Reconstruction.

The New York World (copperhead) has been for some days calling on the New York Tribune, as the leading paper of its class in the country, to come out and define its ideas of reconstruction. The Tribune has done so in a recent article, from which we make the following extract:

A prominent Democrat who lives and does business in our city, (and whose name, not for publication, but for the verification of this statement, is at the service of the World) was induced some years since, to buy an estate in Eastern Virginia reputed rich in gold. He employed a foreman to develop it, hired twenty-five or thirty of the Poor Whites residing upon or adjacent to it to assist as laborers, and came here to attend to other business. But a few weeks had elapsed when he received a dispatch from his foreman, urging him to hurry back to Louisa county and help the said foreman out of trouble. He promptly obeyed, and soon after reaching his estate, was waited upon by three gentlemen, who proclaimed themselves a committee from the neighboring proprietors, appointed to notify him that he must not employ white labor on his estate, but must hire or buy slaves. He ventured to remonstrate—argued that he had imported his laborers into Virginia—that his men were all natives of the State and fixed residents of the vicinage, &c., but was cut short by the spokesman, (now the 'rebel Gen. Jenkins,') with a curt reminder that they had not proposed to argue the point—that it was not the policy of Virginia to encourage white labor where slaves were to be had—and that they only desired to know whether he proposed to comply with their demand or take the consequences of refusal.

Here one of the white laborers—a respectable, worthy citizen, over fifty years old, who happened to be present or passing—ventured to interpose the inquiry: "But what are we to do to support our families?" "Don't you know enough to hold your tongue?" responded the chief-tain of chivalry; while the black as he might have bestowed on a fiend who had undertaken to lecture him on trigonometry. The poor white was cowed into abject silence; the New Yorker said that he had no choice, as he submitted with the best possible grace, dismissed his white Virginians to their sorry huts and ragged, unschooled children, and proceeded to hire the negroes of his domineering neighbor as he needs must. He was paying the whites eighty cents in cash per day; they told him they would gladly work for sixty-that he threw off; that, though he wanted their work and they wanted his money, they were all under the yoke of an iron despotism, and had to succumb.

Such is the infernal, God-defying, man-debasing system which the white laborers of this city are now being goaded by Fernando Wood and Horatio Seymour into treason to uphold and perpetuate—and all because those reckless aspirants believe their own chance of political aggrandizement will thereby be promoted! May the lightnings of Divine Justice blast their fiendish ambition!

Now the Tribune does not desire that this country shall now or ever be divided, but does most anxiously, fervently labor and strive that the whole country, every part of it shall be freed from the diabolical "institution" which robbed the poor white Virginians of their right to labor, of education, competence, comfort and self-respect—and has probably ere this driven them into the rebel army to suffer hardships which their descendants will long deadliest foe, the chief cause of their life-long degradation. And we undeniably cherish the hope that this gigantic, wicked rebellion, fomented and inaugurated by the slave power in the very plenitude of its arrogance and self-confidence, may result in its most signal, righteous, utter, beneficent overthrow.

Yet we do not say, and have never said, that no Peace must be made that does not stipulate for and secure the immediate abolition of Slavery. The Greatest of Wars do not always enable the righteous party in a great struggle to insist on every iota of justice. But this we do say: Any peace which attempts to restore to slavery the consideration, respect and power which it enjoyed before it raised the Rebellion and Civil War, will prove an illusion and a snare. It will be regarded by the baffled mortified Slave Power as but a truce, a breathing spell, an opportunity for preparation in view of a new struggle to overturn to wipe out the remembrance of its defeats, its flights and its humiliations; and will inevitably subject the sincere Unionists of the entire South to systematic tyranny, shame, outrage, robbery, maiming and murder, until the last of them shall have been hunted out or exterminated. Such are the inevitable results of a pro-slavery "reconstruction;" and such is the consummation toward which Wood, Seymour, their confederates and their dupes, are now drifting our country. May a merciful God yet avert the catastrophe!

The Alabama and Georgia at Bahia.

A dispatch to the Tribune, under date of Washington, August 18th, says:

By private letters from Bahia, we learn that on the 11th of May the pirate Alabama displaying the rebel flag, came into that port, and landed eighty-eight prisoners, taken from American vessels burnt at sea. Two days after the pirate Georgia also came in and landed thirteen more prisoners. While these pirates were there, an English bark, the Castor, which had been, it seems, waiting for the Alabama, attempted to supply the latter vessel with coal and munitions of war, but through the protestations of our Consul, the Hon. Thomas F. Wilson, to the President of the Province, she was prevented from so doing.

Consul Wilson endeavored to retain these vessels until some U. S. cruiser should arrive, and succeeded in keeping them until the 13th and 14th of May, the Alabama leaving first. The authorities allowed them to coal and provision, against which Mr. Wilson protested. On the 25th of May the U. S. steamer Mohican arrived, and on learning the facts started in pursuit. Another English bark, the Agrapina, laden with coal and powder, came into port in search of the pirates. The sloop-of-war Onward arriving, the Consul represented the facts, and that vessel was blockading the two barks at the time the letter from which this information is obtained was mailed.

The prolongation of the war for the last eighteen months has sacrificed at least two hundred thousand lives, created an additional debt of about eight hundred millions of dollars, and filled the land with widows and orphans. Recollect that the war would not have been thus prolonged, but for the aid and comfort furnished the rebels by their Northern allies.

The Dayton Journal says: "During the week ending August 8th, over five hundred rebels came into Carthage, Tenn., voluntarily gave themselves up, and took the oath of allegiance to the Government of the United States. This is but one credible item of the many of the same character we have received within the current week."

Every Man to Make his own Ice.

Just as we are beginning to become anxious about the quantity of ice remaining on hand among the dealers in this city, who, following a recent example of the coal dealers, in consequence of a threatened scarcity, suddenly double the price (just as if the raising of the price made the article any more plentiful)" we can breathe more freely under the assurance that we can have as much ice as we need without being indebted to the monopolists.

All Paris is rejoicing in a recent discovery of a method of manufacturing it in a speedy and simple manner, and at a small expense. The machine is styled Le glaciere a bascule. From a drawing and description now before us we gather the following:

A cylinder of metal—his will answer—with a moveable cover at one end, to be kept tightly in, its place by a screw when shut; with two openings, one at each end, to receive through two funnels the materials used; and a discharge cock at one end to discharge the contents of what the cylinder is to be emptied, is all the apparatus required. The cylinder, when properly charged, is placed on a pair of rockers so that a see-saw motion may be obtained. To convert five hundred French grammes of water into ice (each grammes being nearly seventeen grains avordupois) it is necessary only to place in this cylinder or well twelve hundred grammes of sulphate of soda and eight hundred grammes of hydrochloride or muriatic acid. Into this preparation or bath, says the inventor, place a form or vessel containing the water to be frozen, a bottle of champagne to be frapped, or any other material required to be frozen. Close the cover, screw it fast, and then for seven or eight minutes give the cylinder or well a see-saw motion on its cradle, and you obtain the desired result. A solid block of ice of five hundred grammes may be produced by this operation.

All Paris has been running to see the machines at the rue de l'Arbe, sec. No. 60, where its effects are publicly exhibited. These machines are rapidly sold at from fifty francs to one hundred and twenty, according to the size. A late number of the pictorial paper L'Illustration gives a drawing and a description sufficiently intelligible to enable any of our metal workers to manufacture them. If we may believe the half of what is said, our dependence for cool drinks will no longer be upon the icemen, but on the chemists.

From Rebeldom—The Spirit of Mississippi.

There is a gleam of light thrown upon the subject of the state of public feeling in Mississippi, by the following paragraph from the Mobile Evening News:

The telegraph informed us yesterday that an improved tone of feeling prevails in Mississippi. We are glad to hear this, and wish it may be true; for the intelligence we have recently been receiving from that State is of a very unpleasant character. As a specimen, we give a brief extract from a letter, written by a young lady there, to her father in Mobile:

"There is a rumor that some of the farmers are going to keep their wheat until they can get gold for it; that is, they refuse Confederate money. Several of the rich men are carrying off their negroes and families. I have heard several say they will take the oath of allegiance for the sake of protecting their property, but they will not consider it binding. Mrs. G., however, says she will not take it to preserve property nor for any other reason."

We regret (continues the editor) that the lady referred to has no children—there is need of more of that stock. From accounts which reach us, it would seem that the women are the only men in Mississippi. Nor are these accounts altogether a new thing, but merely the sequel to the story of the supineness of the stay-at-home population there, which we heard long since, but were unwilling to believe. "Let 'em fight," exists. What a blush of shame must mantle the cheek of the true Mississippians in camp when they hear such reports of the conduct of their brothers! It is not too late for them to retrieve their character, and we are anxious to be confirmed in the feeble hope that they are beginning to do so."

Mineral Wealth of Mexico.

It is said that in Mexico there are over 1,000 silver mines, yielding between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000 a year. The value of these mines is increased by the fact that there are 25 mines of quicksilver, which yield from 250,000 to 300,000 pounds weight annually. Gold is also found in considerable quantities, stated at from $3,000,000 upwards. The silver ores generally located on the top or the western slope of the Cordilleras, and have been worshipt for ages. Gold and silver have of great value and beauty of workmanship were sent back to Spain by the first conquerors as spoils of war. Iron and copper are also found in great abundance. The great hindrance to the reaping of this mineral wealth is the difficulty of transporting it to the seaboard, there being neither railroads nor navigable rivers in the country, and the only means of transportation being the backs of mules. The commercial inertness and the want of mechanical enterprise of the people, and the small extent to which the combination and division of labor are carried have also contributed, with the general insecurity of property, to prevent the various natural resources of the country from receiving their full development.

A committee of five gentlemen—members of the Washington Union League—waited upon the President, at his private residence, at "Soldiers' Home," on Saturday last, in relation to the case of Lieut. A. V. Sanborn, who was sentenced to "close confinement, with ball and chain attached, during the war," by a court-martial, known as Dr. Wright. The Chairman of the Committee, Col. Turner, having introduced his colleagues to the President, presented an address, setting forth the enormity of Wright's crime, and expressing the hope that the condign punishment which it merited would be administered. The President, in response, said that "an example would serve a great cause," and added that strict justice should be meted out to all guilty parties. He remarked that he had been requested to pardon Dr. Wright, but that he had not yet examined the evidence, although he had understood it had been forwarded to him.

The Prince of Wales having gone to Halifax and left his wife at home, the English papers had paragraphs saying that she was "pining for her husband." The Prince, however, met with the disheartening announcement that the general health of the lady is good; but in recommending her to abstain from visiting Halifax, H. R. H.'s advisers have only sought to save her from over-exertion, which it is now desirable for her not to incur."

Translated from Democratic hieroglyphics into plain English, the disloyal argument is this: "We propose to restore the Union by opposing the Government of the Union, and to obtain an honorable peace by a feeble prosecution of the war." The absurdity of this argument, when expressed in syllogistic form, is its own refutation.
