that it comes from an afficial source; that it has been for some time accessible to the authorities at Washington, with the evidence to sustain it, and that we have been ready from the first ta speak out fully on the subject, and wated only it the expectation that such a charge would be thought worthy at least of an inquiry, if not by the officials at Washington, certainly by the official organ of the Government."

The Baltimore Patriot replies to the interrogate ries which we made in relation to the point a which the Baltimore Railroad crosses the Monor tion to the point of intersection, as follows:

The questions having been directed to the Patriot especially, we have made acquiry, and feel authorizas follows:
Railroad will probably cross the Mono 3. There is legislation in Virginia not only anowing of such an improvement, but encouraging it by a conditional appropriation of funds.

If legislation be wanting in either Pennaylvania or Virginfia, it is only for the purpose of giving further peruniary encouragement to the improvement, the completion of which to the point where the Enlithere and Ohio Railroad will cross the Monong hela, will be demanded so strongly by the importance of that connection, as well as by the interests of the lacal trade of the rich valley of that beautiful river, as to ensure its ultimate accomplishment even without the contributions of either of those States, although they would greatly facilitate that object.

I accept with gratitude and pleasure your gift of this inestimable volume. It was for their love of the triths of this great and good book that our fathers abandoned their native shores for the wilderness.—Animated by its lofty principles they totaled and aufiered till the desert blossomed as the rose. These same truths sustained them in their resolution to become a free nution. And guided by the wisdom of this book they founded a government under which we have grown from three millions to more than twenty millions of people, and from heing but a speck on the borders of this continent we have spead from the Alantic to the Pacific. GEN. SHIELDS AND SENATOR BREENE-EXPLAN TORY CARD FROM THE GENERAL—We find in the National Intelligencer the following card, from General Shields, on the subject of the unfortunate Washington, Feb. 28, 1849.

It is with much reluctance I feel compelled to obtrade on the notice of the public a statement explanatory of a private letter addressed by me a few daysage, to the Hon, Sidney Breeze, and published by him, with comments, in the Intelligencer of this day. The facts are these: Mr. Breeze has been uona, conched in language which, under other circumstances, I would not have used, and upon reflection, and by the advice of my friends, I authorized two bonarable Schauers formally to with draw it. Mr. Breeze declined to yield it up, and the use he has made of it shows by what motives he was actuated.

That portion of my letter which he has distorted into a threat of assassination, I shall briefly notice. The means he used to prevent my eloction were of such a mature that the competition between us became a personni struggle, and, his triumph would have been an endorsement of his calumnies, my character and position were involved in the issue. I determined, therefore, as intimated in my letter, to render such a triumph unavailing by a thorough exposure of his character and conduct, thus turning into a moral pillory the position of Senator of the United States, which he would have acquired by the vitest misinterpretations. The interpretation he has put upon this threat—that is, that I had swould be equally prepositorous on my part seriously to repudiate such a meaning. Thutany same man an believe I would have assassinated Mr. Breeze, I have no apprehension. That Mr. Breeze would involve me on other maturer, I have no relish. I do not think myseff warranted, except in the case the shove statement, for self defence, in thrusting my personal concerns on the notice of the public my personal concerns on the notice of the public for elation to my letter, discutiles him to that consideration which might induce me under other circumstances to reply to his remarks.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS. Wassexurov, March 5th 4849. This day, at 12 o'clock, General Zachary Taylor President eject of the United States, delivered to the Senate and Members of the House of Repre sentatives of the United States, and thousands of American citizens, in front of the Capitol, the fo lowing Inaugural Address:

Elected by the American People to the higher flice known to our laws, Lappear here to take the oath prescribed by the Constitution; and in compl who are now assembled.

The confidence and respect shown by my coun trymen, in calling me to be the Chief Magistrate f a Republic holding a high rank among the n tions of the earth, have in spired me with feel ings of the most profound gratitude. But when effect that the acceptance of the office which their partiality has bestowed, imposes the discharge of the most arduous duties, and involves the weigh tiest obligations, I am conscious that the position which I have been called to fill, though sufficient o satisfy the loftiest ambition, is surrounded by

Happily, however, in the performance of my new duties, I shall not be without co-operation of the Legislative and judicial branches of the lo the support of any perticular section, or merely local interests. I this day renew the declerations I have hitherto made, and proclaim my fixed determination to maintain to the extent of my ability, the government in its original purity, and to adopt as the basis of my public policy, those great republican doctrines which constitute the strength of our antional existence.

In reference to the army and navy, lately*employed with so much distinction in active service, care shall be taken to secure the highest condition of efficiency, and in furtherance of that object, the military and naval schools sustained by the liberality of Congress, shall receive the especial attention of the Executive.

As Amencas freemen, we cannot but sympathize in all efforts to extend the blessings of civil and political liberty, but, at the same time, we are warned by the admonitions of history and the voice of our own beloved Washington, to abstain from all entangling alliances with foreign nations. In all disputes between conflicting governments, it is our interest no less than our duty to remain perfectly neutral. While our geographical position, the genius of our institutions, the advancing spirit of civilization, and above all, the dictates of religion direct us to the oull various of the mendits.

the genius of our institutions, the advancing spirit of civilization, and above all, the dictates of religion direct us to the cultivation of penerfoil and friendly relations withsall other powers.

It is to be hoped that no international question can now arise which a government, confident in its own strength, and resolved to protect its own just rights, may not settle by wise negotiation; and it eminently becomes a government like our own, founded on the morality, and intelligence of its citizens, and upheld by their affections, to exhaust every resort of honorable diplomacy, before appealing to arms. In the conduct of our foreign relations, I shall conform to these views, as I believe them essential to the best interests, and the true honor of the country.

The appointing power invested in the President imposes delicate and onerous duties, as far as it is possibly to be informed, I shall make honesty, co-

ese qualities shall and narrors, to provide for the speedy camiguian-ment of the public delt, to enforce a strict account-ability on the part of all the officers of the govern-ment, and the utmost economy in all public ex-penditures! But it is for the wisdom of Congress itself, in which all legislative powers are vessed by the constitution, to regulate these and other ters of domestic policy this Union which should be the permanent object of our hopes and affections. In any action calculated to promote an object as near the heart of every one who trulyfloves his country, I will scalously unite with the eco-ordinate brauches of the government. In conclusion, I congratulate my fellow-citizens on the high state of prosperity to which the goodness of Divine Providence has conducted our common country. Let us invoke a continuance of the same protecting care which has led us from small beginnings to the eminence which we this day occupy, and let us seek to deserve that continuance by prudence and moderation in our counsels.
