

MONDAY MORNING AUGUST 25.
LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

From Yesterday's Evening Gazette.

HARRY WORDS.

The eyes of the nation have been so intensely fixed upon the respective fields of battle that it has scarcely observed the mournful ravages of death at home which have disappeared in our own city, carried away by the tide which never returns to victory. The repose for a few short months over, is both painful and amazing. The dear old friends bound to us by many pleasant and grateful associations—wandering from our right, rendering mighty task we are rapidly entitled to. We are bound to our country, and to those who have given us so much, that another name has been added to the catalogue of those whom we loved and honored. The death of Isaac Wiles, in the vigor of a manhood nobly and bravely touched by the hand of death, has caused a deep sense of loss, and even though in many hearts his character was such as to cause him to be despised, yet he was a gallant soldier. His bold and resolute spirit without realizing the presence of a mind governed by high principle, and moved by no desire for personal aggrandizement, but moved by a sense of duty, still maintained his undivided, his feelings strong, his opinions consistent and firmly held; his interest in any cause he espoused was pure, and his death, though it may have been a sacrifice of purpose was manifested in his life that even those who differed from his last moments of repose.

When the rebellion began, he instantly took his place with the patriotic throng who could not be won over to the traitor's cause, and entered every field of battle, and the broad front of death still over the divided land, his heart filled with a sense of duty, and his spirit unconquerable.

He died at his post, and his last words were:

"I die for my country."

His body was interred at Martinsburg, Va., last night, by Capt. Johnson's despatches, and so quietly laid in his old place in the old Capitol prison. It will be remembered that he was sent to Richmond some months since with orders not to come back.

He had been a member of the command in the way, previous duty in Martinsburg, the rebel soldiers walk the streets, and the rebels are now in possession of the state capital, and the gallant soldier is buried in that great dearth of his heart.

He was a strong Republican in politics, and deserved a high interest in the ranks of his party, and his death is a loss to his friends in his dealing with opponents, that his opposition often served only to increase their respect for his character.

We linger with a sort of painful pleasure in his grave, while we mourn his noble and manly spirit of the dead, and his noble and manly spirit of the cause or prize, and we can only command his example to the large ranks of friends who have died in paying the debt of honor.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 27, 1863.

Arrrest of Pichl, the Forger.

We have already published the facts connected with the forgery lately committed by John L. Pichl, of this city, upon the Citizen Bank of Baltimore, whereby he swindled that bank out of $35,000 in cash. The telegraph to-day announces the arrest of Pichl at Washington City, but no particulars are given.

In our first report we gave the amount of the forgery at between $15,000 and $20,000, and now learn that the amount was $40,000. The bank, after paying $25,000 in cash, gave three drafts for the balance of $15,000 to the Citizens' Bank of New York, but it is not yet known whether Pichl had negotiated the drafts or not.

Now what we do know is that Pichl was engaged in his career of swindling in this city, urging them to go on to join the army, and that the particular persons he selected were Dr. J. C. Galt, Dr. D. T. Durbin, and others. The officials generally were of a patriotic character, and were highly appreciated by a large number of them.

IMPORTANT FROM CHARLESTON.

The Occupation of Fort Sumter and Wagner by our Troops Confirmed.

THE STARS AND STRIPES WAVING OVER BOTH FORTRESSSES.

Speedy Capture of Charleston Anticipated.

New Command for Gen. Butler.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 25.—The following comes speedily by telegraph from the highest and most reliable authority. I can vouch for its truth.

Fortress Morris.—On Aug. 24, the Union troops from the fort of Wilmington, reports that on Tuesday, at 3 p. m., one hour from when she started, the United States steamer Florida arrived from the fleet of Charleston, S. C., with positive news that Sumter and Wagner had fallen and were occupied by the Union troops, and the stars and stripes were triumphantly waving over both fortresses.

Charleston.—A detachment of 1,000 men, and a train of 200 wagons, left Morris Island, and reducing Fort Moultrie, the garrison, the safe having been blown open, and removed from the place where it usually stood.

Rumor from Georgia.—In the case of J. E. B. Stuart, who has a house at No. 10, Peachtree street, which same Judge McDaniel this morning, a trial was granted upon the name of Pease and Company, of the City of Atlanta, Georgia, to determine what cause why an attachment should not be issued against them for contempt, returnable the next day. The trial was adjourned.

The other step in the proceeding against the City Council to compel their return to the trial, was to issue a writ of attachment against the trial court, which was obtained by the attorney general.

Charleston.—On Thursday night, a deserter, named G. W. Clegg, of the 1st Regt., was robbed of his pocket book, containing $300. He retired to rest before the usual hour, but was wakened at 2 A. M. by the noise of his fellow soldiers. During the night his room was entered, by some thief, who managed to get past the sentinels from the door, and who, after robbing him, fled. The same night, in the same house, another man was robbed of $20.

Amherst.—Two little girls, children of P. H. Hopkins, who keeps a house at No. 10, Franklin street, were taken from their home this morning by a horse and buggy at the corner of Penn and 51st streets. They were seen near the 10th and 11th streets, and the girls were trying to run across the street before the buggy passed. One was put on the head, and the other on the driver, who was the only person to drive the horses who saw the accident.

Extermination.—An item in Friday's paper we stated that a man named Neal had been robbed of his pocket book, and which was recovered by Mr. Phillips, who had the pocket book which were both taken by Neal, but they were both returned to him. On Saturday afternoon, the 23d, he engaged in numerous other transactions of a disreputable character, if not quite so true, but was still engaged in them, and was highly appreciated by a large number of them.

Charleston.—On Friday night, a deserter, named G. W. Clegg, of the 1st Regt., was robbed of his pocket book, containing $300. He retired to rest before the usual hour, but was wakened at 2 A. M. by the noise of his fellow soldiers. During the night his room was entered, by some thief, who managed to get past the sentinels from the door, and who, after robbing him, fled. The same night, in the same house, another man was robbed of $20.

Amherst.—Two little girls, children of P. H. Hopkins, who keeps a house at No. 10, Franklin street, were taken from their home this morning by a horse and buggy at the corner of Penn and 51st streets. They were seen near the 10th and 11th streets, and the girls were trying to run across the street before the buggy passed. One was put on the head, and the other on the driver, who was the only person to drive the horses who saw the accident.

Extermination.—An item in Friday's paper we stated that a man named Neal had been robbed of his pocket book, and which was recovered by Mr. Phillips, who had the pocket book which were both taken by Neal, but they were both returned to him. On Saturday afternoon, the 23d, he engaged in numerous other transactions of a disreputable character, if not quite so true, but was still engaged in them, and was highly appreciated by a large number of them.

Charleston.—Two little girls, children of P. H. Hopkins, who keeps a house at No. 10, Franklin street, were taken from their home this morning by a horse and buggy at the corner of Penn and 51st streets. They were seen near the 10th and 11th streets, and the girls were trying to run across the street before the buggy passed. One was put on the head, and the other on the driver, who was the only person to drive the horses who saw the accident.

Extermination.—An item in Friday's paper we stated that a man named Neal had been robbed of his pocket book, and which was recovered by Mr. Phillips, who had the pocket book which were both taken by Neal, but they were both returned to him. On Saturday afternoon, the 23d, he engaged in numerous other transactions of a disreputable character, if not quite so true, but was still engaged in them, and was highly appreciated by a large number of them.

Charleston.—Two little girls, children of P. H. Hopkins, who keeps a house at No. 10, Franklin street, were taken from their home this morning by a horse and buggy at the corner of Penn and 51st streets. They were seen near the 10th and 11th streets, and the girls were trying to run across the street before the buggy passed. One was put on the head, and the other on the driver, who was the only person to drive the horses who saw the accident.

Extermination.—An item in Friday's paper we stated that a man named Neal had been robbed of his pocket book, and which was recovered by Mr. Phillips, who had the pocket book which were both taken by Neal, but they were both returned to him. On Saturday afternoon, the 23d, he engaged in numerous other transactions of a disreputable character, if not quite so true, but was still engaged in them, and was highly appreciated by a large number of them.

Charleston.—Two little girls, children of P. H. Hopkins, who keeps a house at No. 10, Franklin street, were taken from their home this morning by a horse and buggy at the corner of Penn and 51st streets. They were seen near the 10th and 11th streets, and the girls were trying to run across the street before the buggy passed. One was put on the head, and the other on the driver, who was the only person to drive the horses who saw the accident.

Extermination.—An item in Friday's paper we stated that a man named Neal had been robbed of his pocket book, and which was recovered by Mr. Phillips, who had the pocket book which were both taken by Neal, but they were both returned to him. On Saturday afternoon, the 23d, he engaged in numerous other transactions of a disreputable character, if not quite so true, but was still engaged in them, and was highly appreciated by a large number of them.

Charleston.—Two little girls, children of P. H. Hopkins, who keeps a house at No. 10, Franklin street, were taken from their home this morning by a horse and buggy at the corner of Penn and 51st streets. They were seen near the 10th and 11th streets, and the girls were trying to run across the street before the buggy passed. One was put on the head, and the other on the driver, who was the only person to drive the horses who saw the accident.

Extermination.—An item in Friday's paper we stated that a man named Neal had been robbed of his pocket book, and which was recovered by Mr. Phillips, who had the pocket book which were both taken by Neal, but they were both returned to him. On Saturday afternoon, the 23d, he engaged in numerous other transactions of a disreputable character, if not quite so true, but was still engaged in them, and was highly appreciated by a large number of them.

Charleston.—Two little girls, children of P. H. Hopkins, who keeps a house at No. 10, Franklin street, were taken from their home this morning by a horse and buggy at the corner of Penn and 51st streets. They were seen near the 10th and 11th streets, and the girls were trying to run across the street before the buggy passed. One was put on the head, and the other on the driver, who was the only person to drive the horses who saw the accident.

Extermination.—An item in Friday's paper we stated that a man named Neal had been robbed of his pocket book, and which was recovered by Mr. Phillips, who had the pocket book which were both taken by Neal, but they were both returned to him. On Saturday afternoon, the 23d, he engaged in numerous other transactions of a disreputable character, if not quite so true, but was still engaged in them, and was highly appreciated by a large number of them.

Charleston.—Two little girls, children of P. H. Hopkins, who keeps a house at No. 10, Franklin street, were taken from their home this morning by a horse and buggy at the corner of Penn and 51st streets. They were seen near the 10th and 11th streets, and the girls were trying to run across the street before the buggy passed. One was put on the head, and the other on the driver, who was the only person to drive the horses who saw the accident.

Extermination.—An item in Friday's paper we stated that a man named Neal had been robbed of his pocket book, and which was recovered by Mr. Phillips, who had the pocket book which were both taken by Neal, but they were both returned to him. On Saturday afternoon, the 23d, he engaged in numerous other transactions of a disreputable character, if not quite so true, but was still engaged in them, and was highly appreciated by a large number of them.

Charleston.—Two little girls, children of P. H. Hopkins, who keeps a house at No. 10, Franklin street, were taken from their home this morning by a horse and buggy at the corner of Penn and 51st streets. They were seen near the 10th and 11th streets, and the girls were trying to run across the street before the buggy passed. One was put on the head, and the other on the driver, who was the only person to drive the horses who saw the accident.

Extermination.—An item in Friday's paper we stated that a man named Neal had been robbed of his pocket book, and which was recovered by Mr. Phillips, who had the pocket book which were both taken by Neal, but they were both returned to him. On Saturday afternoon, the 23d, he engaged in numerous other transactions of a disreputable character, if not quite so true, but was still engaged in them, and was highly appreciated by a large number of them.

Charleston.—Two little girls, children of P. H. Hopkins, who keeps a house at No. 10, Franklin street, were taken from their home this morning by a horse and buggy at the corner of Penn and 51st streets. They were seen near the 10th and 11th streets, and the girls were trying to run across the street before the buggy passed. One was put on the head, and the other on the driver, who was the only person to drive the horses who saw the accident.

Extermination.—An item in Friday's paper we stated that a man named Neal had been robbed of his pocket book, and which was recovered by Mr. Phillips, who had the pocket book which were both taken by Neal, but they were both returned to him. On Saturday afternoon, the 23d, he engaged in numerous other transactions of a disreputable character, if not quite so true, but was still engaged in them, and was highly appreciated by a large number of them.

Charleston.—Two little girls, children of P. H. Hopkins, who keeps a house at No. 10, Franklin street, were taken from their home this morning by a horse and buggy at the corner of Penn and 51st streets. They were seen near the 10th and 11th streets, and the girls were trying to run across the street before the buggy passed. One was put on the head, and the other on the driver, who was the only person to drive the horses who saw the accident.

Extermination.—An item in Friday's paper we stated that a man named Neal had been robbed of his pocket book, and which was recovered by Mr. Phillips, who had the pocket book which were both taken by Neal, but they were both returned to him. On Saturday afternoon, the 23d, he engaged in numerous other transactions of a disreputable character, if not quite so true, but was still engaged in them, and was highly appreciated by a large number of them.

Charleston.—Two little girls, children of P. H. Hopkins, who keeps a house at No. 10, Franklin street, were taken from their home this morning by a horse and buggy at the corner of Penn and 51st streets. They were seen near the 10th and 11th streets, and the girls were trying to run across the street before the buggy passed. One was put on the head, and the other on the driver, who was the only person to drive the horses who saw the accident.

Extermination.—An item in Friday's paper we stated that a man named Neal had been robbed of his pocket book, and which was recovered by Mr. Phillips, who had the pocket book which were both taken by Neal, but they were both returned to him. On Saturday afternoon, the 23d, he engaged in numerous other transactions of a disreputable character, if not quite so true, but was still engaged in them, and was highly appreciated by a large number of them.

Charleston.—Two little girls, children of P. H. Hopkins, who keeps a house at No. 10, Franklin street, were taken from their home this morning by a horse and buggy at the corner of Penn and 51st streets. They were seen near the 10th and 11th streets, and the girls were trying to run across the street before the buggy passed. One was put on the head, and the other on the driver, who was the only person to drive the horses who saw the accident.

Extermination.—An item in Friday's paper we stated that a man named Neal had been robbed of his pocket book, and which was recovered by Mr. Phillips, who had the pocket book which were both taken by Neal, but they were both returned to him. On Saturday afternoon, the 23d, he engaged in numerous other transactions of a disreputable character, if not quite so true, but was still engaged in them, and was highly appreciated by a large number of them.

Charleston.—Two little girls, children of P. H. Hopkins, who keeps a house at No. 10, Franklin street, were taken from their home this morning by a horse and buggy at the corner of Penn and 51st streets. They were seen near the 10th and 11th streets, and the girls were trying to run across the street before the buggy passed. One was put on the head, and the other on the driver, who was the only person to drive the horses who saw the accident.

Extermination.—An item in Friday's paper we stated that a man named Neal had been robbed of his pocket book, and which was recovered by Mr. Phillips, who had the pocket book which were both taken by Neal, but they were both returned to him. On Saturday afternoon, the 23d, he engaged in numerous other transactions of a disreputable character, if not quite so true, but was still engaged in them, and was highly appreciated by a large number of them.

Charleston.—Two little girls, children of P. H. Hopkins, who keeps a house at No. 10, Franklin street, were taken from their home this morning by a horse and buggy at the corner of Penn and 51st streets. They were seen near the 10th and 11th streets, and the girls were trying to run across the street before the buggy passed. One was put on the head, and the other on the driver, who was the only person to drive the horses who saw the accident.

Extermination.—An item in Friday's paper we stated that a man named Neal had been robbed of his pocket book, and which was recovered by Mr. Phillips, who had the pocket book which were both taken by Neal, but they were both returned to him. On Saturday afternoon, the 23d, he engaged in numerous other transactions of a disreputable character, if not quite so true, but was still engaged in them, and was highly appreciated by a large number of them.

Charleston.—Two little girls, children of P. H. Hopkins, who keeps a house at No. 10, Franklin street, were taken from their home this morning by a horse and buggy at the corner of Penn and 51st streets. They were seen near the 10th and 11th streets, and the girls were trying to run across the street before the buggy passed. One was put on the head, and the other on the driver, who was the only person to drive the horses who saw the accident.

Extermination.—An item in Friday's paper we stated that a man named Neal had been robbed of his pocket book, and which was recovered by Mr. Phillips, who had the pocket book which were both taken by Neal, but they were both returned to him. On Saturday afternoon, the 23d, he engaged in numerous other transactions of a disreputable character, if not quite so true, but was still engaged in them, and was highly appreciated by a large number of them.

Charleston.—Two little girls, children of P. H. Hopkins, who keeps a house at No. 10, Franklin street, were taken from their home this morning by a horse and buggy at the corner of Penn and 51st streets. They were seen near the 10th and 11th streets, and the girls were trying to run across the street before the buggy passed. One was put on the head, and the other on the driver, who was the only person to drive the horses who saw the accident.

Extermination.—An item in Friday's paper we stated that a man named Neal had been robbed of his pocket book, and which was recovered by Mr. Phillips, who had the pocket book which were both taken by Neal, but they were both returned to him. On Saturday afternoon, the 23d, he engaged in numerous other transactions of a disreputable character, if not quite so true, but was still engaged in them, and was highly appreciated by a large number of them.

Charleston.—Two little girls, children of P. H. Hopkins, who keeps a house at No. 10, Franklin street, were taken from their home this morning by a horse and buggy at the corner of Penn and 51st streets. They were seen near the 10th and 11th streets, and the girls were trying to run across the street before the buggy passed. One was put on the head, and the other on the driver, who was the only person to drive the horses who saw the accident.

Extermination.—An item in Friday's paper we stated that a man named Neal had been robbed of his pocket book, and which was recovered by Mr. Phillips, who had the pocket book which were both taken by Neal, but they were both returned to him. On Saturday afternoon, the 23d, he engaged in numerous other transactions of a disreputable character, if not quite so true, but was still engaged in them, and was highly appreciated by a large number of them.

Charleston.—Two little girls, children of P. H. Hopkins, who keeps a house at No. 10, Franklin street, were taken from their home this morning by a horse and buggy at the corner of Penn and 51st streets. They were seen near the 10th and