here. The Irish enthusiasm has broken out anew here, and meetings have been held all over the city, with as much spirit as ever. So great is their love of home, and so entent their desire to sustain political liberty to their countrymen, that they cannot see the hopelessness of an armed attempt, which can be as easily crushed as an outhreak in one of our Wards by the municipal authorines. We shall have more meetings and more contributions levied from the poor creatures, but Ireland will not be made free.

But suppose, on the other hand fifty thousand of those who voted for Birney has concluded to go with us, electing City by anti-sla-very votes, and deferring indefinitely the Annexation of Texas, how then? Would the obvious text that this class of voters were necessary to the Whig ascendancy—that their withdrawal would have been its overthrow—that they came to us be cause we were less objectionable than our adversaries—would alt these have been worth nothing? Let us consider a while. One disastrous, fatablunder ought to suffice for eight years at least.—

This anecdote, by a clever correspondent, reminds us of another, which we will venture to relate is this connection, thought it must needs suffer by the juxtaposition. Mr. G—— who had by degrees become so attached to his cups that he could not comfortably go by 11 o'clock without his 'nip' of brandy, and who was yet anxions to avoid the supplicion of being an habitual drinker, was in the habit daily of inventing some excess to the bark keeper and those within hearing. He had used up all the stereotyped reasons, such as a saight pain, a 'kind of suking,' not feeling girld,' &c. &c. &c. One Saturday, at the usual hour, he called for his brandy and water, saying. I am exitemely dry I am going to have sale fait for disnar? "Any excuse was better than none," he probably thought THE WESTERIN HAIL HDAD.
