RESTORATION OF REBEL STATES

MONDAY MORNING, NOV. 9, 1863

Restoration of Rebel States

As state after state is rescued from the grasp of the rebels, the question as to the mode of accomplishing their restoration to the sisterhood of the Union, presses for solution and is not to be postponed.

The slave states may now be arranged in three classes, the loyal, the semi-loyal, and the rebel. In the first class we may place Delaware, Maryland, and West Virginia.

In the second, Kentucky, Tennessee, and Missouri. In the third, all the rest of the slave states. The first three are at this moment as firmly and unconditionally attached to the Union as Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, and Ohio.

There are two hundred thousand American citizens in arms in the Southern States against their former masters. They look to the day to-morrow with more confidence than they do to the day after to-morrow.

Who are these soldiers that have come to the front? Every man of them is a citizen and an elector. There is not an ignorant or involuntary soldier or conscript among them.

THE BATTLE OF PINE BLUFF, ARK.—Interesting Details.

A Cairo special to the Cincinnati Gazette gives the following interesting details of the battle of Pine Bluff, Ark., which was fought on the 10th of March, 1863.

By the steamer Linnah, we have late dates from Vicksburg, Memphis and other points on the Mississippi river.
