THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 28.

Covernor Curtin Again .- Political Effects of the Againstion of 1861. We have already referred to the doings of the Legislature of 1861—the same which came in with Gov. CURTIN, and participated with him in the enaciments and omissions of that eventful year. Let us see now how far the Republican party of this State was affected by this legislation.

The people did pass, at the next election. in the way that had been predicted, upon the acts, or at least the crowning act of that memorable session, by refusing to return any man, outside of Philadelphia, who had given his vote for that measure, with only the single exception of one small constituency, which was specially interested in the Sunbury & Eric Railroad, and whose Representative has the advantage of controlling the newspaper of that district; and the great Republican or People's party fell at once from its high estate into a minority in the House at the very next session. The and re-legated to the wilderness, with nocratic element itself—laid upon its the people, and betrayed the State. If the Governor himself-the greatest sinner, unwhose influence has been strong enough t silence it? But there is more to the same purpose and more for which we have to thank our present Governor. If the first session of his rule was disastrous to the State and to the party, the next was equally unfortunate to both. If the locks of the strong man were shorn in the former, it was only to turn him over bodily to the lord; of the Philistines in the latter. If the one bankrupted the Tressury, and shook our power in the State, the other consummated the work of ruin, by betraying us directly into the hands of the enemy, and conferring immediate perpetrators of those outrages rupted the Treasury, and shook our power sition in geometry that the friends of the of the nation in the most important crisis

And this we shall proceed to make out in our next number, which will be devoted to the cunning structure and untimely catastrophe of the Hopkins Committee—to be followed, in due course, by a fuller presentation of the still more destructive effects of the action and non-action of the free worst to disgrace the Irisa name. Nearly all who were eye-witnesses of the shameful doings of last week agree on this point. Mr. N. P. Willis, who witnessed the burning, on Monday effermeon, of the great Republican party, with a Jonah, and not a Palinurus, at the to the cunning structure and untimely with a Jonah, and not a Palinurus, at the

That paper, like all the other rebel organs in the North, has uniformly and persistently quarreled with every measure of the Government which has been simed at the purch or window, or assembled them in Government which has been aimed at the heart of the rebellior, and ventured just as far in the direction of resistance, as the laws would permit, and the time and temper of this community were likely to tolerate. If it had been published in New York, or some other places we could name, it would have belohed out treason without measure or disguise. To fill the vacancies in the ranks of his ar-mies depleted during the last few weeks to the amount of over 75,000 men, Davis has sued a new call of all men between the ages of eighteen and forty five. When it 1864, took in all between 18 and 35, and that of the autumn of the same year all between 35 and 45, leaving out only the few who could afford to pay a thousand dollars or more for substitutes, it will be least the popular belief, that they had sold gallant hearts now bearing it so bravely seen that this last call cannot result in very material accessions to the forces now in material accretions to the forces now in the field. At most they cannot replace the losses of the last month, even if all who have provided substitutes and all who claim to reign protection are drafted. The Richmond Enquirer, the official organ of Davis, says the concession to him of powers esentially those of an unlimited despot can alone says the Confederacy. How such an increase of hyperage with affect the already ncrease of burdens will affect the already incontented people of North Carolina, and he peace men whom the Mobile Advertise itemps to bully into ellence, will best be determined by the movements of our troops.
