On the arrival of Lee's advance on Sunday 1 week, the most exress efforts were made to cross the river. Some scows were built and their light wagon trains were crossed, taking 1 one wagon and as many men as it could carry. On Tuesday and Wednesday the river fells of much that many of the infantry forded it. The water being breast high, a subsequent rain again swelled the river and it became again unfordable. The rebels again commanced the construction of a bridge at Falling Waters, using for it the boats they had built at Williamsport. This bridge was not be uit until Monday, and then a grand runb took place to get across-the artillery and as trong plots time, which held the field works thrown up along the front. On Monday night they ware drawn io, and by dayight nothing was lot of 0,000 men this side, and had they been attacked, would not have made a very serious delence.
