

Mr. D. O'Neill, of the Chronicle, is the agent for this city, and the company has been fortunate in selecting a gentleman so energetic, competent and trustworthy. Persons desiring passage for themselves or their friends, should by all means call upon the agent and ascertain his terms.

Losses in the 46th Pennsylvania Regiment.

The following are the casualties in company D, 46th regiment Pennsylvania volunteers, Capt. Critig's company:

Orderly Sergeant Elijah Barnes, wounded in the right arm, and amputated; James Frazier, 5th sergeant, wounded in the right breast, bruised, not dangerous; John Gaven, wounded in the left thigh, flesh wound. Company D, 46th regiment, all escaped, and are well.

The following are the names of the other wounded in the 46th regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, in addition to those of company D, given above: Killed—Private John Weinsick, of Company D, Dauphin county, Pa.; Sergeant Brisar, Company E, Berks county, Pa. Wounded—Co. D: Private Mathew Taylor, slightly; Corporal John L. Lonely, Company C; Patrick Riley, Chatasequa, Pa.; Ephraim Dalph, Bethlehem. Company D: Cornelius Hoak, Dauphin county, Pa.

BOLD LARCENY.—On Tuesday morning last, after daylight, a man was seen to leave the tavern of Mr. George Gerber, corner of the Diamond and Gay alley, Allegheny, and on examination it was found that he had carried off a silk dress, a silk sack, two veils and several articles of jewelry. He made good his escape.

CAPT. ALI'S COMPANY.—The following are the casualties reported in Capt. Ali's company, 28th Regiment: John Lysle, of Rochester, slightly wounded in the hand; Wm. Jones, of Pittsburgh, slightly wounded.

Councils and the Incendiaries.

The late incendiary fires in this city have caused considerable alarm, and there is a disposition now to take some action which it is hoped will protect the community. A special meeting of Councils was called for last evening, for the purpose of considering the propriety of offering a suitable reward for the apprehension and conviction of the party or parties engaged in firing the property of our citizens. No quorum was present in either branch, and consequently no formal action could be taken. The members present, however, so far as we could learn, favored the proposition. In Select Council, Mr. Allen stated that it was his intention to offer a resolution to authorize the Water Committee to get an insurance upon the Water Works, to the amount of $5,000. The property was exposed to fire, and while he believed the Water Committee had the power to insure the building, still he desired that Councils might sanction such action. An informal vote was taken, and the members present (eight in number) all voted in favor of the proposition excepting one. Councils then adjourned.

It is to be regretted that in return for the immense sums of money annually expended in this city for the support of a police system, adequate protection from incendiary fires cannot be obtained. There is something radically wrong in the system or in the method of its administration, else the Councils would not be compelled to resort to the course above indicated. We have no hesitation in endorsing the opinion entertained by the majority of our citizens, that the great evil lies inappointing and keeping in place utterly incompetent, worthless and drunken officers—men given to debauchery and dissipation, and therefore wholly unfit and unreliable.

Capt. Knap's Battery.

There has been much anxiety felt in reference to the loss sustained by Knap's Battery in the late battles at Gettysburg. An officer of high rank in the 45th Pennsylvania Regiment, under date of July 5th, gives the following as the list of casualities:

"Knap's Battery," Lieut. Atwell in command—H. G. Gibson, wounded in the shoulder; Nicholas Faltzer, wounded in the wrist; James C. Davis, wounded in the breast. This battery was warmly engaged on the 2d, and changed position to another location during the night. Six hundred rounds were fired from this battery.

This report tallies exactly with a private letter received from a member of the battery, who reported but three men wounded, but no names were given. The above is doubtless correct.

Movement of Troops.

Knap's new battery, recently organized in this city, and fully equipped, and furnished with excellent guns, left the city last evening, by the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad, having been ordered to report at Beverly, Va. Col. Dick's regiment goes to New Creek, and Col. R. B. McCombs' regiment will report at Parkersburg. The cavalry battalion recently organized here by Lieut. Col. Lininger, of Indiana county, and Major H. Kreps, of Jefferson county, are also under marching orders. Of the ultimate destination of these troops we know nothing, but we are satisfied that they will give a good account of themselves when occasion offers.

Larceny of $550.

Wm. Gray, teamster, residing on Ewalt street, Lawrenceville, was robbed, on Wednesday night last, of five hundred and fifty dollars in money. He had kept the money secreted for a time in his stable, but fearing some incendiary might fire the stable, he placed the money in an old bureau, among some clothes. On Wednesday night some person gained access to the room and carried off all the money. It was all on Pittsburgh banks, and there were four fifty dollar bills, the balance being tens and fives. He has no clue whatever to the thief.

ANOTHER OLD SOLDIER GONE.—Geo. Schreiner, aged seventy-two, a soldier of 1813, died at his residence in Lawrenceville, on Wednesday evening.

The Fruits of Grant's Victory.

It is hinted, in dispatches from Washington, that Gen. Grant does not intend to rest still at Vicksburg. An immediate movement of some kind was to be expected from so active and enterprising a commander. Grant has now a formidable force—probably a hundred thousand men—inspirited by victory, experienced in arms, under generals in whom they have confidence, and with a leader of whose genius they are proud. With such a force great results can be accomplished.

No doubt Grant has avoided the losses inevitable in storming Vicksburg, partly because he desired to have his army ready to strike another great blow as soon as the rebel fortress fell into his hands. Accordingly, he has now no dead to bury, no thousands of wounded to care for, no material of war to repair or replace. His whole great army is in fighting trim; and we may be sure that the general has his plan of campaign perfected.

It is probable that this first blow will be dealt at General Johnston. If he can catch this rebel army he will make short work of it; and when it is out of the way there is nothing to prevent his march through Mississippi to Montgomery in Central Alabama. The rebels have so exhausted that region of men that they could not hope to raise an army in Grant's rear. The possession of Montgomery would secure the fall of Mobile, and, with Mobile as a new base of supplies—which would come up the Alabama river—Grant could undertake a fresh campaign.

Vicksburg will give us at once nearly the whole of the State of Mississippi; and as in the northern part of that State the Union sentiment was and remains strong, it may be that we shall hear of a loyal State government being set up as soon as Gen. Grant drives out Johnston.

The relations of Grant to Rosecrans, in the meantime become interesting. The fall of Vicksburg leaves Rosecrans at liberty to take greater risks than he could prudently assume while Grant had his hands full, and no doubt the Army of Tennessee will follow Bragg to Chattanooga and endeavor to intrest the place. If the rebel army can be confined to that stronghold, even a long siege by Rosecrans will be no disadvantage, as it will give Grant time to march into Alabama, where he and Rosecrans will be able to operate together against the enemy. They will be strong enough, combined, to meet any army which can be brought against them.

The more closely we consider the present position of Grant, the more disastrous to the rebel cause do we perceive his victory to be. Davis spoke only the simple truth when he said that "the Confederacy must stand or fall with Vicksburg." Grant's march eastward will be, in fact, an attack upon the enemy's rear, threatening and capturing his supplies, his depots, and his communications with the outer world. Grant's advance will make the position of Rosecrans safe; and if, as is hinted, movements are making which will give us Charleston even before Grant can reach Mobile, while, according to Mr. Seward, North Carolina is likely to return to the Union presently, nothing but the decisive defeat of Lee is needed to crush out all organized and formidable opposition to the Union and liberty. It is the part of the Eastern States to make sure of Lee's destruction.

OUR SPECIAL DISPATCHES.

FROM WASHINGTON.

THE SITUATION OF AFFAIRS IN MARYLAND.

The Two Armies Within Five or Six Miles of Each Other.

PROBABLE BATTLE ON EITHER SATURDAY OR SUNDAY.

EXTRACTS FROM RICHMOND PAPERS.

&c., &c., &c.

Special Dispatch to the Pittsburgh Gazette.

WASHINGTON, July 10, 1863.

THE SITUATION.

Meade's and Lee's armies were at last accounts five or six miles apart, and skirmishing between the outposts has occurred to-day. So far from having crossed, the enemy were at last accounts bringing ammunition from the Virginia side of the river. Another great battle to-morrow or the day after is probable, but Meade is under no necessity to act hastily. Recent rains have swollen the Potomac so much as to render it unfordable for a week.

FROM THE RICHMOND PAPERS.

Richmond papers of the 8th are jubilant over a victory on Saturday night, July 4th, and Sunday, at Gettysburg, reported in a telegram from Martinsburg, to the effect that the centre, under Hill, fell back, drawing the enemy from their works, who were thereupon flanked by Ewell and Longstreet.

Lee finally routed the Yankees, and took forty thousand prisoners, who refused to be paroled, and are now coming under guard to Martinsburg.

Another dispatch from Petersburg says that paroled prisoners report our flag of truce officers sullen and gloomy, and representing our loss at sixty thousand.

The Examiner and Enquirer swallow this whole, and the latter contains a savage leader, giving Philadelphia and Washington over to pillage, and our own Baltimore to its own people, and Cincinnati, the city of strychnine whisky and fat pork to flames.

The Dispatch believes Lee's manœuvre to be that of Hannibal's at Cannæ, and promises the Confederacy fifty thousand soldiers from Maryland.

The Examiner mentions as rediculous a report, via Jackson, that Vicksburg has surrendered and the garrison been paroled.

The other papers felicitate themselves upon the reported successes by Johnston.

The following is slipped from the Richmond Dispatch of Tuesday:

Raleigh, July 6.—Some excitement was occasioned here yesterday on account of a cavalry raid on the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad, at Warsaw.

It is rumored that the enemy has gone back towards Newbern; but nothing is certain.

Gov. Vance addressed the people at the Court House this morning. All the citizens are being enrolled for the defenses of the city, in an emergency.

At the Libby Prison yesterday, by order of General Winder, the captains among the Yankee prisoners, numbering seventy-four, drew lots for two to be shot in retaliation for the shooting of Captains William F. Corbin and T. J. McGraw, by Gen. Burnside at Sandusky, Ohio, on the 15th of May last. The prisoners were assembled in the room at 12 o'clock by Capt. Turner, commandant of the prison, and after being formed in a hollow square, around a table, they were informed of the order of Gen. Winder. A slip of paper with the name of each man written on it was carefully folded and deposited in the box on the table. Capt. Turner then informed the men that they might select whom they pleased to draw the names out—the first two names drawn to indicate those to be shot.

Capt. Sawyer, of the first New Jersey cavalry, suggested that one of the chaplains be appointed. Three of the chaplains were called down from an upper room, and the Rev. Mr. Brown accepted the task. Amid a silence almost death-like, the drawing commenced. The first name taken out of the box was that of Captain Henry Washington Sawyer, of the first New Jersey Cavalry, and the second that of Captain John Flinn, of the fifty-first Indiana. When the names were read out, Sawyer heard it with no apparent emotion, remarking that some one had to be drawn, and he could stand it as well as any one else. Flinn was very white, and much depressed.

The prisoners were then dismissed, and the condemned men sent to Gen. Winder's office. On arriving there they were permitted to write letters to their friends. Sawyer wrote a letter home, and read it aloud to a detective standing near. Upon coming to the last part of it, saying "Farewell, my dear wife; farewell, my children; farewell, mother;" he begged those near by to excuse him, and turning aside burst into tears. Flinn said he had no letters to write, and only wanted a priest.

Both men were returned to Libby Prison, and will be kept in close confinement until the day of their execution, which is not yet fixed.

Capt. Sawyer is a Pennsylvanian by birth. Flinn is an Irishman. The Confederate officers shot by Burnside were executed for recruiting in Kentucky, and that the General, when appealed to by sisters of one of them to spare his life, refused with the brutal reply that "he had quit handling the rebellion with gloves."

MISCELLANEOUS.

But one Colonel has been commissioned by the negro officer examing board.

Col. Christian, of the New York twenty-sixth, has been commissioned as a Major.

All the Quartermasters at Washington are hereafter subjected to the orders of General Rucker, and will be provided with a sufficient escort so as to prevent another affair like that at Rockville.

The Potomac is ten feet deep to-day.

HEALTH OF THE NEGRO TROOPS.

At the Surgeon-General's office there is official intelligence that in the Department of the Gulf, the ratio of suffering from malarious diseases, among the white and colored soldiers, are about eleven white to one colored soldier.

RENDEZVOUS FOR DRAFTED MEN.

It is proposed that the Government shall make Washington a rendezvous for drafted men from the Eastern States previous to their being forwarded to the regiments now in the field.

SOUTHERN AFFAIRS.

Judge Magrath, in the Charleston Confederate court has sustained the rebel conscription act, and held that alien residents could be drafted under it.

ORDER REVOKED.

Owing to the condition of military affairs on the Peninsula, the order removing all disloyal citizens of Alexandria to the South was revoked, just as the delegation was about to embark.

GEN. CASEY

Urges that all officers who are to command drafted men are to be subjected to a rigid examination.

WOUNDED REMOVED.

Eight thousand Union wounded, left on the field, are being removed.

The wounded rebels are being taken to Davids Island. When that is full they will be taken to Chester, Pennsylvania.

REBEL LOSS AT GETTYSBURG.

The number of rebel wounded was ten thousand at the battle of Gettysburg. The rebel loss in all the battles is thirty-three thousand.

THE SURGEON GENERAL

Has order a physician, with a photographer and artists, to go to the battle field at Gettysburg, and procure surgical specimens for a surgical history of the rebellion.

Special Dispatch to the Pittsburgh Gazette.

PHILADELPHIA, July 10.

Nothing new has been received from the Army of the Potomac.

The military authorities will commence drafting here on Monday.

Rebel Account of the Battle at Gettysburg.

BALTIMORE, July 10.—The Richmond Dispatch of Wednesday, July 8th, contains a leader on the battle of Gettysburg. It says, we feel as well assured that Gen. Lee, after he has met the enemy in a pitched battle, has inflicted a terrible defeat upon them, as we do that we are living and breathing.

The Dispatch then alluded to a telegraphic dispatch, announcing a great battle as being fought on Sunday last, in which the Yankees were whipped with the loss of 60,000 men, and winds up as follows: "We already begin to see glimpses of peace, if this telegram only proves half true. But let us have no peace which we do not dictate ourselves."

The Dispatch contains the following: "It is evident that Grant feels the pressure of the iron hind which Jeonston has cast around him."

The following are also some of the dispatches:

Martinsburg, July 5.—Gen. Lee defeated the enemy in the battle of Friday last, but we lost 4 000 prisoners.

On Saturday, General Lee had changed his front, and occupied the ground he drove the enemy from on the first and second days.

His whole army is in excellent spirits, and master of the situation.

Ewell's wagons were re-captured.

Martinsburg, July 6.—Saturday night our centre fell back driving the enemy from their works. Gen. Ewell and Longstreet flanked the enemy and gained the heights yesterday, in which the enemy were routed, and we captured 40,000 prisoners.

Martinsburg, July 6.—Reports to-day all concur that there was a heavy fight yesterday, in which we defeated the enemy, and drove them three miles. A vast number of prisoners are reported taken by Gen. Lee. The prisoners are on their way to Richmond near this place. This has been the bloodiest battle of the war. Our loss is very great. The Yankees injured the pontoon bridges at Falling Waters, several miles from this place, today, and captured three wagons.

The Richmond Enquirer, of the 8th inst., says:

Our loss is estimated at 10,000 at the battle of Gettysburg, between 300 and 400 of which arrived at Winchester on the 5th. Generals Armistead, Barksdale, Kemper and Garnett are killed. Generals Scales, Pender, Jones, Heath, Anderson, Hampton and Hood are wounded.

The Yankee army is estimated at 175,000 strong.

The fighting lasted for days, and is regarded as the severest of the war, and the slaughter unparalleled.

The enemy is said to have fought well. We captured 40,000 prisoners.

Arrival of Prisoners—Southern News

BALTIMORE, July 10.—About 2,500 prisoners have arrived in the last few hours by the Northern Central Railroad.

The following items are taken from the Richmond Dispatch of the 8th:

Goldsboro, N. C., July 6.—Letters from reliable sources, dated at Kingston last night, report an engagement progressing between the retreating enemy and our forces, near Freshbridge. It is supposed the enemy is cut off.

Bolton Station, via Jackson, Miss., July 5.—Yesterday, about 12 o'clock, the Yankee cavalry crossed the Big Black and advanced into the interior, but were promptly met by Whitfield's brigade and driven across the river.

A courier just in from Hazard's Ferry, says the entire command of Gen. Osterhaus crossed the Big Black near that place last night. If so, they will have warm work to-day. Grant is evidently feeling very uneasy in regard to events transpiring in his rear. There was very little firing at Vicksburg yesterday.

Natchez, July 4—via Mobile, July 5.—A commissary from the trans-Mississippi Department says that Vicksburg and Port Hudson are well provisioned.

Gen. Lamar, of Texas, says that Generals Smith and Magruder are fast augmenting their armies.

Gen. Taylor holds all the Southerners as prisoners who have taken the oath of allegiance to the United States.

The Dispatch says of the movements around Richmond:

"The daily information that we hear of the enemy's movements north of this city is that brought by the trains on the Fredericksburg railroad, which arrived last night for the first time for nearly a week past. They report that they could hear nothing of the Yankees, either at Hanover Junction or the South Anna bridge, and that the Central and Fredericksburg railroads are now unobstructed."

From the Army of the Potomac.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—From letters recently received here it appears that on Friday last it was learned by Gen. Meade that the Gen. Stuart was preparing to make one of his customary raids on our rear, to cut off our trains and prevent communication.

Gen. Gregg, with his cavalry division, was ordered to advance from our extreme right and intercept the enemy. Taking two brigades and a battery he proceeded to accomplish his mission, and met Stuart about two miles from our lines, already on his way to execute his mission. Gen. Gregg charged the rebels, and was at first repulsed. He rallied his men, and again charged, routing Stuart's force, who left his dead and wounded on the field in their hasty retreat. Among the killed were two rebel Majors. Our loss was from 30 to 40 killed and 110 wounded.

Another letter from Headquarters says Gen. Meade's movements are energetic, and he may decide to cross the river in pursuit of the rebels, should they escape from this side.

The rebels have sent over the river their cattle, horses, and wagons with plunder, &c.

Latest from New Orleans.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The steamer George Washington, from New Orleans, arrived to-night.

No news from Port Hudson. The siege continued, but nothing further is known.

Orders have been issued by Gen. Shepley for the formation of a brigade of Louisiana volunteers for 60 days, for special service in defense of New Orleans. Gen. Shepley would take command of them himself.

No private boats are allowed to go up the river unless with a permit from Gen. Emory.

No public assemblages are allowed in the city, except for public worship.

All the club and gambling houses have been closed, and the bar-rooms, coffee houses and stores are to be closed at 9 o'clock, a. m.

From Rosecrans' Army.

NASHVILLE, July 10.—Citizens from Franklin and Spring Hill report the country north of the Tennessee river filled with deserters from Bragg's army, mostly Tennesseeans. The number is estimated at 10,000 to 15,000. They refused to leave Tennessee.

Rosecrans' army retains its position on the line of the Elk river.

The campaign is virtually ended. The Army of the Cumberland now hold Winchester and Shelbyville.

The river is falling, with eight feet on the shoals.

The Louisville train arrived on time.

Great Rejoicing at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, July 10.—A grand demonstration is in preparation for to-morrow night, in honor of the recent glorious victories, east and west. All places of business will be closed at noon, at the request of the Mayor, and general rejoicing will be the order of the day. Thousands of flags will be thrown to the
