EXPLANATION.—Some of those reported as exempted on account of residing and being enrolled in other districts, were enrolled in two districts, and had their names stricken from the enrollment of the district in which they did not reside previous to the draft, but subsequent to the preparation of the ballots. They stood their chance, but their names were drawn in districts in which they were not resident.

The name of R. G. C. Sproul, Esq., improperly appeared in the advertisement of persons exempted from the draft. Mr. Sproul was enrolled in Collins township, and that not being his proper residence, his name was stricken from the list and entered on that of the Fourth Ward, in which district he was drafted, and has not been exempted.

THE NORTHERN CENTRAL RAILWAY RE-OPENED.—By a telegram just received from Stephen Little, Esq., Auditor of the Northern Central Railway, at Baltimore, we learn that all the damages done to that road by the rebels have been thoroughly repaired, and it is now open for through travel. Communication by railroad is thus re-established between Harrisburg, and Baltimore and Washington.

Special Dispatch to the Pittsburgh Gazette

WASHINGTON, July 15, 1863.

A COUNCIL OF WAR.

It is stated on the best authority that Gen. Meade, on Monday evening, held a council of war; that he relied upon his corps commanders for information as to what was going on in his front, and that all except Howard and Wadsworth reported every day that it would not be prudent to attack. They were, however, in favor of moving forward as rapidly as possible, and were confident of success.

NEWS FROM RICHMOND PAPERS.

The Richmond papers of Monday have been received. They acknowledge the fall of Vicksburg.

The Enquirer has the following:

SURRENDER OF PORT HUDSON.

MOBILE, July 30, 1863.

To General Cooper, Adjutant and Inspector General:

The New Orleans Era, of the 16th, announces the unconditional surrender of Port Hudson at seven o'clock of the 9th inst.

GEORGE G. GARNER,
Chief of Staff.

The Richmond Enquirer, of the 30th, gives the following official dispatches from General Beauregard:

CHARLESTON, July 19, 1863.

To Gen. Cooper:

At dark on the 10th the enemy retained possession of Morris Island. Four Monitors engaged battery Wagner and the battery at Cumming's Point all day, without damage or casualties; but the loss in opposing the landing was severe, being three hundred killed and wounded, including sixteen officers. The enemy's loss is evidently heavy.

G. T. BEAUREGARD.

CHARLESTON, July 19, 11:30 p. m.

To General S. S. Cooper:

The enemy has a threatening force on the lower end of James Island, along the Stono.

An attempt was made to destroy the Savannah Railroad bridge over the Ellsto river, but was foiled, with the loss of one steamboat.

G. T. BEAUREGARD.

CHARLESTON, July 13.

To General S S. Cooper:

Nothing new since yesterday. The enemy is engaged in establishing batteries for long range guns on the middle of Morris Island, being aided by five monitors. Their wooden gunboats are firing on our batteries. Wagner and Gregg are on the north end of Morris Island.

G. T. BEAUREGARD.

CAPTURE OF PORT POWHATAN.

FORTRESS MONROE, July 14.—Fort Powhatan, on the James river, was taken possession of by our fleet yesterday. All the men and guns had been removed. The gunboat Union, Capt. Coney, has just arrived from Charleston, bound to New York, and reports all of Morris Island captured, excepting Fort Wagner. The enemy's loss is killed, wounded and prisoners is between seven and eight hundred. The attack commenced last Friday morning. The Union left on Sunday afternoon, at which time the siege of Fort Wagner was progressing, with every prospect of a speedy capture. Five monitors were engaged.

FROM GENERAL MEADE'S ARMY.

The following dispatch was received by Gen. Halleck late last night:

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
July 14, 1863.

Major Gen. Halleck, General-in-Chief:

My cavalry have captured five hundred prisoners, in addition to those previously reported. Gen. Pettigrew, of the Confederate army, was killed this morning in the attack on the enemy's rear-guard. His body is in our hands.

G. G. MEADE,
Major General Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, July 14.—Lee's army withdrew from their position around Williamsport yesterday and last night, and recrossed the Potomac by a pontoon bridge at Falling Waters, and flat boats at the Williamsport Ferry.

A portion of Pleasanton's cavalry entered Willimsport at 7 o'clock this morning, and captured many prisoners.

Lee had previously sent over all his plunder trains, etc.

A general movement was ordered this morning, and our columns were in motion at an early hour, but found the enemy's entrenchments vacated.

The Council of war called by Meade was what enabled Lee to cross the Potomac.

ATTACK ON GOODRICH'S LANDING.

The Navy Department received this morning a communication from Rear Admiral Porter, dated July 3d, in which he states that on the 29th of June he received a communication from Gen. Dennis, commanding the post at Young's Point, informing him (Porter) that our black troops at Goodrich's Landing had been attacked, and the rebels were getting the upper hand of them.

A gunboat had already been dispatched to that point, but another was sent off without delay. Gen. Ellett was directed to proceed with the Marine Brigade to the scene of action, and remain there until everything was quiet. The headmost vessel of the brigade, the John Raines, arrived there just as the rebels were setting fire to the so-called government plantations, and supposing her to be an ordinary transport, they opened fire on her with field-pieces, but they were much surprised to have their fire returned with shrapnal, which fell in among them, killing and wounding a number. The rest was a retreat on the part of the rebels, and the escape of a number of negroes whom they had imprisoned. The gunboat Romeo also came up the river about this time, and hearing the firing, hurried to the scene of action.

The commander upon discovered the rebels setting fire to the plantations, and commenced shelling them. This he kept up for a distance of fifteen miles, chasing them along the river bank, the rebels setting fire to everything as they went
