THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.
BY MAGNETIC TELEGRAPH.
EDITION FOR THE PUBLIC GOOD.
BY GRAFTON HUNTER & CO.
PITTSBURGH:
MONDAY MORNING, JUNE 16, 1817.

IMPORTANT FROM MEXICO.

ARRIVAL AT NEW YORK FROM NEW ORLEANS

SEVERAL OFFICERS MURDERED.

NEW PRESIDENT CHOSEN IN MEXICO.

Commencement of the Revolution.

PUEBLA, June 12, 10, A. M.

By the arrival of the Government steamer Montezuma, we have Vera Cruz dates to the 20th ult. Nyc. and the following from the rest of war.

Gen. Scott, having forgotten from General Santa Anna that the National Bridge—St. John was [illegible] Gen. Worth, Gen. C.I. Scott recently passed through Mexico from Washington, as bearer of despatches from that, which have no doubt fallen into the hands of the Mexicans.

The members were of the most brutal kind, and committed the outrages which are now exciting the rest of our.

Several companies of U. S. troops were also taken in garrison.

The Mexicans have reinforced by a part of the 1st Pa Regiment.

The Hospitals were full as follows.

The sick were many of our troops.

The city was still under the control of the Federal Government. (24) and three or four companies of the 1st.

Gen. Scott was in Rio Frio where Gen. Santa Anna was at Rio Frio with three thousand men, and gave notice of his intended movements.

Rio Frio is only eight miles from the city of Mexico.

Rio Frio where Santa Anna, has taken a stand is a most dangerous pass which our army can not avoid, and where the Mexicans can make a most desperate resistance. Here the road is covered with large rocks, and passes through deep, narrow defiles, and over high and rugged heights. Near Tenantlan, a small village, the road passes along the side of the mountains, in many places hanging over precipices of great depth, and where a few men could roll down rocks enough to prevent the passage of an army for days. Here the road is commanded by the heights of Popocatepetl, which, renders the pass still more difficult.

The intelligence brings us no hope or expectation that the difficulties will be settled.

Gen. Scott was expected at Puebla on the 8th instant but would not advance upon the capital without large reinforcements.

The Mexican Government has not attempted to say extent, the Mexican effort was a failure.

Chihuahua, and the ultimate effect was.

The Mexicans, under the encouragement given by the Administration, are robbing and murdering on the Rio Grande, and have driven off the whole of the Texas rangers, and nearly all the troops.

Gen. Santa Anna was at Rio Frio with three thousand men, and gave notice of his intended movements.

Rio Frio is only eight miles from the city of Mexico.

Rio Frio where Santa Anna, has taken a stand is a most dangerous pass which our army can not avoid, and where the Mexicans can make a most desperate resistance. Here the road is covered with large rocks, and passes through deep, narrow defiles, and over high and rugged heights. Near Tenantlan, a small village, the road passes along the side of the mountains, in many places hanging over precipices of great depth, and where a few men could roll down rocks enough to prevent the passage of an army for days. Here the road is commanded by the heights of Popocatepetl, which, renders the pass still more difficult.

The intelligence brings us no hope or expectation that the difficulties will be settled.

Gen. Scott was expected at Puebla on the 8th instant but would not advance upon the capital without large reinforcements.

The Mexican Army, from all accounts, are in a miserable plight. They were having continual skirmishes with the Guerillas, and living upon plunder. At last accounts, they were in the vicinity of Jalapa, and in a starving condition. They were deserting by thousands, and those that remained were without provisions, and almost naked