From Bentley's Miscellany. Memoir of Captain Marryst, R. N., C. R.

BY G. WHITKHEAD.

The subject of the following brief memoir Frederick, was the second son of the late Mr. Marryat, the eminent West India merchant, and was born July 10, 1792. Having acquired the rudiments of education at an academy in the immediate vicinity of the merchant.

ships of war and merchantene were cut out, of the coast of France and in the Mediterranean. Having chased a ship into the bay of Arcupon, which sought safety under a battery, Lord Cochran resolved to cut her out, and young Marryat was one of the boarding party. He followed close-closely the first licettenant who headed the expedition, and who at length, after his party had sustained a severe loss, succeeded in gasining the deek of the enemy. He had scarcely done so when, strack by thirteen musket belish be fell back a corps, knocking down his follower in his fall, who was was trampled on and almost sufficated by his shipmates, who, burning to revenge their leader, reashed forward with impetuous b-avery.

The vessel captured, an examination took place of the bodies of the killed and wounded. Marry-at was numbered among the former, and being in a state of stuper was unable to deny the doom assigned to him. But soon arrived the surgeon and his assistants, and with them came a midshipman who bore no good will to Marryat. This worthy youth, seeing the supposed lifeless body of his compared, gave it a slight kick, asying, "Here is a young cock that has done crowing! Well, for a wonder, this chap has cheated the gallows." This salutation, with its comment, revived the aimset expiring energies of the other, who faintly exclaimed, "You are a liar," a retort which, notwithstanding the melancholy seene around, produced a roar of kandy and the surgest of the court which, notwithstanding the melancholy seene around, produced a roar of kandy and the surgest of the court which, notwithstanding the melancholy seene around, produced a roar of kandy and the surgest of the sur are a liar? a retort who tannity excusamed, "Tou are a liar?" a retort which, notwithstanding the melancholy scene around, produced a roar of laughter.

Shortly after this he was engaged in a rather "untoward" enterprise. His ship fell in with a vessel of a suspicious appearance. It was under French colors, which it soon hauled down, abrying no others, and threatening to fire into the English ship if it sitempted to board her. Upon this, she was boarded and threatening to fire into the English ship if it sitempted to board her. Upon this, she was boarded and taken, with a loss of twenty-saix killed and wounded on her side, and of sixteen on ours, and not till then was it discovered that she was a Maltese privateer, and a friend, who had made a like missake in supposing her opponent to be French. After this unfortuntate mistake, the imperiense proceeded to Malta.

It was while lying in this harbor that one night, a midshipman—a son of the celebrated William Cobbet:—fell overboard. Young Maryatt jumped in after him, and held him up till a boat was lowered to their assistance. For this daring and humane act he received a certificate from Lord Cochrane.

The road frimpBarcelona to Gerona, which latter place was besieged by the French, had been completely/commanded by them, for they had possession of the castle of Montgat. On the Sist July, 1808, Marryat had a hand to the reduction and levelling of that fortress. This proceeding greatly delayed the transmission of the renny's stores and provisions which were designed for their operations in Catalonia; so much so, indeed, that on one occasion the French correl was under the necessity of abandoning the whole of his artillery and field ammunition. During these operations he was twice wounded, and he a third time austained injury in the defance of the castle of Rosaa, under Lord Cochrane. On the arrival of the impercue in the defance of the castle of Rosaa, under Lord Cochrane.

For h onduct in the Mediteranean he was recond in Lord Cochrane's despatches.

The log of the Centaur, fing ship 74, of Sir. S. Hood attests, that in September, 1810, he jumped overboard and saved the life of a seaman named John Mowbray who had fallen from the meintop; and in 1811, when on his passage to join the Eoius on the American station, he leaped overhoard, and endeavored to save a seaman named John Walker. but did not succeed in doing so—But we must give this incident in his own words: One of the fore topmen, drawing water in the chains. One of the fore topmen, drawing water in the chains, fell overboard; the slarm was instantly siven, and the ship hove to. I ran upon the poop, and seeing that the man could not swim, jumped overboard to save him. The hight from which I descended made me go very deep in the water, and when I arose, I could precise blood on the man's hands. I awam towned him in the midst of his blood. I comprehended in a few moment that a slark had laken him, and expected that every instant my own fate would be like his. I wonder I had not sank with fear. I was nearly paralized. The ship, which had been guing six or miles an hour, was at some jdittance, and I gave myself up for gone. I had scarcely the power of reflection, and was over whelmed with the sudden, awful, and as I thought, certain approach of death in its most horrhle shape. In a moment I recoollected myself, and I believe the actions of five years crowded into my mind in as many mins utes. I prayed most fervently, and vowed amends, it is should please God to spare me. I was nearly a mile from the ship before I was picked up; and when the boat came alongside with me three large sharks were under the storn. These had devoured the poor sailor, and fortunately followed the ship for more prey, and thus leaving me to myself.

Mr. Murryatt obtained his promotion as lieutenant in 1812, and in the following year was appointed to l'Espeigle, Captain J. Taylor, in the West Indies. Walst on service in this vessel, he once more risked his life, in an unauccessful attempt to a wave the life of a sailor who had fallen overboard in a heavy sea. Licutenant Marryatt was picked up, utterly exhausted, more than a mile and a half from FEspeigle.—Having burst a bloodvessel, he was left behind in the West Indies, in sick quarters, and after a time was sent home invalided. In January 1813, he joined the Newcastle, 58, Captan Lord George Stuart, and led en expedition which was dispatched to cut out four vessels off New Orleans. This he did with a loss of I officer and 12 men. He acquired his commander's rank in 1815, and in 1820 commanded the Beacon, stoop, at St. Helens, from which he exchanged into the the Roserio, 18, in which vessel be brought home daplicate despatches, announcing the death of Napoleon. He was now actively engaged in the preventive service, in which he exchanged into the Issay, he saided to the Earne, 18, in March 1823, he saided to the Eart Indies, where, until the Barmese war in 1825, he was fully employed as Burness was in 1825, he was fully employed as senior officer of the naval forces, the order of Commotions Grant being, that none should interfere with or supersede him. Sir Archibald Campbell, the commander-inschief was received on board the Larns, at Calcuita, and Commander Marryaut led the strack at Rangoon. When Capitali Chads of the Arachus, relieved him in September 1828, he had lost nearly all his ship's company. He now proceeded to Penang and Calcuita, returning to Rangoon, in December 1824, and in the following February sailed with the late Sr Robert Sale, of glorious memory, on an expedition to reduce the territory of Bassien. On his return in April, having successfully performed this perilous duty, he was promoted to a death vacancy and commanded the Tees, which, on her arrival in England, he paid off.

Independent Way to California Those whose thoughts are anxiously fixed on the gold placers of California, will be attracted at once by the head of this article. An independent way of getting to California is the very thing they want een turned. A writer in the National Intelligen. cer, gives the following description of this way, which, it appears to us is feasible and worthy of nends itself to Pittsburghers who may have made up their minds to have a hand in the gold speculation, as they could rig out their wagons and fixtures, and be placed so far on their journey by steamboats, as to obviate much of the futgues of the journey contemplated by the writer in the intelligencer, whose plan is as follows: intelligencer, whose plan is as follows:

GOLDER TROUDERS—I never yet found pride in a nobie nature, nor humility it an unworthy mind a nobie nature, nor humility it an unworthy mind of all trees, I observe that God has chosen the vine—a low plant that creeps upon the delphil well; of, ell beasts, the soft and patient lamb; of ill fowls, the mild and guiltles dove. When God appeared to Moses, it was not in the lofty cedar, nor the spreading palm, but a bush, an humble, slender, abject beat, if if he would by these selections check the conceiled arrogance of man. Nothing produceth love like humility; nothing hate like pride.
