The Spanish Mission, and the Inc-ligibility of the Governor. We take it for granted now that the General Government has ceased to desire the aid of Governor Cuntin, in the management of our diplomatic relations with the of Spain, if that was indeed the post to which the public necessities were underfor such a purpose it is impossible for us to considered so little important that the representative of this nation should speak either

. the language of the country, or our own. It may be however, that the Governor has interpreted some conventional phrase of politeness, or some diplomatic expression of the Premier, at his dinner-table, which was intended to signify nothing, into an engagement to provide for him in that way. The fact that he made of it the subject of an Executive Message to the Legislature of the State, seemed to wear the appearance of a doubt, whether the offer had been suffisiently definite, or might not be possibly withdrawn. The French have an idomatic Asteaux on Espagno-(literally, castles in Spain,) to indicate the visionary palaces of dreamers like the maiden who carried the treasure of new-laid eggs, and prospective chickens and silk gowns, upon should be doomed to defeat, with the hopes her head, and by an unfortunate mis-step, of the nation resting upon us, we would, at demolished the whole concern, with all the least, die in such a way, as not to shame imaginary castles she had built upon it.
