

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE

BY RICHARD BREWER & CO.

SATURDAY MORNING, OCT. 18, 1847.

DEMOCRATIC AND REPUBLICAN.

"We have often observed that the public mind is more easily swayed by the popular than by the learned."

—Government Organ.

Xerxes had more than this. You have seen what this Mexican and his successive successors did, against the interests of the liberties of the people here, by the ravages he has spread over a neighboring Republic. Think you that America's valor has placed the American eagle over the eagle of Mexico?

—That the moral and intelligent people of the Union will sanction an Executive order which it has passed, is a swelling ester—which an old Ocean of wealth and power, and a wide world, will turn

at least one year, to the advantage of our country. —What else can we do?

With a clear pilot and portuguese water is this?

And yet we read of the usual example and effect of such triumphs over the world? —Washington

and Washington, —of Jackson and New Orleans—

—*of Scott and Lundy's Land—* or Ferry and Lake

—of the victories won; with Great Britain

—*with the Spanish—* weak and deserted— —*which a weak and* deserted— —which
