The Hopkins Committee-Its Stran-The verdict of the people, at the election of 1861, seemed to impose upon the new Legislature the duty of inquiring into the fraud alleged and believed to have been ranized by the election to the Speakership of Mr. Bows; a Union Demosrat from Franklin county, who was indebted, it is believed, far the successful presentation of his name ried back again. There was no place o it, of course, for any man who carnesily esired the investigation, except the mover with the friends of the investigation. The Speaker was urged by them, and by none more earnestly than Mr. Horkiss himself to assign a place upon it, as was obviously fit and proper, to the leading advocate of that the Member from Bedford was an exthe measure, who was, of course, entitled to a share in its direction. He protested that he could not do it because that gentleman was from Pitteburgh! and declared that he would rather resign his office that yield that point. They then intimated their purpose to add two members to the Com too by a vote of the House. The friends of the Speaker still objected that he would consider it a reflection on himself, and even a Democratic member of his appointment, endeavored to dissuade Republicans from insisting on the individual in question, or the ground that he was bent on ruining a ablican Governor! The matter was premised at last by an agreement on the
