Whigs rely entirely too much upon their confident belief that Taylor will certainly be elected, and they make no efforts to secure the result. This injudicious confidence may be found to be fatal when too late. What is doing by our Rough and Ready Clubs here? What to circulate documents, campaign papers, &c., and what to hold meet

A Western Railroad, Some days ago we called attention to a few str come days ugo we caused anemon to a rew sub-tistical facts respecting the trade which a rail road from this city—through central Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois would secure. The road which commences at that place, terminates at Mansfield, the county seat of Richland County, and distant from Sandasky between fifty and sixty miles. Almost its only business has thus far been miles. Almost its only business has thus far beer to carry the surplus products of a few counties to the Lake; and yet, the first year of its operations, it has paid expenses, and six per cent on the capital invested. The second year it did much more than this. It is now doing a large and profitable business; and yet the travel is but small, barely sufficient, with the carrying of the mail, to keep up a sincle delite coach from Mansfeld to Columbra. a single daily coach from Mansfield to Columb he Capital of the State. But, should a rail road b made from our city, through the center of Ohi would not only secure an immense carrying basi ness, but would draw a vast amount of travel We have not time to dwell longer upon this matter at present. We hope, however, that our citizen will direct their thoughts to the subject.

COMING RIGHT -The Canton, Ohio, Reposite states that Benj. F. Wade, Esq., one of the most prominent men of the Western Reserve, who had Taylor, but reflecting that Abolitionism in 1844 inconsequently, the annexation of Texas and the Mexican War—and fearing that opposition now might produce a similar result, by electing Gon. Cass—is now on the stump for Gen. Taylor. He spoke at a Taylor meeting at Ravenna on the 13th uh. Judge Humphrey, who lately bolted from the Locofoco ranks, also made a good speech in avor of Taylor. SALT LAKE VALLEY, GREAT BLSIN, Cotober 14, 1847.

Since my last I have gone through places and over such mountains as would make the heart of a Bostonian quake were he to come upon them unawares and unexpected—such as we have carried off some flowers, gathered by the way-side, which fade in our hands ere the evening approaches; some fruits, which we lose in tasting—enchantment, illusion! Still hurried on, thou approaches the guif: already everything begins to pass away; the gardens are less flowery, the flowers less brilliant, their color less lively, the meadows less smiling, the streams less pure—all fade, all pass away: the shadow of death appears; we begin to feel the approach of the fatal gulf. But we must advance to the brink, another step. Alrendy horror has seized upon the senses; the head grows dizzy, the eyes wander; on, on. I would retrace my steps; impossible: all has fallen, all has vanished, all is lost.

I need not tell you that this road is life—

A Classical Education—If it be asked how the morals are improved by a classical education, say that ancient history gives the purest models of virtue any where to be met with. And the youth who enters with enthusaisam into the struggles, teelings, and domestic character of the hero of Troy—who accompanies the ten thousand with admiration in their glorious retreat—who fights for liberty with the Spartan at Thermopyles, and gazes with delight on Athens shaded by the laurels of Marathon—cannot but rise from his studies with a more glowing philanthrippy, a nobler independence, and a more in some places near the main spring. Among the curiosities is the Salt Late, 25 miles off, even so all that it is impossible for a man to sink himself above his arm-pits, and after bathing there awhile the door of the dwelling-house of Mr. I. B. Chase, destroying one side of it entirely, and him in quite fast—his head will be white with it had falso the hots prings and the warm springs, the for mer are boiling bot all the time. The spring or hole it issues from in the mountain is as big as barrel, and the water pours out horizontally. The latter are not so large quite, but they resemble the former both in color (blue) and smell of the water, which is like brimstone, but very clear, they are about two miles from this location, and the people resort thirther to bathe in the warm springs, which are blood warm.

There is red and white clay, also lime-stone and many other kinds of stone in the mountains.

a friend. Such charges are calumnies upon his character, which all who respect him ought to repel.

Other stories have been set afloat—now proved to be fabrications and forgeries—with the design of affecting Mr. Crittenden's efection, and of estranging the friends of Mr. Clay from his support. Be fore this time, the proof is public in Kentucky that a base conspiracy was hatched in this city, the aim of which was to defeat Mr. Crittenden. I will not trouble my readers with the details, but the fraud was contrived to produce the impression that Mr. Crittenden had mainly been instrumental in bringing about the result at Philadelphia, and with a view offerthering that object, had writen letters depreciating the claims of Mr. Clay.

It is well that the charges were made in a form that admits of no equivocation, for the whole scheme is now detected, and fraud and forgery are the weapons which appear from beginning to end. It might have been sufficient for those who reflected, to have known that the notorious Lyna Boyd, of Kentucky, was at the bottom of his conspiracy, to have stamped it with discredit at the outnet.—He who, in 1944, revived the most infamous and outrageous calumny against Mr. Clay, that the black heart of evil mind of man ever fabricated—He who volunteered to defame, the character, and assail the motives of one who rendered his State illustrious. He who came before the world as the slanderer and revier of the age of Ashland. Such is he who now has the audacity to take the reputation of Henry Clay in keeping, and to charge cruelty and desertion upon those frender, who, for thirty years, have defended him against the brutal and cowardly assaults of fellows like him and their employeers. The vocabulary of propriety does not furnish terms sufficiently strong to stignatics such unblushing villainy with the approbrium which it deserves. But justice sooner or later will reach them, and I consign them to its judgement—that, which of all others, they would doubtless be most willing to avoid.
