PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE Congress meets to-day. at 12 M. If the President's message is delivered at the first meeting, we expect to lay it before our readers to-morrow morning, baving made arrangements to receive it by Telegraph. In that case, is possible our paper may be somewhat late, as a will take some 18 or 20 hours to telegraph so long a document as we presume it will be. Should the message not be delivered on Monday, our readers may look for it on Wednesday morning.

A Fact Worth Knowing.

If the Pennsylvania Central Rail Road is extended to Pittaburgh within two or three years. and the Pennsylvania and Ohio Road to Mansfield, in the same time, all of which can be easily ac complished, Philadelphia will have the first contin uous and direct rail road communication with the Great West, enjoyed by any city in the United States. She will then have access to all the inte-terior of Ohio, and enjoy a direct rail road communication with Lake Erie, with Cincinnati, and pos sibly by that time-and if not, shortly after-with ern Indiana and Chicago.

The New York and Erie road cannot, we think finished to Dunkirk, for five years to come, although the wonderful enterprize and ability of that company are worthy of all praise, and when that object is accomplished. New York will be a great way from a continuous and direct road to the interior of Ohio, without which she can never compet with the Penusylvania route. Ten years will hardly suffice to bring the Baltimore road to Wheeling, and then it is extremely doubtful whe ther there will be any rail road on the opposite aide of the river to meet it. is not this vantage ground possessed by Piladelphia worth thinking about and acting upon! Before any other eastern city can possibly compete with her, if size is true to herself, she can have inited the whole great west to herself by a net of rail roads, and so completely secured the trade, that it cannot afterwards be taken from her.

Pittsburgh and Allegheny County have lent her strong helping hand. We have given her one dollars to be appropriated to the western end of the Central Road, and have started the extension west from this city. She thus has the game fairly within her grasp, and if she does not

The Grand Menn Mig Butter Diverce Case
The case of Pierce Buller vs. Frances Ann Butter, a libel-for divorce, came up yesterday; before the Court of Common Pleas. To libel was affecting by the husband, alleging willul desertion by the wife trom is habitation, persisted in for more than two years. To this an answer, covering many pages of paper, has been put in by the respondent.

The suswer denies generally the fact of wilful The appayer donies generally the fact of wilful and malicious desertion as charged in the libet, and areas that she was forced to withdraw in consequence of his unlawful and wrongful conduct. It then avers that her absence was with his knowledge and subsequent usent. And lastly, that his treatment was cruel and rude, and such as to make her life burdensome to her, and justified her in repropung from his house.

aus knowledge and subsequent usent. And lastify, that his treatment was cruel and rude, and such as to make her life bordensome to her, and justified her in remoging from his house.

It appears that the parties were married on the 7th of January, 1531, and have two children, both girls, the eldest of whom is now threten years of age. The parties had lived unhappily together for some years previous to betober, 1542, at which time they agreed to separate as far as all the rights and duties of husband and wife were concerned, though they still resided under the same roof, but in separate apartments. Mrs. B. was to have a separate maintenance of $1,000 per year, the children's education to be superintended by the father, and the mother allowed to see them. They were placed under the control of a governes—Matters remained thus unto October, 1843, when in consequence of painful rumors affecting her husband, she felt that she had enterly 15st the love which she could never regain. Of the truth of those rumors she had no proof, but site spoke of them to ner husband, and felt assured that there was no farther hope of regaining as affection. Sastill remained in his house, hoping to be able to preserve her authority over her children, and manifestion remove the children to another house, and she wrote to him, asking to have the privilege of going with them, proposing to bury the occurrences of the past in oblivion.

His answer proposed to allow her that privilege on certain conditions, to consider which he gave her two days. The conditions were so repugnant to be refellings that she heatstack to accept them until the two days had passed, an accident happening to one of the children, which she thought demanded all a mother's care, she determined to accept the built of the children which her was the other house, and she wrote to his conditions. She avers that on this being communicated to him, he refused to accede to its conditions. She were sha on this being communicated to him, he refused to accede to the children when he

to it, saying that the 'two days' having passed without her accepting the proposition, she had abandoned her children. Matters remained this way until the children were removed to the other house, and the respondent being demed the privilege of going with them, she left there was nother course left to her than to remove to a boarding house, which she accordingly did in December. While here the visits of her children, which at first were duty, became less frequent and finally ceased altogether. Her allowance under the as greenent of separation was irregularly paid, and she avers that every means were taken by the fasther to prejudice her children against her. While boarding in Chestant Street, she received a letter from her sister in England, in which she was informed that Mr. Botter and written to me, and signified his willingness to receive her into the a letter from her sister in England, in which she was informed that Mr. Botter and written to ner, and signified his williamness to receive her into the house again, on the same footing is before if she would agree to certain conditions. She according ly wrote to the Rev. W. H. Furness on the subject, who wrote to Mr. Butler. Some correspondence ensued, and it was finally agreed by Mr. B. is receive her back, provided she agreed by Mr. B. is received to the Rev. W. H. Furness on the subject, eview her back, provided she agreed to certain conditions, which were reduced to writing. These conditions were such as she scripted much at assistant go, but finally did so. They were principally that she should abstain from any reterence to the occurrences of the post—that she should hat speak of Mr. Butler or write concerning that of she should have no interrourse, in word or act on, with the Sedgwick family; and would hences this lie to them as if they were entire strangers, and she had never known them. She was not to hoof any intercourse with any person whom Mr. B. disapprove of of, and it she winned to windraw from her agreements, was to give him motice.

These conditions she finally concluded to sinn, and on the 3l/of March, 1845, went to Mr. Butler's house, in Walnut street. She composans that while there, the management of her children was given entirely to the giverness—that she was rare by allowed to see them, and that when she did.

New York, Nov. 27, 1848. The arrival of the Cambria brings nothing to af makes certain, what needed no confirmation, and that is the cessation of a demand for grain at pay; ing prices. Mr. Walker's estimate of the wants of the Treas ury department are calculated to arrest attention. He says his wants until June, 1850, are $47,900,-000, an amount which his tariff will pay, should the imposts continue. Assuming the expenditure and the means as the Secretary estimates, the new administration will be found with a matter of som delicacy on hand, and find it a work of no small magnitude, to raise revenue enough for the govern-ment, without recourse to loans, and at the same ume check the imposts which must be done. The patriotism of New Yorkers is just now in process of being brightened, and a general sensi tiveness prevails, at the neglect to build a monu-ment to Washington. Subscribers to the "Art Union" are coming in as fast as the day for distribution approaches. The fund already reaches $45,000, a sum that will enable the Society to liake a distribution of pictures worthy of American art. The collection now is an inoner to any country, and he who asserts that the Western continent has not a school of its own, with artists competent to furnish pictures to adorn the gallery of an American, is too nice in his tastes to reside in America. The Field of Buena Vista.

We recently had exhibited to us the original of the celeurated letter from Gen. Taylor to Santa Anna, written on the field of Buena Vista, in reply to the summoning of Santa Anna to surreader with his army. This document is in the form of a note, being on a folded half sheet of letter paper. It is in pencil writen by Major mow Colonel, Bliss, and signed by ten. Taylor. The writing is very legible, and with the strength marked signature of General Taylor. There is nothing either in the note or the signature that indicates haste, but, on the contrary, judging from the general appearance of it, we should say from the general appearance of it, we should that both the writer and the signer of it were calm as a summer's morning when it was p
