TUESDAY MORNING: OCT. 27, 1863.

Another Draft.

Upon the response of the country to the President's proclamation, calling for volunteers, depends the question whether another resort to the draft will be necessary.

In the former draft under the law of 3d of March, 1863, about three out of ten men enrolled in the first class were drawn, leaving about seven-tenths of that class undrawn. The names of the men drawn in each sub-district are bound up in packages, and it is not likely that those packages will be opened (except to correct improper enrollments) until the names yet undisposed of shall have all been drawn.

Judging from the experience of the last draft, and the small number of men obtained from it for actual service, it is very probable that, should another draft be required through the failure of the volunteering enterprise, not less than four out of seven of the undrawn names of the first class will be required to meet the imperative wants of the service. It therefore becomes an interesting question of personal concern to every man who is enrolled in the first class, but not yet drawn, whether it is not much better to go in as a volunteer, and thus secure both the honor and the very liberal bounty offered by the Government, than to run four chances out of seven of being dragged involuntarily into the service.

It is supposed by the best informed men that one of the first acts of the next Congress will be to repeal or greatly modify the commutation provision of the law. One suggestion we have seen is, to raise the amount to six or eight hundred dollars, the money to be devoted to the support of the families of poor men who shall go into the service under the draft.

Men to fill up the depleted ranks of the army must be had. The time of the original three years' men will expire next summer, and their places will have to be supplied. Should volunteers come forward promptly and fill up the old regiments, the rebellion may, and probably will, be subdued before the term of service of the veterans now in the field expires. In that case the services of most of the new volunteers will be short and very profitable, both to themselves and to the country.

Each volunteer is allowed to choose the regiment in which he desires to serve. "Upon the back of each copy of the enlistment (says circular 96, dated Oct. 23d, from the War Department) shall be endorsed the regiment for which the recruit enlisted."

An absurd idea has gained currency among people who are not as favorable to the cause of the country as they might be, that the term of enlistment may be protracted to a longer period than three years, should the war continue so long. But here are the express terms of enlistment: "I do hereby acknowledge to have enlisted this ——day of——to serve as a soldier in the army of the United States of America, for the period of THREE YEARS unless sooner discharged by the proper authorities," &c., &c.

Every consideration—honor, patriotism and private interest—combine together in favor of this effort to put the war through by the voluntary services of the people. Let every man do what he can—go, if he can go, or make some sacrifice in aid of those who do go, if he cannot go himself. The people of each sub-district should call meetings and endeavor to secure as many volunteers as will exempt it from the operation of the draft. A generous emulation may thus be excited which shall lead to the happiest results.

Retribution.

The Richmond Whig, of the 20th of October, has a column upon what it calls "the war against women and children." The gravamen—as the lawyers say—is that the doors of all the boarding houses of that city are closed against these helpless creatures, whom the necessities of their condition have either driven into the public offices, or cast upon the streets, and the chivalry is rated soundly for its want of gallantry and cold neglect of those whom it was wont, in better times, to cherish and defend.

What a lesson is here! If there was any one thing which, above all others, not only "fired the Southern heart," but steeled it against the soft visitings of humanity and brotherhood, it was the fierce and demoniac hatred of northern men which seemed to have taken possession of all those bosoms in the South, which should have been only open to the gentler feelings, and ought rather to have thrown themselves, like the Sabine mothers, between the contending spears. None were so much interested in peace—none so likely to be damaged by war—as those whom the winds of heaven had not aforetime been permitted to visit too roughly; and yet it was they who drove their own natural protectors—their own husbands and sons—into the bloody field.

And now look at the consequences! They unsexed themselves, and made wolves and tigers of the men, and those who yet remain—true to the lesson which they taught them—are turning away these very women, with their helpless infants, from their doors, as they wander about through the streets of Richmond, seeking shelter and a miserable subsistence with hands unused to labor!

What a swift retribution is here! And yet how gladly would the despised Northern mudsills, whose homes have, in many instances, been made desolate by their insane fury, extend that relief to those deluded creatures which their own hard-hearted brethren deny them!

THE National Intelligencer argues that the emancipation edict has no practical value, and submits the following theses:

Slavery was everywhere destroyed by the hostile presence of our armies before the proclamation was issued;

Slavery is every where destroyed by the hostile presence of our armies since the proclamation has been issued;

Required to prove that it is the proclamation which destroys slavery.

In the first place, it is impossible to suppose that the proclamation of a Government so great strong as ours, the policy of a nation so great and influential, should be ineffective. In the second place, if the proclamation would be worthless without the armies to enforce it, it does not follow that the armies are not stronger with it. In the third place, that the decree of emancipation strengthens our armies in the work of emancipation, is proven by the fact that before the decree was issued proslavery generals returned slaves to their rebellious masters. With or without the proclamation, the tendency of the war is to destroy slavery. With the proclamation, it destroys slavery with the expressed authority of the nation.—Phila. Press.

Surgical Examination of a Conscript.

[From the Bunker Hill (Mass.) Aurora.]

The other day Chief Engineer Dean, of the Fire Department, called at the office where I make shoes for a living, and handed me a big white envelope, notifying me that I was drafted and must report myself for examination at Lawrence, on the 18th of August.

Now I consider it the duty of every citizen to give his life, if need be, for the defense of his country. So on the morning of the eventful 18th, I put on a clean shirt and my Sunday clothes, and started for Lawrence, to see if I could get exempted.

Lawrence is situated on the Merrimac river, and its principal productions are mud, dust, and factory girls. The city proper, or at least what I saw, consisted of a long, narrow entry, up one flight of stairs, adorned overhead with a frescoing of gas metres, and carpeted with worn-out tobacco quids, and furnished with one chair, two settees, and as many Bugs, square packing cases, marked "Q. M. D." Scattered around this palatial entrance hall were some forty or fifty conscripts, looking very much as if they expected to be exempted by reason of old age, before the young man with the ferocious moustache should notify them of their turn. Most of them, however, were doomed to disappointment, for, while they counted the hours of delay, the door would suddenly open, and the tall young man would single out a man and march him through the open doorway, to be seen no more.

By and by—that is, after several hours waiting—my turn came.

"John Smith!" shouted the doorkeeper.

"That's me," says I, and, with a cheer from the crowd, I entered a large square room where two persons sat writing at a table, and a third, evidently a surgeon, was examining a man in the last stages of nudity.

One of the writers at the table, a young man with curly eyes and blue hair, nodded to me, and dipping his pen in the ink, commenced—

"John Smith, what's your name?"

"John Smith," says I.

"Where were you born?"

"Podunk, Maine."

"What did your great grand mother die of."

"Darned if I know," says I.

"Call it happentap," says he; "and your grand father, too?"

"I don't care what you call it," says I, for I was a little riled by his nonsensical questions.

"Did you ever have boils?" says he.

"Not a boil."

"Or fits?"

"Nary fit."

"Or delirium tremens?"

"No sir-ee."

"Or rickets?"

"I'll ricket you," says I, for I thought he meant something else.

"Did you ever have the measles?" says he. Here I took off my coat.

"Or the itch?"

"Yes, sir," said I—"That ere fist (and I shoved a very large brown one within three inches of his nose) has been itching for the last ten minutes to knock your pesky head off, you little, mean, low-lived, contemptible whelp you."

"My dear sir," said the mild-spoken, gentlemanly surgeon, laying his hand on my arm, "calm yourself, I pray. Don't let your angry passions rise, but take off your clothes, so I can see what you are made of."

So I suppressed my anger, and, withdrawing to a corner, I hung my clothes upon the floor, and presented myself for examination, clad only with the covering nature had given, except about a square inch of court plaster on my right chin, where I had fallen over a chair, the night before, feeling for a match.

"Young man," said the surgeon, looking me straight in the eye, "you have got the myopia."

"Yes, sir," said I, "and a good one, too,—a little Boninger, with a drop of Stoughton, makes an excellent eye opener of a morning."

"And there seems to be an amaurotic tendency of the right eye, accompanied with ophthalmia."

"Shaw!" says I.

"And that white spot in the left eye betokens a cataract."

"I guess you mean in the ear," says I, "'cause I went in swimming this morning, and got an all-fired big bubble in my left ear." and here I jumped up and down two or three times on my left foot, but to no purpose. As soon as I stopped, he mounted a chair, and commenced feeling the top of my head.

"Was your family ever troubled with epilepsy?" says he.

"Only the two boys," says I; "when they catch them my wife always goes at them with a fine tooth comb, the first thing."

Jumping off the chair, he hit me a kick in the ribs that nearly knocked me over, and before I had time to remonstrate, his arms were round my neck and his head pressed against my bosom, the same way that Sophia Ann does when she wants me to buy her some new bonnets and things.

"Just what I thought," says he, "tuberculosis and hemoptsis, combined with a defect in the scapular membrane and incipient phthysis."

"Heavens!" says I, "what's that?"

"And cardiac disease."

"No?" said I.

"And pendardites!"

"Thunder!" said I.

"Stop talking. Now count after me—one."

"One," said I, dead with fright.

"Asthma! Two."

"Two," I yelled,

"Exotus of the right febular! Three."

"Three," I gasped.

"Coxalgia. Four."

"Murder," said I, "Four."

"Confirmed duodenum of the right ventricle! Five!"

"Oh! doctor, aint you most through? I feel faint!"

"Through? No! Not half through. Why, my friend, Pandora's box was nothing to your chest. You have sphynixians, and gloriosis, and conchellogis, and persiflage, and—"

"Here my knees trembled, and so I leaned against the table for support."

"And permanent luxetion of the interior lobe of the right phalanx."

"My only answer was a deprecatory gesture."

"And scrofulous diathesis and omaiopodites."

I sank to the floor in despair.

"Elluxiation!" he yelled, for he saw I was going fast—and maxilliarium and—"

I got exempted.

National Bankrupt Association.

An association has been organized with an office in this city for the purpose of combining the interests in favor of the passage of a national bankrupt act. The object is to secure the speedy passage of a bill to provide for the relief of honest but unfortunate debtors and the equal and just distribution of their property among their creditors, to whom it justly belongs, and allow the debtor to commence business again free from claims he could not pay.

A uniform system of bankruptcy in contemplated by the constitution, and at no time in our history has one been more needed than now, the business world being still crowded with the wrecks of 1857 and 1860. A wise and judicious act can be framed which shall meet the wants of the public and secure them against fraud. While detached efforts to induce Congress to pass a measure of this kind are likely to fail, vigorous and united effort will succeed. Those interested are invited to join the association and aid in pushing on the ball.—N. Y. Commercial.

SUCCESSFUL EXPEDITION IN NORTH CAROLINA.—A Newbern (N. C.) dispatch, dated October 20, says:

The recent expedition of Col. Simon Mix, of the 3d New York cavalry, through the northeastern part of this State, has returned to Newbern. The results are most important. The attempt to enforce the rebel conscription in the counties east of the Chowan river and south of the Albemarle Sound was effectually frustrated. The country has, by a tacit understanding, been considered neutral territory, and the Federal forces have refrained from occupying or garrisoning it, although virtually within our lines, it being separated from the interior by a wide river patrolled by gunboats. The citizens, appreciating this forbearance, and indignant at the bad faith of the rebels in endeavoring to impress them into military service, have now almost unanimously repudiated the rebel government, and call upon the Union forces for protection by the immediate establishment of posts at Edenton and Elizabeth City.

A FEW days since, a well-to-do business man applied to a banker in Chicago, to dispose of $10,000 in Galena and Chicago railroad stock. He had bought them some years ago at 60 cents; they were now quoted at 112—a good time to sell. The banker noticed the date, and remarked, "You must have received something handsome in the way of dividends upon this?" This startled the holder of the stock, who replied, "Why, no, I never received a dollar, never thought of dividends from the time I bought the stock, several years ago, to the present moment." He went straightway to the office of the company, and there found some $3,000 to his credit, for dividends.

IMMEDIATE CURE OF CERTAIN MALADIES, assuming a terrible aspect, by personally consulting DR. H. A. BARROW, Of New York, Proprietor of Triesemar, &c., &c., his professional duties requiring his presence in this city for a few days. He may be consulted at 152 THIRD STREET, until the 5TH NOVEMBER, and no longer, as his numerous engagements precludes the possibility of a longer stay.

A judicious supervision and inspection of diseases arising from imprudencies, enables the practitioner, experienced in those specialities, to adopt prompt and unerring means to remove the blight, and purify the tainted system, which, if allowed to take its course unchecked, assumes forms fearful to contemplate. Therefore, those unfortunately compelled to appear amidst the social circle with a system saturated with disease, or enfeebled by perverted habits, are exhorted to avail themselves of Dr. BARROW'S opportune visit without delay.

Remember the number, 152 THIRD STREET, between Smithfield and Grant. Office hours from ten till two, and from four till eight in the evening.

TRIESEMAR—Protected by Royal Letters Patent of England, and secured by the Seals of the Ecole de Pharmacie de Paris, and the Imperial College of Medicine, Vienna.

TRIESEMAR, No. 1, is the effectual remedy for Relaxation, Spermatorrhœa and exhaustion of the system.

TRIESEMAR, No. 2, completely and entirely eradicates all traces of those disorders for which Copaiva and Cubebs have generally been thought an antedote, to the ruin of the health of a vast portion of the population.

TRIESEMAR, No. 3, is the great and sure remedy of the civilised world for all impurities of the system, as well as secondary symptoms, obviating the destructive use of Mercury, as well as all other deleterious ingredients, and which all Sarsaparilla in the world cannot remove. Triesemar Nos. 1, 2 and 3 are alike devoid of taste or smell, and of all nauseating qualities. They are in the form of a lozenge, and may lie on the toilet table without their use being suspected.

Sold in tin cases at $3 each, or four $3 cases in one for $9, and in $27 cases, thus saving $9, as administered by Valpeau, Lallemand, Roux, &c. Wholesale and retail by Dr. H. A. BARROW, 194 Bleecker st., one door from Macdougal street, New York. Immediately on receipt of remittance, Dr. Barrow will forward Triesemar to any part of the world, securely packed and addressed according to the instructions of the writer.

Published also by Dr. BARROW, that popular and beautifully illustrated medical work, Human Frailty. Price 25 cents. Triesemar and Book can be obtained on Dental authority from J. B. MILLIKEN, Allegheny City, Pa. oc23:2wwT

SEMPLE CLAY. ST. LOUIS, MO.

Having accepted the Agency for the sale of the SEMPLE CLAY, mined near St. Louis, Mo., I invite the attention of Glass and Steel Manufacturers to the Analysis given above, as reported by Profs. A. A. Hays, of Boston, and J. C. Booth, of Philadelphia, which, together with the test of actual experience by manufacturers in Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis, determines it to be the purest and most valuable Clay now known, whether Foreign or American. Pots made from it have stood in the Glass Furnace from 6½ to 9 months.

The Analysis is of the Clay as taken from the mine, without any washing or preparation whatever. It possesses great adhesiveness and plasticity qualities, which are not shown by the Analysis, and which admit of the mixture of a large proportion of shell or burned clay.

I am now prepared to fill orders for the above Clay to be shipped from St. Louis or delivered here. ALEX. GORDON, No. 121 SECOND STREET, PITTSBURGH, PA. ja2:6m
