TREMINATION OF THE TRIALS AT WASHINGTON FOR NEGRO STRALING.—The case of Drayton, Scar roa NEEZIO STEALING.—I no case of Drayton, Scars, and Eaglish charged with negro stealing have been disposed of finally. We fearn from Baltimore that Sears is sentenced to pay a fine, amounting in the aggregate to 14,800, to be imprisoned until the fine is paid. The punishment in the two convictions of Drayton will be not less than seven years in the itentiary in each case. If these conviction against Drayton are sustained by the court above, targes will doubtless be dismissed. After disposing of this business the court adjourned till Morday, there being over forty new cases to be yet tried. English was discharged.

The Wato Youns Mix of New York, had a grand rally on Tuesday evening. The Courier and Enquirer says "it was one of the largest, most harmonious and most enthusistic we have ever witnessed in this city. None held by any party since the opening of the present canvass can be compared with it in any respect, except the great Ce and street meeting of Ratification, which probably excesseded it to numbers, through it was inferior to it in every other respect. In point of humonov, ear sestimes of feeling and quiet though determined feel behalf of the good Whig cause and candidates, we have not seen its equal since the opening of the canvass."

And yet the Administration, fully informed of all these facts, stands by with folded arms, idly looking on!

At such a time, every true and genuine Whigall those who have so long, so patiently, and so perseveringly stood together in united ranks—abould feel that homor, country, future glory and present prosperity and success, called upon them to stand firm and unahaken to their post, and to their party obligations.

Yet, strange to tell, there are some Whiga who taking counsel from their own disstristiction with the Philadelphia nomination, rather than from a love of Whig principles and the success of Whig measures, have given countenance to proceedings intended to produce distraction in our ranks, and promote the success of Cass.

What are Whig principles worth, if they will not lead to the sacrifice of personal preferences? If there can be no cohesion in the party—on firm re solve to stand together, and fight until the foe is conquered, we may as well disband at once, and let the Locoficco party rule us until the country is completely ruined.

The New Orleans Balletin, in reply to an stman: and with us there us, it is the common fraility of man: and with us the consciousness that it is unalloyed by any selfish considerations. It is not the love of gain, nor the love of fame which would lead any man in our country to seek either through the public journal. There is no occupation so la-borrous, none so thankless, none where so many sacrifices are required both of social enjoyment, and physical health. It is labor all, but labor happily reliseved of some of its heaviest burdens, in the consciousness which the true man feels that his efforts are designed for the public good, in the diffusion of knowledge, and of good will among men.

diffusion of knowledge, and of good will among the diffusion of knowledge, and of good will among the state of the knowledge, and of good will among the state of the knowledge, and of good will among the state of the knowledge, and of good will among the state of the Republic, but with all the nations of the world. It has felt that Morality, Intelligence and Peace were the foundation of all true greatness, and the corner stone of a truly great Republic.

We have reached just now one of those points in our country's history when every element of the common good—the Press, the Pulpit, the Forum, the Work shop, the School room, all, from the sublime teachings of Religion to the severe demands of daily toll—should develope their respective virtues in order to save and preserve the Republic in its purity. All will be well now, and to the end, it good men of all sections of the Union manifest that forbearance and firmness which are alike necessary for the satety and happiness of all.

As one of the million, our sim is to contribute to this noble result; and while we shall never despair of the Republic, we feel that the only hope of a good Covernment, and the only desirable permanence it can have, must spring from the virtue and intelligence of the People. It is not by sectional jealousy, nor by sectional hate, that our country can prosper. We are for the Union, whatever its boundaries, for the common good of all, whatever their purposits, for the common good of all, whatever the purposits, for the common good of all, whatever the purposits, for the common good of all, whatever the intelligence of the People, whatever their purposits, for the common good of all, whatever the them the fag of the country.

The attack on Mr. Kelly, who is a delicate man, of quiet and inoffensive manners, was entirely unprovided. He had been annoyed by the assemblage of a crowd on his pavement, attracted by a lame man, who was singing and preaching at Mr. K.'s door. Mr. K. requested ham to leave his pavement, and shortly afterwards some lade commenced justing the lame man, when Tevus kicked one of them—a son of Mr. Daily, the stocking manufacturer. Mr. Daily told Tevis to desist from a boaring his son, when the latter threatened to strike Mr. D., using insulting and indecent language in the presence of Mr. Daily. Mr. Kelly came forward and rebuked Tevis for threatening so old a man, when the latter seleced Mr. K. and struck him repeatedly in the face, making several severe cuts near the eya, in the cheek, &c. Another, from the Journal, to the steamboat Skipper, and another from this office, to Messra. McGill and Roe. The rand having been detected, the perpetrator was at once identified, arrested and brought before Alderman McMaster, who required young Jewel to find five hundred dollars bail in each case, for his ap-

DESCRIPTION AND REVENUE.—A tremendous bettle occurred on Saturday morning, in the Diamond market, between two German women. It appears that one of the combatants had but recently arrived here from Germany, in pursuit of her truant hus-band. She met with him for the first time on Satunday morning, when she also discovered that he was living with another as his wife. The two spouses first met in the market square, and the deerted one immediately commenced hostilities browing eggs, &c., at her rival-who retur fire with equal spirit, until the husband's stock of eggs and other articles, which he had brought in to peddle, were pretty well demolished, when he inpounts, were precty west demonstrated, when he in-terrupted the proceedings, and chased away the assailing party. She then told the story of her wrongs—not, however, with tears—and marched off exultingly, leaving her rival to keep the hus-head white the market. and, while she sought a worthier object on which to bestow her affections.
