BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD.

From the Baltimore American of Thursday.

The following are the proceedings of the Meeting of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, held yesterday. It will be seen that the late law of the Legislature of Virginia, authorising the construction of the road through that State, on the condition that Wheeling is made the terminus of the road, was formerly accepted by the Company.

In pursuance of public notice, a meeting of the Stockholders of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company was held at the Company's office yesterday morning, at 10 o'clock.

At the appointed hour, on motion of Samuel Hoffman, Esq., the meeting was organized by appointing Edward D Kemp, Esq., Chairman, and Henry Hardisty, Jr., Esq., Secretary. The Chairman then announced that about 53,875 shares of stock were represented, which constituted a quorum.

Lytle McLane, Esq., the President of the Company, rose and stated that the object of the meeting was to consider the expediency of accepting the recent Act of the Virginia Legislature, which grants the right of way to the company to Wheeling. He then submitted the report of the committee appointed at a previous meeting of the Board of Directors to visit Wheeling and report the results of their investigations to the Stockholders.

When Mr. McLane sat down, John Glenn, Esq. stated that inasmuch as a majority of the Directors on the part of the State, were not present, and the interest of the State, which amounted to $4,500,000 would be unrepresented, he would move an adjournment until this (Thursday) morning, at 10 o'clock.

Michael C Sprigg, Esq., one of the State Agents present, then read a letter from his colleague, Col. Tilghman, stating that it would be impossible for him to reach this city before two o'clock in the afternoon. In order that the vote of the State might be given on the important question to be brought before the meeting, Mr. Sprig urged the adjournment. (The other State Agent present was A. B. Davis, Esq.)

Wesley Starr, Esq., one of the Directors on the part of the city, objected to the adjournment on the ground that his engagements would not permit him to be present at the adjourned meeting, and stated that as only six of the eight City Directors were present, some casualty might occur by which the city direction would be left in a minority, and the vote on the part of the city would not be cast.

Mr. Starr's views were sustained by T. Parkin Scott, Esq., one of the City Directors, and by Mr. McLane, Esq., the President of the Company.

Mr. Glenn then reduced his resolution to writing, accompanied by a motion for providing for the appointment of a Committee of two to procure a larger room for the use of the meeting.

[The room in which the meeting was held is the Directors' Room in the house occupied as the Office of the Railroad Company. It was filled to its utmost capacity, a large portion of those present being unable to sit down, and a dense crowd standing in each of the doorways. Many persons could not obtain entrance to the room at all.]

Mr. Starr moved to lay the resolutions on the table, as he was opposed to any adjournment, and thought the room large enough for the convenience of all those who had a right to be present. Considerable discussion ensued on the motion to lay on the table—Messrs. Starr, Scott, Swann and Hoffman favoring, and Messrs. Glenn, Geo. M. Gill, and Thomas Wilson opposing it. While the vote was being taken on the question, it was intimated that no objection would be made to an adjournment until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, which, it was alleged, would allow sufficient time for Mr. Tilghman, the absent State Agent, to arrive. Mr. Glenn accordingly withdrew his motion and John Nelson, Esq., moved an adjournment until that hour, which was carried.

Afternoon Session.

Pursuant to adjournment, the meeting assembled at the same place, at 4 o'clock. P. M. When it was called to order, Samuel Hoffman, Esq., stated that Mr. McLane, the President of the Company, had prepared a statement of his views in relation to the question about to come before the meeting, with various documents pertaining thereto, which he had designed reading; but that shortly after the morning adjournment he was taken ill, and was then under medical attendance. Mr. Hoffman asked that the statement of Mr. McLane might be made a part of the record of the proceedings of the meeting. This created some discussion, which was terminated by Mr. Hoffman withdrawing the papers.

T. Parkin Scott, Esq., then offered several resolutions accepting the Virginia law which makes Wheeling the terminus of the road, and authorising the President and Directors of the Company to proceed as early as practicable to the construction of the road to that point. A division of the question being called for, the resolutions accepting the law were passed almost unanimously.

Gen. Tilghman, on the part of the State of Maryland, then introduced as a substitute the resolution authorising the early construction of the road, a resolution declaring that the company shall not be obliged to go West of Cumberland until it was ascertained that the means for the completion of the road to Wheeling had been raised; and also a resolution directing the appointment of a committee of five to be composed of persons not members of the Board or officers of the Company, with the exception of the City Directors, and who shall represent the interests of the various Stockholders according to the amount of their stock, whose duty it shall be to examine with the chief engineer the different routes proposed to report the result of such examination to a future meeting of the Stockholders.

The introduction of this substitute created a long discussion, which was participated in by Gen. Tilghman, and Mr. Glenn, who supported it, and by Messrs. Scott, Swan, McKaig, of Cumberland, Richard Lemmon and John Nelson, who opposed it. The substitute was rejected by the following vote: Ayes 35, 550 shares; Nays 54, 718 shares.

The resolution offered by Mr. Scott was then adopted by about the same vote,

Thos. Swann, Esq. submitted a resolution requesting the President of the Company to furnish a copy of the remarks he was prevented from reading, for publication among the proceedings of the meeting.—The motion was agreed to, and about nine o'clock the meeting adjourned sine die.

The Microscope.—On reference to our advertising columns, our readers will observe that Mr. J. K. Kennedy's exhibition of the "Oxy-Hydrogen Microscope" takes place this evening, at Philo Hall. We need scarcely advise them to go, as so many inducements to attendance are held out that the difficulty is in staying away. The instrument is the best ever imported into this country, and was exhibited by the Emperor of Austria before it left Vienna. The magnifying power is immense, and the views most perfect. It will be something strange to see large monsters darting about in that fluid which we are accustomed to drink, and call pure.

From the Cork Reporter, July 27.

THE MACEDONIAN—PLEASURE TRIP TO COVE.

Seldom, if ever, has it been our lot to spend so truly pleasant and happy a day, as we yesterday enjoyed on board the Royal Alice, steamer, in the pleasure trip given by the citizens of Cork to Commodore DeKay, and the officers of the United States frigate Macedonian. To say that the trip was one of unmingled pleasure and delight, would but convey to our reader a very poor idea of the happiness enjoyed by all on board.

On leaving the East Ferry, H. M. steamer Bloodhound, waiting on the Admiral, followed in the wake of the Royal Alice to the mouth of the harbor. It was originally intended to proceed for some distance along the coast, but, on passing the lighthouse, several of the party began to dread the effects of sea-sickness, and accordingly the order was given to turn round and go up the beautiful Carrigaline river. This was the next spot visited, the steamer proceeding as far as Coolmore. The splendid scenery of this river excited the most enthusiastic admiration of all on board—the light breeze serving, if possible, to increase the deep beauty of the almost innumerable pictures which this spot presents. On leaving the Carrigaline river, a set of quadrilles was got up, and as the steamer arrived at Cove, just as they were terminated, the fair dancers may literally be said to have danced across the Harbor! The Royal Alice then passed the Crocodile and Macedonian a second time, and saluted them, the band playing Rule Britannia and Yankee Doodle. As it was yet but three o'clock, the steamer proceeded to visit several other points, from which a picturesque or beautiful scene could be obtained, and continued to sail about till four o'clock, when the whole party were landed at Haulbowline, and proceeded about the island, while preparations were making on board for the dejeuner.

Shortly after five o'clock, the whole sat down to a most sumptuous dejeuner on the quarter deck.—It is almost unnecessary to say that the entertainment was everything that could be expected.

The high sheriff of the city, and Andrew. Spearing, Esqs., officiated as vice presidents.

The dejeuner having been concluded, the mayor said the first toast was, "The Queen" (hear.)—He would say nothing of her majesty, but that she was the admiration of every lady, (hear, hear.) He would give them, her most gracious majesty, "The Queen," (loud cheers.) Drunk with all honors.

Air—"God save the Queen."

H. M. S. Crocodile fired a royal salute of twenty-one heavy guns, which was responded to by the Macedonian, from which a royal salute of the same number was also fired.

The Mayor then gave, "His Royal Highness Prince Albert, and the rest of the Royal Family." (Cheers.)

The Mayor again rose and gave, "His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, and Prosperity to Ireland." (Loud applause.) Air—"St. Patrick's Day."

Mr. J. F. Maguire then rose and said he had been honored by being asked to propose one of the most important toasts of the evening, "The President of the United States of America." (Loud cheers.)

Counsellor Walsh said he had been deputed to propose a toast, the mere mention of which must excite in every heart in Ireland the liveliest feelings of gratitude and affection. It was, "The Commander of the Macedonian." (Loud applause.)

The toast was drunk with all honors. Air—"Yankee Doodle."

Commodore DeKay, who, on rising, was received with loud applause, said he was deeply thankful to the gentleman who had proposed his health for the flattering terms in which he had done so. To feel that my efforts are thanked by the widow, the parent of the parentless, through the honored and talented, the wise and virtuous of Cork, more than repays me for all the anxieties the voyage may have occasioned me. Most thankful do I feel to that all wise Providence which has so blessed my humble efforts. (Loud cries of hew, hear.) I would here, in closing these remarks, take great pleasure in naming some kind and generous friends at home, whose names are most entitled on the list of charitable contributors, but to whom I am most deeply indebted for aiding me to accomplish my object with more care and greater promptitude; but as they desired to avoid publicity, it would ill become me to announce them by name. Let me again offer to you my warmest thanks for the kind, generous and faithful treatment received from you. Be assured it shall ever remain inscribed upon my heart, never to be erased while life remains—and let me add a hope, that the calamity which has befallen Ireland may be the last, and by attention to the culture of peas, beans and other grains, the peasantry of the country may not again be subjected to so dreadful a calamity as has the year befallen them. May G. . in his mercy, grant that no human efforts be spared to turn from this unmatched island the awful calamity under which you now suffer. Commodore DeKay concluded amidst loud applause, by proposing the health of "The Mayor."

The Mayor briefly returned thanks, after which Mr. George Peath sung a song, written by Mr. H. B. Cliffe, on board, and dedicated to Commodore De Kay.

Mr. J. Pickstand Berry proposed the next toast "The Health of Father Taylor,"—which he proposed in a speech of some length. The toast—"Father Taylor and the people of New England" was most enthusiastically received.

Father Taylor returned thanks. He said he was a man of very humble standing, without emolden, without soldiership, except a little self respect for his character. His country had been heard and supported by his gallant commander, who ran up honors by sheet hand and by guess—(laughter.) He (Father Taylor) had no claim on their gratitude—he had nothing to do with it. True, he collected money; but that was a trifle he had been long accustomed to—(hear and laughter.) He had been engaged in that occupation for five and thirty years, during which time he had had a full share in spending three millions of the charity money of the people of Boston. (Hear.) They were used to sending relief to those in distress. (Hear, hear.) He had only taken a share in this, but Commodore DeKay and Captain Forbes had done more; they had united a whole empire, twenty-four states into one great compact with Ireland (hear,) and had taken the ships of that nation to carry bread to them who were in want of it. (Hear, hear.) Who would have thought that such men could have conquered as it were a nation occupying more than one-fourth of the globe, and made them do this! (Hear; hear.)

But this only proved what man could do—man was man's property, and together all men must live. (Hear.) But he had nothing to do with dying, however. (Hear, hear.) He lived in a hurry, he spoke in a hurry, he eat in a hurry, and if ever he should die, he expected to die in a hurry.—(Laughter.) He always lived with the spring on his cable. (Hear, hear.) With regard to Ireland, she was suffering, but the canker worm was not at the root. God might try them for a time, but like Nebuchadnezzar's tree, Ireland should again flourish more brightly than she had ever before done. (Hear, hear.) It had been said by some of the old fashioned people of old times, that good came out of evil. He never found this to be the case—he found first good came instead of evil, and as he saw a sign of that approaching good, he said that Ireland's best days were those yet in store for her. (Hear, hear.) In the days when they thought themselves omnipotent—could they have been brought her as to-day, yet now that they had found they were but men, they all became as brothers. (Loud cries of hear, hear.) They were whigs and tories, Lord John Russell's and Sir Robert Peel's men, but they were all brothers.—(Hear, hear.) It was worth more to see their chiefs than courtesy and kindness than all they had brought from America.

The rev. gentleman proceeded for some time to exhort his hearers to continue in this spirit of affection. He had seen the Roman Catholics of other countries, but before he came here he said save me from the long gowns of Ireland—yet he never saw better people in all his life. (Hear.) The man who came here in command of the Macedonian was a kind hearted, generous man, and no thanks to him, for he did not know how to be anything else. (Hear.) His heart was as large as the morn and as open as the sun flower. (Loud cheers.) Yet he did not call this charity—it was only what was due to Ireland. Ireland had taken possession of America, and America had got England and Ireland, and they would keep them forever. (Hear.) Let them labor together and suffer together. Let not the mayor despair of success. America was groaning with bread, and Ireland was America's, and America was Ireland's. The Rev. gentleman concluded by proposing in most eulogistic terms "The Health of Father Matthew," which was enthusiastically received.

The very Rev. Mr. Matthew briefly responded. The tables were then cleared away and dancing recommenced. The Royal Alice continued to steam away through the harbor, and twilight had deepened into night before she stopped at Cove, when a large party, including the guests went on shore. The order was then given to proceed to Cork. On passing Horse Head one of the most beautiful spectacles that could possibly be conceived was presented to those on board. This was the illumination of the Matthew Tower at Mount Patrick on the property of Mr. O'Connor, of Marlboro' street. Every window of the tower was most splendidly lit up, and there far beyond us blazed in different parts of the ground. The effect was most magnificent, and excited the greatest admiration of all on board, mingled with regret that Commodore DeKay and his party were not on board to witness this tribute of respect on the part of one of our most liberal and generous citizens. The Royal Alice slowly steamed up the river to Merchants' quay, where she arrived at half-past ten o'clock, amidst the cheers of a large number of respectable citizens who assembled to witness the arrival, and the firing of guns from several of the vessels in port.

FOREIGN NEWS.

New York Aug. 29, 10 P. M.

The Cunard steamer, Captain Hoskins, arrived this morning from Liverpool, bringing dates to the 18th of July.

The market has been unfavorable, and a slight reaction has taken place in the Corn market; but prices have again declined.

The last three days prior to the departure of the steamer the weather was very fair, and the harvesting, which had been partially suspended, has been resumed with great activity. The crops are large and every prospect of an abundance is indicated.

Liverpool, Aug. 18.

There has been large arrivals of foreign Grain since Monday. This, together with the prospect of abundant crops, and a great pressure in the money market, has rendered speculation in breadstuffs very limited for the last two days.

The quotations of yesterday's market were—for Western Canal Flour 25s27s; for Sour 21s 23 shillings, Richmond and Alexandria Flour, 24s25s 6d; Philadelphia and Baltimore, 24s 6d a 25s.

Wheat has fallen 3d per 70 lbs, and Indian Corn 2s per quarter.

In Cotton the business of the week has been limited, but prices continue firm. In the early part of the week they were buoyant at an advance of ¼d per lb. The sales were, to last night, 22,000 bales; Bowed 7¾d; Mobile 7¾d; Orleans 7¾d.

For Fair Cotton the demand is now moderate, and the market quiet. The home trade in the article is dull, but for export there is a limited demand.

Provisions remain about the same, prices as per steamer Cambria.

Business in London is very much depressed on account of heavy failures. The funds maintain a steady position, with a tendency to improvement.

Consols 87⅞7⅞; Bank Stock is quoted at £195 a£197 per share.

Early in the week considerable uneasiness was caused by the houses in Coventry, Sheppard & Co. and King, Melville and Co. failing, with liabilities to the amount of half a million pounds sterling.

It is said there is scarcely a solvent flour house in London.

The Bank of England in regard to foreign exchange has already exhibited a decided improvement in rates.

The weather is now propitious for growing crops, and prices of breadstuffs are declining—Some think Flour will come down to 22s 6d per bbl.

The Britannia arrived last night.

By the arrival of the steamship Alabama at N. Orleans, Vera Cruz dates to the 15th inst. have been received. All was quiet at that city.

The most important news which arrived by the steamer was, that Gen. Paredes had arrived in Mexico. At the last accounts he was in Paris. He reached Vera Cruz on the 14th, in the English royal steamer Tevoot, under an assumed name.

This steamer was telegraphed from the Castle of San Juan de Ulloa, at 4 o'clock in the morning by English merchants, from a signal known only to themselves. They were conscious that a distinguished personage was on board, and his friends made preparations for his reception. All was kept as still as midnight, and not a suspicious movement made by which detection of improper conduct could be discovered on the part of English or Mexicans. The steamer anchored and landed the passenger.

He assumed the name of "H. Don Martino," from Havana. On arriving at the quay in Vera Cruz, leaped aboard the first boat which came along side, was received by his friends, and conducted to his quarters in the city. He borrowed 40 ounces of gold, a hat, coat, and three horses, and with two servants passed the gates of the city of Vera Cruz in thirty minutes after the landing.

The steamer's mail, in the mean time, came on shore, and among the letters were some to the Collector, an; others from Mr. Campbell, our Consul at Havana, disclosing the fact that the Ex-President of Mexico had taken passage on board the steamer, and directing them to look out for him.

The above news came out too late—the bird had flown.

We are deeply pained to hear of the death of Col. Wilson, of the 2d Infantry, who was represented at the last accounts as convalescent. He died on the 12th inst., and was buried on the following Monday.

He was to have commanded the train of Army Stores, which left Vera Cruz on the 7th inst.

DEATH OF SILAS WRIGHT.

New York, Aug. 29 8 A. M.

We regret to announce the death of Silas Wright Ex-Governor of the State of New York, and so long United States Senator. He died of apoplexy.

[The death of Silas Wright is an event equally unexpected and lamented. He was a man of rare abilities, and always distinguished for his courtesy and readiness in debate. Few men were entitled to occupy so exalted a position in the ranks of a party, and yet we have never seen a man so[illegible] of distinction. A nomination to the office of vice President was tendered him and he declined it and so of many other offices, equally honorable and exalted].—Eds. Gaz.

Captain Drake of the British ship Modesta arrived at St. Louis from Oregon, having left there on the 6th of May. Every thing in the new settlements is quiet and peaceful; and the prospects of the season were favorable.

The British Squadron stationed on the Pacific had not been heard from for the last eight months.

Captain Drake fell in with a party at Fort Hall which left California on the 4th of June. All was quiet at the time they left. Gen Kearney had the supreme command.

Col. Fremont had not been arrested at the time they left.

Com. Stockton's flag ship was at Monterey, and several other ships of the squadron were at Francisco.

The Emigrants to Oregon were progressing rapidly, and the Mormons had eighteen months provisions on hand. The Californians are opposed to their settling among them and say they will resort to force, if becomes necessary to prevent it.

Capt. Drake is not a bearer of despatches to the British government.

The steamer Joyaness was run into by the Talma at Cypress Bend, on the Mississippi, on the 20th ult, which caused the sinking of the latter immediately. The boat and cargo a total loss.—The engineer of the Joyaness was killed in consequence of the collision.

Telegraphic.—We are informed that the line of the Magnetic Telegraph has been completed to Cleveland, Ohio.

THE PATAPSCO INSTITUTE, NEAR BALTIMORE, MD., offers advantages for the EDUCATION OF YOUNG LADIES of a peculiar and united among these, and the following:

1st. Its location, in the mountainous region of Elk Ridge, and overlooking the Patapsco river and surrounding country, is eminently healthful; and combines in a high degree the beautiful and picturesque in scenery. Within a few minutes walk of the depot of the Cumberland Railroad; at Ellicott's Mills, two hours travel by railroad from Washington city and one from Baltimore, it is easy of access to travellers from all sections of the country. Omnibuses to and from Baltimore afford a convenient communication with that city.

2nd. Its spacious, elegant and commodious buildings afford private apartments for pupils for lodging and study, for recitation, music and lecture rooms, chapel and all other conveniences required for the perfect organization of a collegiate institution.

3d. Its extensive grounds, laid out in gardens and shrubberies, amidst lawns and groves, afford the pupils an opportunity for the cultivation of flowers, and offer inducements for active exercise and recreation in the pure, open air.

4th. Its large establishment of Professors, Teachers and other officers, secure to the pupils an amount of instruction and care seldom to be met with in any institution of the kind. At the present time fourteen Professors and Teachers are engaged in their several departments of instruction, the greater number residing in the family, and devoting their talents exclusively to the benefit of the Institute.

The Rev. Mr. Clarke, resident Chaplain, [is graduate of Yale College] is Professor of Mental Philosophy, and has charge of the graduating class in the department of English Composition. Miss Browne, the able and efficient Vice Principal, is assisted in the care and discipline of school, under the direction of the Principal, by seven female teachers, most of whom in addition to a thorough education, have had the benefit of long experience in training the young. These ladies live in constant intercourse with the pupils, who are accustomed to regard them not only as instructors, but as friends and companions. The French Department is under the direction of an accomplished Professor Mons. Levis, a graduate of the University of France, "licentiate en droit," who resides in the Institute, and devotes himself to the improvement of his pupils—affording them every advantage for acquiring facility in French conversation. The principal professor of vocal and instrumental music, T. Stratford Dauner, formerly a pupil of the Royal Academy of music in London, (under the celebrated Sig'r Crivelli,) and for some time a teacher at Kew Palace, is assisted by ladies eminently qualified as music teachers. Drawing, Painting is severally taught and Dancing are taught by Professors; and the National Sciences are explained and illustrated, experimentally, in lectures by Professor Aiken, of the University of Maryland.

5th. The Principal of the institute, Mrs. LINCOLN PHELPS, has had long experience in directing a Literary Institution, having passed many years as Principal and Vice Principal of the justly celebrated Troy Seminary, founded by her sister Mrs. Emma Willard, and after the plan of which the Patapsco Institute, is in many respects, modeled. Mrs. Lincoln Phelps is well known to the public as the author of Lincoln's Botany, and a series of works on Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, &c., and of sundry works on the Subject of Education, &c., some of which have been re-published in Europe, and translated into French and Italian. The head of the family, is the Hon. John Phelps, formerly a distinguished lawyer and Senator of Vermont.

6th. The retirement and seclusion of the Institute, and the strict supervision of its officers, should inspire parents and guardians with perfect confidence in respect to the safety of their daughters and wards, who are permitted to receive no visits except such as are sanctioned by the direction of parents, or by letters of introduction from them. An experienced Matron has charge over the clothing, health and comfort of the pupils.

The entire expenses per annum, for board and a full course of instruction, from two hundred dollars, to $300 and $400, according to the studies or accomplishments pursued. Circumstances may induce a departure from stated terms, but in general a liberal patronage is required to support the unsparing expenditures of the Principals for all that can promote the comfort, happiness or improvement of the pupils.

The Right Rev. Bishop Whittingham, who is officially "visitor" to the Patapsco Institute, expects "The late examination has afforded still greater evidence, if more were needed, how competent is Mrs. Phelps to sustain an institution inferior to none in the country of the kind."

The following is an extract from the report of the Examining Committee in 1846.

"The course of study, in the Institute, as presented to us in the examinatpn, embraces a comprehensive field of scholastic acquirement, and accomplishment, and the manner in which it is pursued, as well as results which have been attained, are highly creditable to the teachers and pupils, and give every assurance to the public that the great interests of education are cherished and secured in the Institute, to a degree which is, we believe, unsurpassed in any other Female Institution in the country." Signed by the Rev. H. T. Harrison, Hon. John P. Kennedy and Hon. Chancellor Johnson.

Extract of the report of the Examining Committee in 1847.

The course of instruction in the Institute, embraces a wide range, and the undersigned are convinced that every department is filled by teachers, eminently qualified, and zealous to instruct the scholars in the branches appertaining to each.

From the highly gifted Principal to the most subordinate teacher, all seemed animated by an earnest desire, and endowed with the requisite qualifications to advance the pupils, in all that can impart worth and charm to the female character.

The examination which has just closed, was so conducted, as to satisfy us, that the course of instruction is thorough, various, and ample. That what is taught, is perfectly understood, and that when a young lady has passed through the classes of the Patapsco Institute, and been imbued with the elevated moral principles which are there so sedulously inculcated, she is prepared to adorn any station in which it may be her future lot to be placed. In view of the high intellectual and moral culture which in our judgment the pupils of the Patapsco Institute enjoy, as well as the unsurpassed salubrity of climate, the beauty of the scenery and the convenience of access by which it is favored, we are persuaded we cannot too strongly commend it to the public patronage. Signed by Hon Chancellor Johnson Md; Dr R A Dunphat, Va; Jas Bartell, Esq. (E Shore) Md; Dr C W Jones, St Mary's Co, Md. April 8th, 1847.

Schools and private families may be furnished with qualified teachers from the normal or Teachers department of the Institute.

The sessions commence on the first Wednesdays of May and November, and continue five months. Pupils are received at any period, and can remain at the Institute during the spring and fall vacations, of one month each.

Applications for admission may be addressed to the Principal, Ellicotts Mills, Md. aug30d1w

Pittsburgh Musical Academy.

THE Fall and Winter Sessions of the Adelt Elementary Department of this Institution will commence on Monday Evening, August 30th at the H. A. former Theatre and Wood st.

This Institution,—for the instruction of Vocal Music—has been in operation two and a half years, and as at present is composed of 200 scholars, affords a rare and much needed opportunity for all who may desire to obtain a knowledge of the Art, at very little expense.

There are three Departments, viz:

1st—The Juvenile Department

2d. The Adelt Elementary Department.

3d. The Chorus Class.

The Juvenile Department meets every Saturday afternoon during the year and is for the exclusive benefit of children from 4 years old—upwards. The attention of Parents and Guardians is respectfully called to this Department, it is a well established fact that no period of life is more appropriate for commencing the cultivation of the Voice, than in childhood. That appropriate vocal exercises, tend to promote general health and strengthen the Lungs of children; as well as Adults, few who are familiar with the subject deny.

The course of the section for the Adelt Elementary Department will be thorough; commencing each quarter with a thorough course in the Rudiments of Music, thus giving the pupils an opportunity of frequently reviewing their study of the Science and at who wish to become members a favorable opportunity of doing so at any stage of the year.

The Third Department or Chorus Class, for the practice of music of a higher order, is quite separate and distinct from the other Departments. It is composed of Amateur Singers and members of the Elementary class—as they shall have made the requisite progress—and is exclusively devoted to singing Madrigals, Glees, Trios and Choruses, which will be performed with the following requisition: By application, personally or otherwise, to the Director of the Class, he admits any member of the class, and by the latter, enrolled and duly certified thereof. All members and contributors of the Academy have the privilege of attending all private rehearsals of the Chorus on Thursday evening, as spectators, if they desire but not as performers until they shall have complied with the foregoing requisition. No spectators, who are neither members or contributors of the Academy, will be admitted on Monday or Thursday evenings, except by special permit from one of the Directors in writing.

In conclusion, the Directors beg leave to say they have retained Prof. Bingham as teacher of the Violin, and Mr. Wable as leader of the Orchestra for the Chorus Class, and are making arrangements to accommodate several hundred people, and no effort will be spared to promote the splendor and decorum of the school-room, and enable the pupils to occupy the time allotted them both agreeably and profitably.
