Pittsburgh Gazette.

S. RIDDLE & CO., EDITORS AND PROPRIETORS, Publication Office No. 84 Fifth Street. MORNING AND EVENING EDITIONS, DAILY, CONTAINING THE LATEST NEWS UP TO THE HOUR OF PUBLICATION.

TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 14.

From New Orleans.

By the latest arrivals of steamers from New Orleans we have news up to the 4th. Operations at Port Hudson continued, but the grand charge of the forlorn hope had not been made. Gen. Neal Dow and his staff had been captured by guerrillas while at the house of a lady who was supposed to entertain loyal sentiments. The General was recovering from a wound at the time.

During the late attack on Donaldsonville by the rebels, the recently captured steamer Princess Royal was engaged for the first time. She rendered valuable assistance to our land forces, and, together with the Winona, and the Kineo, which vessels came up afterwards, greatly accelerated the retreat of the assailants, and added to their loss. The effect of the terrible shells thrown from the three vessels among the retreating rebels is described as terrible. The Princess Royal had one killed and one wounded. No casualties on the Kineo or Winona.

Brig. Gen. Shepley, Military Governor, announces that in order to supply, temporarily, the places of those who may have been, or may hereafter be, called to more distant fields of duty, a brigade of Louisiana volunteers will be immediately raised for special service in the defence of the city of New Orleans; the term of service to be for sixty days.

Three important orders are issued by Brigadier General Emory. No. 18 forbids all public assemblages to be held, except for public worship, without the written consent of the General commanding the defenses of New Orleans; and no more than three persons are to be allowed to assemble on the streets. All club rooms and gambling houses are closed until further orders; and no citizen or other person, except the police and officers in the service of the United States, or soldiers on duty, or with passes, will be allowed to the streets after nine o'clock p. m., at which hour all bar-rooms, coffee-houses, stores and shops of every description will be closed.

Order No. 17 has reference to vessels leaving the city; and No. 19 to the organization of companies for service in Gen. Shepley's brigade.

Rebel Prisoners Ready to Take the Oath.

Among the rebel prisoners who have arrived at Baltimore is General R. P. Trimble, formerly of Baltimore, who took a conspicuous part in the scenes of the 19th of April, 1861, and rendered very effective assistance in cutting off communication between Baltimore and the Northern cities by destroying the railroad and bridges. The Baltimore American says of the rebel prisoners:

About two hundred have expressed a desire to take the oath of allegiance to the government of the United States, and many have already done so. Some of them are fine looking men, and tell horrible tales of their sufferings whilst in the rebel army. Many of them were farmers and mechanics, and were torn from their homes by force and driven into the rebel service.

Several Northern men who were working in the South when the rebellion commenced, and were forced into the army, are among the number, one of whom, Mr. Charles A. Wilson, of New York—who was employed in one of the Richmond tobacco factories—received a severe gunshot wound near Gettysburg. He was, on Thursday, visited by some of his friends of this city, and is now doing well. He will be released in a day or two and return to New York.

Many of these men are anxious to enlist under the old flag, declaring their horror and detestation of Jeff. Davis and his so-called Government, and stating that their sympathies are with the Government under which they and their forefathers were born, and for so many years enjoyed all the blessings of peace and prosperity. They say they have received no money from the rebel Government for nearly a year, and many of them are in need of clothing, shoes, &c."

The Capitulation of Vicksburg.

According to recent dispatches from Vicksburg giving the particulars of the capitulation, the results are summed up as follows

Prisoners	27,000
Field pieces	102
Siege guns	30
Small arms	50,000
Stand of colors	57
Lieutenant Generals	1
Major Generals	4
Brigadier Generals	9
Colonels	150

Of the artillery man taken only 15,000 were fit for duty. There were in hospital 5,000. The supply of provisions were almost exhausted, and of ammunition the supply was there was very little on hand. Several locomotives and cars, also, fell into our hands. The city was much damaged, scarcely a house having escaped.

The following sentences from Admiral Porters report to the Secretary of the Navy, just published, will be read most appropriately in connection with the foregoing:

What bearing this will have on the rebellion remains yet to be seen, but the magnitude of the success must go far toward crushing this rebellion and restoring once more the commerce of the States bordering on the river. History has seldom had an opportunity of recording so desperate a defence on the one side, with so much courage, ability, perseverance and endurance on the other, and if ever an army was entitled to the gratitude of a Nation, it is the Army of the Mississippi and its gallant leaders.

The effect of this blow will be felt far up the tributaries of the Mississippi. The timid and doubtful will take heart and the wicked will, I hope, cease to trouble us, for fear of the punishment which will sooner or later overtake them.

SERVANT TROUBLE.—The Philadelphia Ledger, in commenting upon the "inactive classes" in that state, says:

"This rebel raid or intended invasion and subjugation will unquestionably cure many of these persons. The other day there was in Chambersburg valley a large distillery, who frequently boasted among his friends that he did not fear the secessionists or Lee's army. When they came he was going to place himself under their protection and treat all around with a couple of barrels of whisky. They came and took, without asking him, seven hundred barrels of whisky—his entire stock. Round about York and in Adams county, there have been too many who have trusted to the forbearance of the foe, and been stripped of everything."

AN OLD FLAG RAISED.—The New Orleans Era of the 14th instant says:

We learn that Mr. Cuthbeth Bullitt, collector of the port, will have raised in front of his residence, on St. Charles street, this morning, at sunrise, the identical flag which was left flying in the breeze during the attempt to illuminate the city in honor of the secession of Louisiana, in January, 1861. This flag was the last of the Stars and Stripes seen in public from that time until Admiral Farragut's arrival in 1862, and, we learn has not been used since. Its appearance this morning will therefore be hailed as the first sign since the notable occasion above mentioned.

CONFEDERACY IN DISCORDS.—The New York Tribune says: "A New York paper of Saturday says: Where horses were thick as flies, Secession copperheads are abundant now. In Fawling, Dutchess county, on hearing the news of the surrender of Vicksburg, the inhabitants rigged up a Rebel—put in a bottle of the finest whiskey, named the hole down the same night, and hung the Rebel from the flag staff in the village."

Morgan's Raid in Indiana.

A dispatch from Madora, Ind., to the Cincinnati Gazette, says:

It seems to be the impression, so far as we can learn, that the object of Morgan's raid into Indiana was to cause a withdrawal of our forces in Kentucky, he believing that we had no sufficient force in Indiana to repel him before he should have succeeded in destroying roads, bridges and depots, exchanging his horses, and perhaps obtaining some plunder, while a portion of his force left behind in Kentucky would overrun that State in like manner.

This seems plausible, for another dispatch from Stanford, Ky., to headquarters last evening, states that the rebels in that vicinity were stealing horses. Our forces in that section of Kentucky have not been withdrawn, and they are looking after those horse thieves.

The report that Buckner's division, or any other large force of rebels, is coming into Kentucky, is entirely discredited at headquarters. Communications were received last evening from Danville, Somerset, Stanford, Lexington and other points on the southern border of Kentucky, which make no mention of the approach of any rebel forces.

A number of gunboats are now on the river between this city and Louisville, and other arrangements are in progress that will bring this raid of Morgan to a speedy end.

THE CROAKERS.—The Philadelphia North American of Saturday says: The croakers are about. They were emitting their dismal notes yesterday, as usual. "Beauregard is reinforcing Lee" was the substance of their songs. They tried to croak down stocks, but only succeeded in making a dull market. They croaked over the price of gold, but couldn't get it higher than 33½. The croakers are about played out. Croaking and seriousness are different matters. In time of danger none but fools will laugh. The croaker is a man who sees the chemistries in every saphy.

A PAPER published in the Turkish language at Stamboul contains an amusing letter from a mollah, dated from the Cape of Good Hope. The worthy Mussulman reviews the manners and customs of the Christians in that colony, and especially alludes to the religious dissensions among them. Their priests, he says, all advocate different creeds, and as to their bishops, "one Colenso actually writes a book against his own religion."

HABEAS CORPUS CASES TO BE BROUGHT BEFORE UNITED STATES JUDGES.—Provost Marshal Nugent has received instructions from Washington not to make returns hereafter to writs of habeas corpus issued by State Judges, further than to state, in a respectful manner, that such writs must be obtained from Judges of the United States Courts when the United States is a party to the proceeding.

THE "INSTITUTION" USING ITS LEGS.—Late Richmond papers are full of advertisements of runaway negroes, whose motion for their masters has indeed been to get out of the way of coming danger.
