PLANK ROADS. Our neighbors in the States of New York and Ohio, in all sections where rail roads are not practicable, are availing themselves of the benefits of plank roads. They have now been tried for a number of years, and have proved of great utility, ion with canal and rail road depota.

For instance—a plank road from Pittaburgh to Eris, through the counties and towns of Butler, Mercer, and Meadville, would be of immense ad coedingly bad in that direction, that almos with the inhabitants, during B great part of the winter season, at the very time when we might drive a brisk and profitable trade. Such a madladen with lumber, manufactured goods, butter choose, grain, and other staple produce of the coun try, and by people from the country, coming to trade with the merchants, affording evidence of the wisdom of the policy which dictated the libers expanditures of money in the construction of these

These roads are emphatically called the Fare with his own case and motive power. Among the most beneficial consequences of such improve ments", romarks an enthusiastic writer, "is the rapidly increasing proportion in which their bene-fits extend and radiate in every direction, as place we may conceive a number of concent profitably brought to market; the next larger circle may show the limit of finit; and so on. If new the roads are improved in any way, so as in any square of this ratio of increase. Thus if the im-provement enables a horse to draw twice as much

With the hope, that some of our enterprizing the direction of Buller, we copy the following exthe direction of Buller, we copy the following extract of x letter from Prof. Gillerjue (author of the 'Mannal of Road making') which was read at a recent public meeting in Schenectady, which conrecent public meeting in Schenec citizens will move in this matter, particularly in procured, the road will last much longer.

'Moor or Construction.-The best mode sended line with great care to avoid steep incinations, never ascending more than one foot in going distry of stry, and winding many feet around rathar than go up one. Grade the road bed wide smooth for two wagon tracks, but plank only one and that on the right hand side coming towards a city, for team generally come in heavy and go out light, and this arrangement makes the heavy ones keep the track, and the light ones do all the turning tout. Lay down flatwise two stringers, twelves by three, four feet apart, centre to centre. Imbed tham well in the earth; across them, at right ansies, lay three inch hembed plank, eight feet long.
The lengthwise and skewing methods of laying them are now abandoned. Pack the earth well up to them; alope the earth track toward the difther

imper stringers should be higher than the outer coses, so also carry the water off freely. They should be in two pieces, each 6 by 3, so as to break joints. The ends of the planks should not be laid to aline, but project a few inches, on each falle shemately, so as to make it easy for wheels to get on the track, and to avoid forming a rut along side. They need not be fastened down, but I would recommend spiking down, say, every fifth or tenth plank, the rest being well driven home against these. The stringers are now made heavier than formerly and the plank lighter. When Hemlock plank get work the plank lighter. When Hemlock plank get work the rest two backes, the knots project so as to make the rest two taches, the knots project so as to make the rest to cough; and to require renewal. Allow due in gir according to be the mind and we have three sheeks fisherness. Hemlock is generally used, as changes, but pine or oak would be better.

A single track will be sufficient for almost any amount of travel. The turnings out upon the earth road by the side of it areat such varied points, that has surface, if made properly crowning, will always seeman as good condition. 160,600 teams passed over a Syracuse road in two years, averaging more shan 200 a day; and for three days in succession 700 a day passed over it; and all this was on a single track.

The cost of the road will of course vary per mile.

Duration.—As to durability, seven years for seven would be a safe estimate, though our experience is as yet very limited. One set of stringsets will outlast two or three coverings of plank. But, to be profitable, the plank must have so much travel as to soor them our before they not out. The wear and tear of the first year equals that of the following six, as a, tough clastic conting of woody fires, doe, is soon formed, and protects the plank from wear. And the sooner they wear out, the better; for the sooner will their cost be thus repaid. On one road, the passage of 160,000 teams were the plank down but one inch.

On the Syran case and Central Square Flank road, the tolks on $3.00 two years, ending last July, ware

a connection with the various roads in Ohio, will double the trade and business of Pittsburgh, comnercial and manufacturing, within five years after tions. They are to our mind as clear as a mathe-matical axiom, and the result will show their truth. And we say further, that no city in the U. States

OHIO LEGISLATURE.

Mrw Orleans, Dec. 24, 1848.

The Cholera is on the increase in our city.—
Within a day or two past several new cases have occurred, and a number of deaths from that disease. There is now no doubt of its being the real Asiatic Cholera. The deaths have, thus far, been mostly at the Charity Hospital. Our citizens are much alarmed, especially so in consequence of the extraordinary and unusual middees of the weather, which is altogether unseasonable, and favorable, as is believed, to the spread of the feartin malady.

Thou are grown strangery merchus, repued fromwell.

Thou fearest, then said Jeffrys, "lest her groans and supplications might win thee to grant her re-quest?

'Lead us not into temptation,' interposed Col turning to Colonel Jefrys, but she shall be admile ted.'

The order was given to the attendants, and during a pause which made Colonel Jefrys tremble, for his client, Lady Deamonde was admitted. By this time, the sun had gone, and the ligh afforded by the red fame of the fire, which threw its glare fitfully and uncertainly on the inmates of that ancient room, was all that remained to reveal, in Elizabeth Deamond, as she entered, a woman of a sad and stately presence, and one on whom, if the lipse of years had done much, the weight of griefind done more, but setther had power to bow her form, or to quench the fire of an eye which looked mournfully but unquallingly on the group. 'Art thou the wife of the malignant, John Deamond's said Cromwell abrupty.'

I am his unshappy wife.'

'What wouldst thou?'

Pardon for my husband.'

THE CLOSING TRANS.

| Fig. 200. | Control of speciment of speciments of the product of the p of heart, is pleasant company. A careless rhymer whose heart is better than his head, says.—

'I would not escape from memory's land, For all the eye can view; For there's dearer dust in memory's land, Than the ore of rich Peru.

I clasp the feiters by memory twined, The wanderer's heart and soul to bind.'

It was a good thought suggested by an ingentious friead of mine, to make one's will annually and remember all whom we love in it in the degree of their deservings. I have setted upon the hint since, and truly it is keeping a calender of one's life. I have little to bequeath, indeed—a manuscript or two, some half dozen pictures, and a score or two of much thumbed and choice authors—but, alight as these poor mementoes are, it is pleasant to rate their difference, and write against them the names of our friends, as we should wish them left if we know we were presently to die. It would be a satisfying thought in sickness, that one's friends would have a memorial to suggest us when we were gone—that we wished to be remembered by them, and remembered by them among the first. And it is pleasant, too, while alive, to ohange evidence of affection. It is a relief to wexation and mortified pride to erase the name of one unworthy or false, and it is delightful, a nother gets nearer to your heart, with the gradual and sure test of intimacy, to prefer him in your secret register.

If I should live to be old, I doubt not it will be a pleasant thing to the pleasant thing to the content of intimacy, to prefer him in your secret register.
