The words are by Mrs. Barbauld: How blessed the righteous when he dies! When sinks a weary soul to rast. How mildly beam the closing eyes, flow gently heaves the expiring breast! So fades a summer cloud away,
So sinks the gale when storms are o'er,
So gently shuts the eye of day,
So dies a wave along the shore.

A holy quiet reigns around,
A caim which life nor death destroys;
Nothing disturbs that peace profound
Which his unfettered soul enjoys. Farewell conflicting hopes and fears,

Where hightre and shaders alternate dwell;
How bright the unchanging noon appears;
Farewell, inconstant world, farewell:
The finneral sermon was by Rev. Mr. Gurley, Chaplain of the Houses, and it reconneted some only of the many virtnes of the deceased, dwelling most upon his respect for the religion of the Bible, and his love of the Divine Author. His doctrinalopintions were barely mentioned, while it was truly said that he had sincere respect for every Christian denomination. The last conversation Mr. Gurley had with Mr. Adams, (and it was Mr. A. who nominated Mr. Gurley as Chaplain) was when the venerable Patriot expressed his attonishment at the indifference of public men, and often of highly eduested men, to the great question of religion. To him, he said, such negligende and indifference had always been the subject of profound astonishment
Some interesting incidents in the early life of Mr. A were dwelt upon, and particularly the pious teachings of his mother,—one of the most remarkable wohen of the country, and an well fitted to domestic circle, as the elder Adams his place as one of the foremost men in the nation. Rerely has a child been blessed with such parents, and more rarely perhaps has a son reflected such honor upon those who gave him birth.

The silence of the vast congregation was of itself a sermon,—and the scene would have imparted to fore times of the she Ward and or in a body, with their officers, having yesterday adjourned for the purpose. The Balimore cars came yery full last night and to-day, as also the boats from the South.

The coffin was closed at half past 11 o'clock, in presence of the Massachusetts delegation alone, and the once familiar countenance forever withdrawn from human eyes. "This was the last of earth," because in such a farewell adied a doubly impressive lesson is given.

At trailre o'clock, the Bier was borne to the Hall of the House under the direction of the Pall Bearers. The chief mourners followed, and then the Massachusetts delegation in mourning.

During all this time minute guns were firing and the bells tolling. When all were seated in the House of Representatives, the scene was one-us. DEAR Siz.—I have the pleasure to acknowle to receipt of your esteemed letter of the 7th receipt of your esteemed letter of your este the trace of your esteemed letter of the 7th u hich has just reached me, in which you say:

"I had the honor of being called upon last exing to address a mass meeting of the Whigs so city and county of Philadelphia. At that meeting, your name was frequently mentioned in co uing to address a mass meeting of the Whigs of the city and county of Philadelphia. At that meeting, your name was frequently imentioned in connection with the office of chief magistracy. I state ted to that meeting, as I had before stated in my place in the House of Representatives at Washington, that you were a Whig, not indeed an ultra partissan Whig, but a Whig in principle."

All of which is entirely correct; and after the discussion which occurred in both houses of Congress, at the last session, growing out of the capitulation of Montercy, in which discussion you thought proper to defend my conduct in regard to that transaction, when assailed somewhat, if not entirely, on party grounds, I can hardy imagine on that transaction, when assailed somewhat, if not entirely, on party grounds, I can hardy imagine on the convenience of the complexion of my politics. At the last Presidential canvass, it was well known to all with whom I mixed, Whigs and Democrats—for I had no concealments in the matter—that I was decidedly in favor of Mr. Clay's election, and would now prefer seeing, him in that office to any individual in the Union.—
I must say I have no wish for the Presidency, and cannot consent to be exclusively the candidate of a party, and if! an one at all, or torbe made so at the coming election, it must be borne in mind that I have not beet, or will be, made so pot the purest, i greatly doubt my qualifications to discharge the duties property, of an office which was filled and adorned by a Washi.
