The entire increase by this Revenue Board on all the other 59 counties of the State is not quite $300,000 over the increase on Allegheny alone.—And yet Messrs. Craft and Price in defiance of their own report and the amount of increase their set down to Allegheny, attempt to explain away the iniquitous conduct of this much landed Board. 6,105,929 18,736,563 letters from this country. It is perhaps a severe remedy, but the Government have been provoked to it by the course of the British Ministry. The bill coafers the same powers upon the President and Post Master General as are conferred upon the Lords of the Treasury by the British Parliament. The power conferred is discretionary, and may be removed by our Government, as soon as the British authorities show any disposition to recede from the position they have taken.

The Committee on Post Offices are under instructions from the House to report a bill allowing newspapers to go free of postage within thirty miles of the place of publication. Public opinion in the Lower House of Congress is even in favor of reducing the rates of postage to a uniform sum of eve cents for all distances, and newspapers to the rate of one cent, whether within or beyond State boundaries. This may be the next postage reform forced from the Government by the People; but the time is not far distant when the postage on letters will be two cents, with merappers free. The present law is a great improvement upon the past, but we are far behind England both in postage recipit, under the penny rate, and in the promptitude and capacity of the imail service.

Our attention was called, a day or two since, to an official statement from the Auditor of the Post Office pepartment, made in answer to a call from one of the New York Members. It showed this result, that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania paid about one hundrad thousand delitar into the Treasury for postages, beyond the amount expended in this State for the transportation of scalls. But what is the defence set up by Messra. Craft and Price it all turns upon one item. all the rest are endmitted to be correct as stated by me. The whole amount at which trades, professions and occupations are assessed its liable to a charge for county purposes. But only where the valuation in each individual case exceeds $200 and then only on such excess is any charge made of state tax. The effect of this is that probably four-fullistic to the cases included in this item are not subject to any state tax. Now the excuse is, that, the return of the County Commissioners all not specify what part was under $200 and what was over $200. Mr. Price in his estimate assessed the whole of this as liable to state laxation at 10 million the dollar, and thus seeks a pretence to justify the Board, though every member of that Board knew that this was a Daring Robbert.—The desk drawer of the learn boat Caleb Cope, one of the Wellsvill Cincinnati, April 15, 1848.
