to contemplate the idea of sevenity, or their self complacent reliance upon our indomitable power. The feeling is exactly white to that which I observ-ed on the part of the special constables against the Charitast in London, on the 10th of April. A sort of impatient strength which only wants an oppor-tunity to display itself, and which admits no ques-tion how we conselves should act, if we were un-der the same circumstances as our opponents. So wild, unreflecting, and contagions is this feeling at present, that this morning, in a public carrage, I aw a lady lay down a newspaper, with unmitiga-ted disappointment, which she had eagerly seized under as impression that it coptained, as she said, 'nows of a massacre in Ireland,' and re-turning this afternoon, a gentleman who sat oppo-ties to me, with the 'Church of England Magraine' that is agnotic within him, a fervent hope that the moment an outbreak took place the milita-bore that moment an outbreak took place the milita-that moment an outbreak took place the milita-tion is an an and the lader with remorseless a waaner-woman.
