Governor on that day—if not the election cannot be legally held next October. The law speaks of the Separker of the Senate, or schoever shall be to the series of the object of Governor." But the Constitution makes no provision for any one exercising that office but the Speaker of the Senate ereising that office but the Speaker of the Senate of the Se tween the death or resignation of the Governo and the legal notification of the naw incumbers then the writ for a new election may have bee But, if it necessarily falls upon the Speaker, it is now too late, as we underst Mr. Johnson had not left Kittanning for Harrisburgh on the day the resignation took place.

Since the above was written, we learn that an express was despatched to Kittanning, on Monday-announcing to Mr. Johnson the resignation of Gov ernor Shunk, and requesting him to issue the writ this procedure may be questioned in several ways. It may be said, that Monday, the 10th instant, is too late to come within the letter of the law, as the election is on the 10th of October, and the law requires the writ to be issued three calendar months before the day of election. Again, it may be argued that Mr. Johnson has not received an official notification of Mr. Shunk's resignation, as the intelligence arrived here by telegraph. It also may cessary, in order to give official sanction to the writ, to have it dated from Harrisburgh, with the great seal of the State attached. These are some of the difficulties which may arise. We think it is much to be regretted, that, if it was thought best by Governor Shunk's friends that he should resign that it was not done before so that all the necessary formalities could have been legally attended to for a new election. The constitution and laws are sacred matters, and should not be trifled with; and although we would musuch a case as the present, agree to the most liberal construction in favor of an election next October yet we cannot but condemn the careless ness, or recklessness, on the part of the afflicted Governor's advisers, which has produced these
